PREFACE

The plan of this work on BOOKKEEPING is simple yet comprehensive, and the work is graded and developed with a view to interesting the student and imparting to him a knowledge of the subject that will have both an educational and a practical value.

Nearly all entries in bookkeeping are simple in character, and this fact is emphasized in the exercises and sets herein given. To cultivate self-reliance many reviews are included. These reviews are so arranged that the student does the work without assistance. The chief object is to enable him to master the principles of bookkeeping, and then the application of these principles to the various problems that may arise in business is not difficult.

Business forms are provided for a number of practice sets. This portion of the work is of an elastic character and may be used according to the time allotted to the study of bookkeeping, the requirements of the course of study, or the inclination of the instructor.

The author acknowledges his profound obligations to his friend, partner, and coworker, the late John H. Moore.

The following persons read either the manuscript or the proof sheets, and the helpful criticisms and suggestions they made have contributed greatly to the value of the work: Henry R. Hatfield, Professor of Accounting, University of California; Stephen W. Gilman, Professor of Business Administration, University of Wisconsin; William M. Cole, Assistant Professor of Accounting, Harvard University; Joseph F. Johnson, Dean of the School of Commerce, Accounts, and Finance, New York University; Charles C. Jones, Principal of the Commercial Department, High School, Dunkirk, New York; Albert G. Belding, First Assistant, Far Rockaway High School, New York City; Myron F. Palmer, Principal Bay Path Institute, Springfield, Massachusetts; Elizabeth F. Atwood, Commercial Department, High School, Westfield, Massachusetts; Elizabeth Campbell, Commercial Department, High School, Somerville, Massachusetts.

Business men, bookkeepers, and accountants have also been consulted freely regarding many features of this text, and their practical suggestions have added to the working value of the book. A part of this text is developed from "Accounting and Business Practice."

BOOKKEEPING

PART I. INTRODUCTORY WORK

INTRODUCTION

1. It is of first importance that the student should begin his work in accounts at some point where knowledge of his own is readily associated with that systematic arrangement of the record of business transactions termed Bookkeeping. The unknown must come into definite contact with the known if the mind of the learner is to be led step by step to larger understanding. Students who know nothing of accounts are often very familiar with the buying of household articles, and understand that they get one value by giving some other value in return. The starting point in this text treats of the giving and the receiving of values, and this feature is developed by a series of graded exercises.

2. The ability to apply a principle is always of positive value; for this reason, in the body of the text, terms are described and applied rather than defined. However, for the accommodation of those instructors who wish formal definitions, an appendix is given in which terms are defined.

3. A script model set is given, worked out in all details, using the journal and the ledger, and the results and the condition of the business are fully shown. Later, when the cashbook, the purchase book, and the sales book are introduced, another script set is given for the student's direction.

4. The oral exercises include a large number of entries which cover an extensive variety of transactions. They afford material for study, for class discussion, and for instruction in the principles of bookkeeping.

5. At the close of each set, reviews are given which provide different kinds of work. In these reviews, the text gives the student no aid, but he has an opportunity to test independently the knowledge he has gained. Some of these review exercises have sufficient data for a complete set.

6. The first exercise in the student's work is found on page 7.

THE SCRIPT FORMS AND MODELS

In connection with the student's preliminary work he is directed to write some of the script forms given on preceding pages. These forms represent the highest excellence in penmanship and may serve as models in writing for the student. The plan, statement, and arrangement of these models may be a guide to the student in all his work throughout the book. The method of placing matter on the page and the completeness of explanations are parts of high-grade bookkeeping.

While writing these models the student is learning how to place business transactions on the written page in the most approved manner. Business records are not only valuable when made, but may be of especial importance years hence; therefore it is necessary that the statements be clear not only to the writer but to any person who may have occasion to examine them at any future time. If books are introduced into court as evidence, the explanatory part of the records is often the most important. It is the experience of attorneys that very few books of record that are brought into court have any value as evidence, because of the incompleteness of the explanatory matter. If explanations are not made clearly, a correct entry is of little value as conclusive evidence.

Erasures are not to be tolerated, as they not only spoil the neatness of the page, but often make entries look suspicious.

FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES

FOR ORAL WORK

A Business Transaction is an exchange of values; that is, the giving of one value in return for another.

A bought of B 20 T. coal at $5 per ton, and paid the money for it. Name the two values in this transaction. Which value did A receive? Which value did he give?

A sold to C 2 T. coal at $6 per ton, and received the money for it. Name the two values in this transaction. Which value did A receive? Which value did he give?

Each of the above transactions is an exchange of values. In the first, A receives value, 20 T. coal, and gives value, $100 in money. In the second, A receives value, $12 in money, and gives value, 2 T. coal.

A merchant sold a pair of shoes for $4; the value received by him was $4, and the value given was a pair of shoes.

A man sold a horse for $100; the value received by him was $100, and the value given was the horse.

A doctor occupied a suite of rooms which belonged to another man, for the use of which he paid the owner at the end of one month $50; the value received by the doctor was the use of the rooms, and the value given was $50.

A grocer sold John Bell a barrel of flour for $6, which was to be paid for in 10 da., a sale on credit or on account; the value received by the grocer was the expressed or implied promise of the customer to pay the bill in 10 da., and the value given was the barrel of flour.

A manufacturer paid B $2 for shoveling snow off his sidewalks; the value received by the manufacturer was the services of B, and the value given was $2.

C borrowed $100 of D, and at the end of 6 mo. paid $3 for the use of the money to date; the value received by C was the use of $100 for 6 mo., and the value given was $3.

Henry Brown bought a suit of clothes of his tailor for which he paid $40; the value received by Brown was the suit of clothes, and the value given was $40.

These represent business transactions, for they show that for every value received a value was given.

EXERCISE 2

FOR ORAL WORK

These items represent the transactions of a merchant, Edward M. Brown, for several days. Name the value received and the value parted with in each transaction.

- Feb. 1.* Bought of A. R. Dean for cash, 500 bu. wheat at $1.
 2. Sold Fred S. Lay for cash, 100 bu. wheat at $1.15.
 3. Bought of John Barr for cash, 50 bu. beans at $3.
 4. Sold Bell Bros. for cash, 30 bu. beans at $3.50.
 5. Bought of H. A. Leary for cash, a set of office books for $15.

This item is called Expense because the supplies were bought to be consumed, not to be sold, — an expenditure to carry on the business.

6. Bought of Thos. M. Day for cash, 200 bu. millet at $1.
 6. Sold S. A. Allen for cash, 100 bu. millet at $1.30.
 8. Paid John Race, a carpenter, cash for repair work, $6.
 9. Bought a delivery wagon of A. R. Meek for cash, $55.
 10. Bought a horse of James Crow for cash, $75.
 11. Sold J. H. Morse for cash, 200 bu. wheat at $1.15.
 12. Bought of Arthur Way 60 bu. beans at $3, and agreed to pay for them in 10 da.

In this transaction the value received is the 60 bu. beans, and the value parted with is the stated or implied promise to pay for them in 10 da.

13. Sold Isaac Mason 40 bu. beans at $3.50, and he agreed to pay for them in 15 da.

15. Gave John Weeks, a clerk, cash, $10.

EXERCISE 3

FOR WRITTEN WORK

Take a sheet of paper and draw a line through the middle of the page from the top to the bottom. On the left side of this line write the technical name of the value received, and on the right side of the line write the technical name of the value parted with, for each transaction in Exercise 2.

The technical term applied to goods bought to be sold is Merchandise; to any expenditure to carry on the business, Expense; to all forms of money, and business papers which pass as money, Cash.

Cash includes gold, silver, paper money, checks, bank drafts, money orders, etc.

March 6, Sold John Drew, on account, 10 Smyrna rugs at $4.75.

On the left side of the line write John Drew, because the promise was received from him.

8. Sold Ira Hicks for cash, 5 Smyrna rugs at $5.

9. Bought of D. K. Pearson for cash, 100 yd. ingrain carpet at 70¢.

10. Paid John Lane cash, to apply on account, $50.

On the left side of the line write John Lane, because the promise given was redeemed. In this transaction, to apply on account means that only a part of what was owed was paid.

11. Sold A. L. Derby for cash, 50 yd. ingrain carpet at 85¢.

12. Received of John Drew cash, to apply on account, $25.

On the right side of the line write John Drew, because he redeemed his promise.

13. Bought of Harry Lucas for cash, office books and stationery, $12.

13. Bought of A. F. Service for cash, 200 yd. matting at 45¢.

15. Sold Harvey Gilman for cash, 100 yd. matting at 60¢.

16. Bought of Harvey Pease for cash, 3 T. coal for office use at $6.

17. Sold John L. Smith for cash, 50 yd. matting at 58¢.

18. Sold Albert Owen, on account, 40 yd. matting at 63¢.

19. Bought of Amos Gibson, on account, 100 yd. velvet carpet at $1.

20. Sold Lester Ford for cash, 25 yd. velvet carpet at $1.40.

22. Paid Amos Gibson cash, to apply on account, $75.

23. Received of Albert Owen cash, in full of account, $25.20.

In full of account means that all that was owed on a given account was paid.

EXERCISE 5

FOR WRITTEN WORK

In this exercise use the same form as in Exercises 2 and 4. As a review, the exercise may be used first orally.

These items represent the transactions of a merchant, James A. Murphy, for several days.

April 1. Bought of Ball & Son for cash, 200 bbl. flour at $5.

2. Sold Henry Allen for cash, 100 bbl. flour at $6.50.

3. Paid John Weeks cash, for rent of the store for 1 mo., $50.

4. Bought of Hunt & Co., at 10 da., 500 bu. wheat at 95¢.

At 10 da. means on account, to be paid in 10 da.

5. Sold Powell & Co., at 10 da., 300 bu. wheat at $1.10.

6. Sold Lane & Son for cash, 50 bbl. flour at $6.50.

April 6. Bought of Harper & Co. for cash, 5 T. coal for office use at $6.

8. Sold Lee & Sampson for cash, 100 bu. wheat at $1.08.

9. Bought of Field & Co. for cash, 1 office safe for $65.

Transactions for April 9 and 10 may be treated as Expense items.

10. Bought of Derby Desk Co. for cash, 1 office desk for $35.

11. Bought of Wright Bros. for cash, 600 bu. corn at 50¢.

12. Sold Elder & Co. for cash, 50 bu. wheat at $1.05.

13. Paid Hunt & Co. cash, for the amount of the bill of April 4.

15. Received of Powell & Co. cash, for the amount of the bill of April 5.

16. Paid John Atlin, a clerk, cash, $10.

EXERCISE 6

TERMS EXPLAINED

All items at the left of the perpendicular line, in the preceding exercises, are debits, and all items at the right are credits; hence

Debits represent values received, and Credits values parted with.

A systematic classification of debits and credits in business transactions is called Journalizing.

A person who owes a debt is called a Debtor; a person to whom a debt is owed, a Creditor.

A Debit is an amount due the business, or the amount of a thing or a service received; a Credit is an amount owed by the business, or the amount of a thing or a service given.

By universal custom, the left-hand side of an account is the Debit side, and the right-hand side the Credit side.

As an oral exercise, go over all the transactions in Exercises 2, 4, and 5, and classify the values received and parted with as debits and credits.

EXERCISE 7

FOR WRITTEN WORK

These items represent the transactions of a merchant, Wm. L. Martin, for several days. Classify the values as debits and credits.

May 1. Bought of Brown Bros., on account, 1000 bu. wheat at $1.

2. Bought of Taylor & Co., at 10 da., 1000 bu. corn at 45¢.

3. Sold Henry Smith, at 15 da., 200 bu. wheat at $1.20.

The technical term for my written promise to pay money to another is, on my books, Bills Payable; for his written promise to pay me, Bills Receivable.

Some instructors prefer to use the terms Notes Payable and Notes Receivable. There is no objection to the use of these terms.

The following Promissory Note would be classified as Bills Payable by Henry W. Sherman, and as Bills Receivable by Morgan, Taylor & Co.

The name of the value given in the transaction of May 4 is here the name of the value redeemed.

10. Received of Henry Smith cash, for his note due to-day, $240.

The name of the value received in the transaction of May 5 is here the name of the value parted with.

11. Sold Wm. Jones, on account, 500 bu. oats at 50¢.

15. Paid Mary A. Brown, a clerk, cash, $20.

When a man begins business he usually makes an investment, so that he may be able to carry on his business. In these practice sets cash investments will be used.

In this set the proprietor, James Wilson, makes a cash investment of $2000.

INVENTORY, JANUARY 31, 19—

Merchandise:

179 bbl. Flour at $5	$895
131 bbl. Salt at $1	131	$1026

NOTE. The inventory is recorded immediately after the memoranda of transactions, just for convenience. The use of the inventory will be discussed in Exercise 23.

The fundamentals of bookkeeping are recognized by all bookkeepers, but the forms of record vary. One of the simplest forms of recording business transactions is to write the dates, the debit and the credit titles, a complete history of the transactions, and the money values of the same in a book called the Journal, including the daybook record or explanations, and to collect and classify these entries in a book of accounts called the Ledger.

This method is set forth in the introductory work.

ANALYSIS OF THE MODEL JOURNAL

The following is an analysis of each entry in the model journal. Similar analyses should be used in connection with all journalizing.

- Entry 1. Cash is debited because value was received by the business under the title Cash.
James Wilson is credited for the amount he invested in the business.
- Entry 2. Expense is debited because value was received by the business under the title Expense.
Cash is credited because value was parted with by the business under the title Cash.
- Entry 3. Merchandise is debited because value was received by the business under the title Merchandise.
For the credit, refer to the second part of Entry 2.
- Entry 4. For the debit, refer to the first part of Entry 1.
Merchandise is credited because value was parted with by the business under the title Merchandise.
- Entry 5. For the debit, refer to the first part of Entry 3.
For the credit, refer to the second part of Entry 2.
- Entry 6. D. Simons is debited because he became indebted to the business.
For the credit, refer to the second part of Entry 4.
- Entry 7. Refer to Entry 4.
- Entry 8. For the debit, refer to the first part of Entry 3.
O. Lane is credited because the business became indebted to him.
- Entry 9. For the debit, refer to the first part of Entry 1.
D. Simons is credited because he got out of debt to the business.
- Entry 10. O. Lane is debited because the business got out of his debt.
For the credit, refer to the second part of Entry 2.

EXERCISE 11

SUMMARY OF PRINCIPLES

In the study of the preceding exercises it has been seen that we

DEBIT	AND CREDIT
1. That which is bought	2. That which is sold
3. That which costs value	4. That which produces value
5. All moneys received	6. All moneys paid out
7. Persons who owe the business	8. Persons whom the business owes
9. Other persons' notes received	10. Other persons' notes when paid by them
11. Our notes received (paid)	12. Our notes given (issued)

The foregoing principles may be summarized as One General Principle for Journalizing, as follows:

Debit, under their appropriate names, all values that are received by the business. (See Debit, Appendix B.)

Credit, under their appropriate names, all values that are given by the business. (See Credit, Appendix B.)

These principles are not to be memorized, but should be referred to frequently until their meaning and application are well understood.

By the skillful application of this principle the debits and the credits of every business transaction may be determined.

EXERCISE 12

FOR WRITTEN WORK

Make an exact copy of the model journal, page 2, on a half sheet of loose journal paper. If journal paper is not available, rule a sheet of ordinary writing paper for a journal. This copy must be exact in every detail.

In making this copy omit the figure 1 in the page column of the model journal.

In the money columns at the right, when writing an even number of dollars, put a dash in the cents column. This shows that an omission has not occurred.

Keep this copy for a subsequent exercise.

DIRECTIONS FOR POSTING

An Account is a collection of debits and credits under one heading.

An account may contain but one debit or one credit.

A number of accounts may be seen in the model ledger, page 3.

The Ledger is a book containing the accounts of the business.

Posting is a process of transferring debit and credit items to their respective accounts in the ledger.

At present, all posting is from the journal.

The posting of the model journal is on page 3. This page is the model ledger.

Each different name that appears in the model journal requires an account or a heading of the same name in the ledger; therefore there are six accounts in the model ledger. The Proprietor's account is usually the first in the ledger.

To Open an Account, write in the ledger, as a heading, the name to which items are to be posted.

Note that in the model journal the debits and the credits of merchandise are distributed over the entire page. Then note that in the model ledger the debits and the credits of merchandise appear under the heading of Merchandise in one section of the page, entirely apart from other items on the page. Posting brings about this classification of debits and credits under appropriate headings.

The left and the right side of the ledger have the same ruling; the left is the debit side, and the right is the credit side.

Now examine the posting from the model journal to the model ledger.

By referring to the script set, the student has an opportunity to study posting in just the form in which it will appear in his own work.

In the model journal, in each entry, the name that is debited appears first, and the credit appears second. The first money column records the amount of the debit, and the second money column records the amount of the credit. All items in the first money column will be posted to the left (debit) side of the ledger; all items in the second money column will be posted to the right (credit) side of the ledger.

Now trace the posting of each debit item in the model journal to the model ledger.

The first item in the journal is Cash. Turn to the Cash account in the ledger, debit side, and note the amount, the page of the journal from which the item was posted, and the date. Above the date the year is written. The page of the ledger is placed at the left of Cash in the journal. The placing of these page numbers in both ledger and journal checks the posting; that is, shows that the posting has been completed.

The next debit item is Expense. Turn to the Expense account in the ledger and trace the amount, the page, and the date. Note that the ledger page is placed at the left of Expense in the journal.

In this manner trace the posting of each debit item in the journal.

The first credit item in the journal is James Wilson. Turn to his account in the ledger, credit side, and note the amount, the page, and the date. Above the date the year is written. The page of the ledger is placed at the left of James Wilson's name in the journal.

The next credit item is Cash. Turn to the Cash account in the ledger, credit side, and note the amount, the page, and the date. Remember to place the page of the ledger at the left of Cash in the journal.

In this manner trace the posting of each credit item in the journal. Review until all is clearly understood.

EXERCISE 14

ANALYSIS OF THE MODEL LEDGER

The posting of the model journal has been completed. The following is a full explanation of each account in the model ledger.

Each account having more than one item has been footed. (The minute figures in the accounts show this footing.) These footings should always be written in pencil. (See model ledger, page 3.)

James Wilson's account:

The credit shows that he invested $2000 in the business.

The debit shows that he has withdrawn nothing from the business.

Cash account:

The debit shows that the business has received $2539.

The credit shows that the business has paid out $1415.40.

Expense account:

The debit shows that value was received, — the use of the store, which cost $50.

Merchandise account:

The debit shows that the business has bought merchandise to the amount of $1565.40.

The credit shows that the business has sold merchandise to the amount of $639.

D. Simons's account:

The debit shows that he became indebted to the business to the amount of $244.

The credit shows that he paid $144 on his indebtedness.

O. Lane's account:

The credit shows that the business became indebted to him to the amount of $375.40.

The debit shows that the business has paid $175.40 on such indebtedness.

Similar analyses of ledger accounts should be made frequently.

The ledger is the book of accounts in business and is referred to very frequently for information that is wanted immediately; therefore one should be able to understand an ordinary account almost at a glance. For this reason, strong emphasis has been placed on the analysis of ledger accounts in the very earliest stages of the student's work in bookkeeping.

EXERCISE 15

TRIAL BALANCE OF THE MODEL LEDGER

The script trial balance, page 4, is a trial balance of the model ledger.

The trial balance is simply a list of the names and the totals of each open ledger account and shows that the debits and the credits are equal.

Study this trial balance carefully, and then take a trial balance of the model ledger and compare it with the script trial balance.

EXERCISE 16

FOR WRITTEN WORK

Each student has made a copy of the model journal on a sheet of journal paper.

Post this exercise, using a half sheet of loose ledger paper. Allow ten lines for each account. Write the accounts in the same order as in the model ledger. Post the model journal a second time.

In posting, write the name of the month and the year at the head of each account only once, and do not use ditto marks.

Post all the debit items first, and then all the credit items.

After the journal items have been transferred to the ledger, the posting may be rechecked. This checking is usually done to locate an error.

Determine whether the first debit item in the journal has been posted correctly to the ledger. If it has, place a small check (✓) in pencil at the left of the first money column in the journal, and at the left of the folio column in the ledger. Use a pencil for checking, and make very small check marks. These marks should not be erased.

The following script illustrations will show how this checking should be done.

EXERCISE 17

FOR WRITTEN WORK

Journalize Exercise 2, page 8, in the same form as the model journal. The names and the amounts are different from those in the model.

Under Feb. 1 the proprietor, Edward M. Brown, makes a cash investment of $1000. (An additional item.)

Make the memorandum and the entry for this investment, and then journalize the other business transactions.

When goods are bought, an invoice is received by the buyer and placed on file; for this reason the items of the invoice need not be recorded in the explanatory portion of the journal.

When goods are sold, an invoice is sent by the seller, and a copy of it is not always kept on file; for this reason the items of the invoice should be recorded in the explanatory portion of the journal.

These explanatory portions of the journal are held to be of great value in courts of law.

Use loose half sheets of journal paper and ledger paper. In the ledger allow ten lines for each account.

Recheck the posting. Take a trial balance.

Pass all work to the instructor.

EXERCISE 18

FOR WRITTEN WORK

Journalize Exercise 4, page 9.

Under March 1 the proprietor, Richard S. Rowe, makes a cash investment of $1200. (An additional item.)

Post to the ledger and then recheck the posting.

Take a trial balance.

Pass all work to the instructor.

EXERCISE 19

FOR WRITTEN WORK

Journalize Exercise 5, page 10.

Under April 1 the proprietor, James A. Murphy, makes a cash investment of $1100. (An additional item.)

Post to the ledger and then recheck the posting.

Take a trial balance.

Pass all work to the instructor.

EXERCISE 20FOR WRITTEN WORK

Under May 1 the proprietor, Wm. L. Martin, makes a cash investment of $1250. (An additional item.)

Post to the ledger and then recheck the posting.

Take a trial balance.

Pass all work to the instructor.

EXERCISE 21SET B. FURNITURE

Journalize the transactions in this set, as in the model journal, on a half sheet of journal paper.

As a class exercise, each transaction may be journalized orally. Give the reason for each debit and each credit named.

MEMORANDA OF TRANSACTIONS

Feb. 1. Wm. A. Morton began the Furniture business and invested cash, $1800.

2. Paid E. R. Law cash, for rent of the store for 1 mo., $35.

12 Library Tables at $22.50

10. Sold John E. Smith on account:

10 Library Tables at $27.50

13. The proprietor withdrew cash for personal use, $50.

When the proprietor makes an investment the business receives money from him, and when he withdraws money for his own use the business gives money to him; therefore the entry is just the same as for any other person to whom money is paid.

15. Bought of John Hastings for cash:

EXERCISE 22

EXERCISE 23

FOR ORAL AND WRITTEN WORK

INVENTORIES AND THE CLASSIFICATION OF ACCOUNTS

The student may verify the inventory given in Set A, as follows:

How many barrels of flour were bought? How many barrels were sold? How many barrels should be on hand?

How many barrels of salt were bought? How many barrels were sold? How many barrels should be on hand?

An Inventory is an itemized statement of the value of the goods on hand.

An inventory is usually taken at cost prices.

An inventory of merchandise is never found by taking the balance of the merchandise account. This is true because the cost prices and the sale prices are not the same, and the true condition of the account can be shown only by using the inventory.

Expense and other items are inventoried frequently.

This is true because only a part of that which was charged to Expense may have been consumed or disposed of.

The inventories in each set should be copied into the journal immediately following the last journal entry.

Unless otherwise instructed, date each inventory under the last day of the month in which the set was written.

The inventories are recorded in the journal as a matter of convenience. In business, it is a common practice to make out the complete inventory on sheets of paper; these sheets are then bound and filed for subsequent use.

In working out the following classification of accounts, refer to the model ledger and the model trial balance on pages 3 and 4.

In the Merchandise account, what are the total purchases? the total sales? What is the value of the goods on hand (the inventory)? Now it can be determined if any gain has been realized.

By putting together the amount of the goods sold, the credit, and the value of the goods on hand (the inventory), the money value of the Merchandise account at the close of the month is shown: $$639 + $1026 = $1665$. These goods cost (the debit) $$1565.40$; the difference ($$1665 - \1565.40) is $$99.60$, the gain.

To summarize, using two methods:

No. 1		No. 2
Merchandise :		Merchandise :
Cr.	$639.	Cr., sales	$639.
Inv.	1026.	Dr., cost	$1565.40
Total	$1665.	Less inv.	1026.
Dr.	1565.40	Cost of sales	539.40
Gain	$99.60	Gain	$99.60

In the work of this text the first form will be used. Note the working out of this result in the model statement, page 4.

Refer to the Expense account. What was the expenditure to carry on the business for the month? This is a loss. Why?

If the gain on merchandise is $$99.60$ and the loss on expense is $$50$, what is the net gain, that is, the excess of the gain over the loss?

Find the net gain in each of the following, and make a written statement according to the model, page 4.

1. Merchandise account: debit, $$655.20$; credit, $$503.50$; inventory, $$254.25$. Expense account: debit, $$55$.

2. Merchandise account: goods bought, $732.50; goods sold, $525; goods on hand, $310. Expense account: debit, $45.

3. Merchandise account: debit, $1235.25; credit, $894.75; inventory, $521.50. Expense account: debit, $75.

4. Merchandise account: goods bought, $1052.60; goods sold, $825; goods on hand, $410.15. Expense account: debit, $60.

EXERCISE 24

FOR ORAL AND WRITTEN WORK

CLASSIFICATION OF ACCOUNTS

In working out this exercise refer to the model ledger and the trial balance on pages 3 and 4.

Refer to the Cash account in the trial balance. What is the total cash received? the total paid out? the balance on hand? Is this balance a resource (property on hand) or a liability (amount owed)?

What is the condition of D. Simons's account? Does he owe the business, or does the business owe him? Is the balance a resource or a liability?

If he owes the business, the amount owed is a resource.

What is the condition of O. Lane's account? Does the business owe him, or does he owe the business? Is the balance a liability or a resource?

If the business owes him, the amount is a liability.

Is the merchandise on hand (inventory) a resource or a liability?

For the present, treat all inventories as resource items.

The difference between the resources and the liabilities is the capital, or the present worth.

In the Proprietor's account, James Wilson, what is the total investment? the total withdrawal? the net investment (the balance of the Proprietor's account)?

If James Wilson's net investment is $2000 and the business has gained for him $49.60 above all losses, what is he worth on January 31?

In the above exercises it is clear that each open account (an account that does not balance) has a positive bearing on the condition of the business, and if these results are properly classified, both what has been accomplished by the business and the present state of affairs may be determined.

In business, these results are usually set forth at stated periods, either once or twice a year.

TERMS DEFINED AND EXPLAINED

Books are kept for the purpose of determining the results and the condition of the business.

The Results are shown by the gains realized, or the losses sustained.

A formal statement of losses and gains is usually called a Business Statement.

The Condition is shown by the resources and the liabilities.

A formal statement of resources and liabilities is usually called a Financial Statement.

The Net Gain is the excess of gains over losses.

The Net Loss is the excess of losses over gains.

Resources or Assets are property belonging to the business, or amounts due the business.

Liabilities are amounts owed by the business.

The Present Worth or Capital is the excess of resources over liabilities; the excess of liabilities over resources is Insolvency.

In all loss and gain accounts:

If the credit, including the inventory, is the larger, the account shows a gain.

If the debit, including the inventory, is the larger, the account shows a loss.

Gains are realized:

If resources increase and liabilities remain unchanged.

If liabilities decrease and resources remain unchanged.

If resources increase and liabilities decrease.

Losses are sustained:

If liabilities increase and resources remain unchanged.

If resources decrease and liabilities remain unchanged.

If liabilities increase and resources decrease.

In personal accounts:

If the debit is the larger, the account shows a resource.

If the credit is the larger, the account shows a liability.

If a personal account is given up as not collectible, it then shows a loss.

In the introductory part of the text all inventories are resources.

A trial balance is a copy of the ledger, only in a more convenient form.

The bookkeeping thus far explained is in double-entry form, and the cardinal principle of double-entry bookkeeping is Equal Debits and Equal Credits.

EXERCISE 26

A WRITTEN REVIEW

Herewith are a number of trial balances from which statements of conditions are to be made, using loose sheets of journal paper.

As an oral exercise, it may be first determined which accounts show resources or liabilities, losses or gains.

NOTE. Unless otherwise instructed, use the form of statement given on page 4.

Then make the statements, as follows:

1. Copy the trial balance at the head of the journal page.
2. The Loss and Gain Statement, showing the net gain.
3. The Resource and Liability Statement, showing the present worth.
4. The proof or verification of the statements.

Date each statement Jan. 31, 19—.

Pass all work to the instructor for approval.

EXERCISE 27

FOR WRITTEN WORK

In this exercise use the trial balances the student has made in Sets A, B, and C. Follow the directions given in Exercise 26.

This work should be done without reference to the textbook.

After each statement is approved by the instructor, keep all work for a subsequent exercise.

Make statements from the following trial balances; the inventories will be found in the textbook at the close of each set:

1. Exercise 9, Set A.
2. Exercise 21, Set B.
3. Exercise 22, Set C.

THE EXPENSE INVENTORY

The Expense inventory is made up of items which when bought were charged to Expense; the unused portion, at the time of making the statements, constitutes the inventory.

Illustration: If 10 T. coal were bought at the beginning of the month, and 4 T. were unconsumed at the end of the month, the 4 T. would constitute the inventory.

When there is an expense inventory, the loss on Expense is found as follows:

Expense:

Dr.		$65.50
Inv.		15.50
Loss			$50

The loss is the difference between the debit of the account and the inventory.

In making the resource and liability statement, record the expense inventory as a resource, just the same as the merchandise inventory. In the loss and gain statement, subtract the inventory from the debit of expense, as shown in the above illustration.

It is unusual for the Expense account to have any credits. If some item that was debited to expense when bought should be sold, then expense would be credited.

If a man bought a safe for $60, his entry would be: Expense, $60, Cash, $60; if he sold it for $50, his entry would be: Cash, $50, Expense, $50. After posting these entries, there will be both a debit and a credit item in the ledger account of Expense.

EXERCISE 28

FOR WRITTEN WORK

The results and the condition of the business in Sets A, B, and C have been shown by the statements just made. The next step is to show the results of the business in the ledger. To do this it will be necessary to close the Loss and Gain Accounts in the ledger.

To close the ledger it is necessary to close only such accounts as affect the results shown by the business; that is, the accounts that show loss or gain and the Proprietor's account.

Preparatory to closing the ledger the student should have some exercises in ruling.

The ruling of the following ledger page is the same as the ruling required in closing a ledger account. Practice this ruling until it is done well. Use red ink for this exercise.

Notice that the single line extends over only the dollars and cents columns, while the double lines cover all the perpendicular columns, the explanatory column excepted.

In business it is customary to show actual results, that is, make business and financial statements only once or twice a year. The ledger is closed after such statements have been made.

EXERCISE 29

CLOSING THE LEDGER

The following script page is an illustration of a ledger closed properly. Study the following explanations in connection with this page.

To close the Merchandise account:

1. Enter the inventory on the credit side, in red ink.

2. Find the difference between the sides of the account, the inventory included. This difference is the gain.

3. Enter the gain on the debit side, in red ink, under Loss and Gain.

4. Rule and foot the account; write the footings in black ink.

5. Bring the inventory below the rulings, on the debit side, in black ink, under Feb. 1.

6. Transfer the gain to the credit side of the Loss and Gain account, in black ink, under Jan. 31.

The principle of equal debits and equal credits must be rigidly enforced; therefore the entries in red ink, as the inventory and the gain, must be transferred to the opposite side of the ledger. This was accomplished as directed in 5 and 6.

To close the Expense account:

1. Enter the inventory on the credit side, in red ink.

2. Find the difference between the sides of the account, the inventory included. This difference is the loss.

3. Enter the loss on the credit side, in red ink, under Loss and Gain.

4. Rule and foot the account.

5. Bring the inventory below the rulings, on the debit side, in black ink, under Feb. 1.

6. Transfer the loss to the debit side of the Loss and Gain account, in black ink, under Jan. 31.

If there is no inventory in this account, simply enter the debit footing as a loss. See illustration on page 5.

To close the Loss and Gain account:

1. Enter the difference between the sides of this account as net gain, on the debit side, in red ink.

2. Rule and foot the account.

3. Transfer the net gain to the credit side of the Proprietor's account.

To close the Proprietor's account:

1. The net gain has been entered on the credit side, in black ink, under Jan. 31.

2. Find the difference between the sides of the account, the net gain included. This difference is the present worth.

3. Enter the present worth on the debit side, in red ink, under Jan. 31.

4. Rule and foot the account.

5. Bring the present worth below the rulings, on the credit side, in black ink, under Feb. 1.

The student will now make an exact copy of the closed ledger on page 5. Use a half sheet of ledger paper.

5. Merchandise: debit, $565; credit, $339; inventory, $319.50.
6. Expense: debit, $74.50; inventory, $35.

Find the net gain or the present worth in each of the following accounts :

1. Loss and Gain: debit, $86.45; credit, $92.50.

EXERCISE 32

FOR WRITTEN WORK

The ledgers which the student posted and kept will now be used for this exercise. After closing each ledger keep it for a subsequent exercise.

In each ledger open a Loss and Gain account, immediately following the last account on the page. Use the inventories given in the text.

1. Set A. Close the ledger. Compare the results with those shown in the statement of this set.

2. Set B. Close the ledger. Compare the results with those shown in the statement of this set.

3. Set C. Close the ledger. Compare the results with those shown in the statement of this set.

After closing the above-named ledgers, close the Cash account in each by balance, according to the following model :

Cash

	19-		19-
Jan.	1	1 1250 10	Jan.	1	350 25
	4	1 950 64		3	1 703 84
	7	1 240 69		4	1 133 50
	9	1 175 40		7	1 910 03
	10	1 100 50		9	1 189 56
	11	1 309 24		14	1 120 40
	26	1 530 53		31	Balance 1565 26
	30	1 415 74
		3972 84			3972 84
Feb.	1	Balance 1565 26

Closing an account by balance has nothing whatever to do with closing the ledge..

After closing the above account the condition of it is shown as a single item, the balance.

It is sometimes a great convenience to close an account by balance when it covers a large part of the ledger page, even before it is necessary to transfer the balance to a new space.

Any account may be closed by balance when the space assigned to it is filled and it is necessary to transfer it to a new space.

It is often desirable to close any account when it balances ; this form of closing is shown on page 24.

Red ink is used commonly for rulings of all kinds, for closing entries in the ledger, and for records that require emphasis. In closing, the ledger entries to be transferred to some other place are usually written in red ink, and entries that have been transferred from some other source are always written in black ink. The transfer is necessary to preserve the balance or equality of the ledger.

The use of red ink is largely a matter of custom. Many bookkeepers use no red ink at all, insisting that it is a waste of time to change from one color to another. The use of red ink is advised for exercises in this book.

EXERCISE 33

SET D. HARDWARE

Journalize the following transactions, post, take a trial balance, make the two statements, close the ledger; close the Cash account by balance, and then take a second trial balance.

Write on loose sheets of journal paper and ledger paper.

If the student is able to do this work without assistance, he is ready for subsequent work; if not, he should rewrite one or more of the preceding sets.

MEMORANDA OF TRANSACTIONS

Allow ten lines for each account in the ledger.

In the resource and liability statement, bills receivable are always a resource, and bills payable, always a liability.

EXERCISE 34

CORRECTION OF ERRORS

The correction of errors in books of record is a matter of special importance. Even careful workers make occasional errors, but corrections can be made so that the neatness of the books and their legal value are not affected. When an error is made, consult the instructor before attempting to correct it. Do not erase.

If a journal entry is wrong, correct it as follows: Draw a red line through the wrong name, and then write the correct name either above or at the right of the correction, as follows:

Cash	Received check for	102	50
E. May Bills Rec.	note due today			102 50

If a journal entry is reversed, it may be corrected by writing, in red ink, Cr. after the debit item and Dr. after the credit item. Then post correctly.

Cash- Cr.	Invoice of L. A.	176	20
Masv- Dr.	Bond, #3			176 20

If it is found that a wrong amount has been entered in the ledger, correct as follows:

1. Rule a red line through the wrong amount.
2. Write the correct amount in black ink just above the amount canceled.

Cash

¹⁹⁻ Sept. 1		1	5000	-	¹⁹⁻ Sept. 2		1	450	-
	5	1	750	-		9	1	580	-

If an amount has been entered on the wrong side of the ledger, correct it as follows:

1. Draw a red line through the amount that is wrong.
2. Enter the correct amount in black ink on the proper side of the ledger.

Cash

¹⁹⁻ May 1		1	5000	-	¹⁹⁻ May 2		1	450	-
	9	1	546	-		9	1	546	-

NOTE. Sometimes a correction may be made by a counter entry in the journal. To illustrate: Suppose one had made this entry, Mdse., Dr., Cash, Cr., and it was a wrong entry. It may be canceled as follows: Cash, Dr., Mdse., Cr. As the wrong entry is thus disposed of, the correct entry may now be made.

FORMS OF STATEMENTS

Business and financial statements are made in many different forms, depending on the character and the volume of the business, and the facts that are to be set forth.

In a business under the control of one proprietor, a very simple statement may answer every requirement. In a partnership, when a number of persons are interested, a more complete setting forth of the facts of the business is necessary. In a corporation, organized under the laws of the state or the nation, the statements must show the results and the condition according to the demands of the authority under which the corporation is organized. In cities where many departments require separate accounting, still another form of statement may be demanded to set forth the facts that public business requires to be made known.

On pages 4 and 40 simple statement forms are presented. The first is recommended for the beginner.

As the student advances in the work of this text he will become familiar with other forms of statements.

THE SIX-COLUMN STATEMENT

The following script model represents a form of statement which affords condensed information regarding the results and the condition of the business. The first two columns are the trial balance. The inventories are recorded in the proper columns, either resource or liability, in red ink, to distinguish them from other resources and liabilities. After recording the inventories, each account in the trial balance should be extended into the column where it belongs. The footings show the various column totals, and the summary at the bottom sets forth the net gain and the present worth.

SET I. RETAIL FUEL AND FEED BUSINESS

The Object of this set is to illustrate in a practical manner one of the simplest forms of bookkeeping. In the preceding illustrative work the student has recorded all transactions and entries on loose sheets of journal paper and ledger paper, but now he is given a set of bound books, in which all records will be made.

The Books used are the journal, the ledger, and the statement book. No business forms are handled, but different forms are illustrated, and entries are made directly from them.

Directions and Suggestions. In working out this set the student should observe the following :

1. For the introductory memorandum, refer to the model journal on page 2. Follow this model carefully.

2. In this beginning work it is well for the student to journalize the transactions first on a loose sheet of journal paper ; after correction, this work may be copied into the bound journal. The posting should be directly to the ledger.

3. A. M. Benton is represented as the proprietor.

4. Use the same explanatory forms as in the model journal.

5. The books should be paged consecutively, 1, 2, 3, etc.

6. Take pains in all writing ; make neat, small figures.

EXERCISE 35

A WRITTEN REVIEW

The following review exercises are suggested.

a. Journalizing. Journalize orally or in writing each of the following transactions, and state the reason for each debit and each credit named.

1. You began business with the following investment: cash, $1500; merchandise, $1200.

When several resource items represent the proprietor's investment, each item is debited, under its appropriate name, and the proprietor is credited for the total of the resources.

The following is the correct entry for No. 1:

Cash	$1500
Mdse.	1200
Student		$2700

Note the explanation of this entry on page 46.

This is a compound entry ; it may consist of any one of the following :

Several debits and one credit.

One debit and several credits.

Several debits and several credits.

2. Chas. E. Snyder began business with the following investment: cash, $1000 ; John A. Wilder's note, $950 ; merchandise, $1325.

3. Wm. A. Russell began business with the following resources: cash, $560 ; merchandise, $1975 ; H. H. Redding's note, $450 ; coal for use in store, on hand, $35.

The following is the correct entry for No. 3 :

Cash	$560
Mdse.	1975
Bills Rec.	450
Wm. A. Russell	$3020

4. W. A. Lincoln began business with the following resources: cash, $1750 ; account against Freeman & Co., $350 ; merchandise, $1275 ; John G. Reed's note, $500.

5. You began business with the following resources: cash, $1000 ; Geo. O. Overman's note, $400 ; merchandise, $1500 ; account against Prince & Lane, $250.

6. Gave Geo. S. Ware your note at 60 da., to apply on account, $325.

7. Gave H. M. Marshall your note at 30 da., with interest, to apply on account, $450.

No entry is made for the interest until the note is paid.

8. Received of R. D. Record his note at 10 da., to apply on account, $176.

9. Received of Lyman & Son their note at 30 da., with interest, to apply on account, $275.

10. Received of Thomas & Co. cash for their note and interest ; face of the note, $320 ; interest, $16.

The above is journalized as follows :

Cash	$336
Bills Rec.	$320
Interest	16

Interest is debited when it costs something ; it is credited when it produces something.

When the statement is made that we pay interest, we really mean that we pay cash for the interest.

11. Paid your note and interest in cash, in favor of W. D. Longman ; face of the note, $275 ; interest, $12.

The above is journalized as follows :

LABOR-SAVING DEVICES: DIFFERENT BOOKS USED

It has been seen that all the transactions of a business may be recorded in a book called the journal. In business it is more convenient, simple, and effective to classify transactions as they occur; this is accomplished by using the following books:

The Cashbook contains a record of all receipts and all disbursements of cash. It is the cash account of the business, and when it is used no account with cash need be kept in the ledger. The left-hand page contains a record of all the cash debits (receipts), together with the names of the accounts to be credited, and a brief explanatory statement. The right-hand page contains a record of all the cash credits (payments), together with the names of the accounts to be debited, and a brief explanatory statement. The difference between the two sides of the cashbook should show the amount, balance, of cash on hand.

The Sales Book contains a record of all sales on account, and usually of all cash sales, except small retail sales for which no bills are rendered. The records consist of the names and the addresses of the purchasers, the terms, the items, the prices, and the amounts of the goods sold. At regular intervals the book is footed and closed.

The Purchase Book contains, usually, an abstract of all bills of merchandise bought. At regular intervals the book is footed and closed.

When the cashbook, the sales book, and the purchase book are used, only such transactions as do not affect these books are entered in the journal.

As a preliminary drill it will be found helpful to journalize on the blackboard each cash transaction and beside it make the cashbook entry. The same plan may be followed for both purchases and sales.

EXERCISE 37

SET E (MODEL SET). FLOUR AND GRAIN

On pages 63 to 67 is a complete model set, in script, in which the journal, the cashbook, the sales book, the purchase book, and the ledger have been used. This set was written from the following memoranda of transactions, but different prices were used in some instances.

Directions and Suggestions. Write the set from the memoranda of transactions following; be guided by frequent reference to the model script set.

1. Use a double sheet of journal paper, four pages, and a sheet of ledger paper, two pages.

2. On the upper half of page 1 of the journal sheet write the journal, and on the lower half the purchase book; on pages 2 and 3, the cash-book; on page 4, the sales book. On the portion of pages 2 and 3, below the cashbook, write the trial balance, the statements and the verification.

3. This set is not to be recorded in the bound books.

4. The entries will be the same as in the script model, but the amounts will differ in some transactions.

5. A. B. Coates is represented as the proprietor.

MEMORANDA OF TRANSACTIONS

If the ledger is designed to show just how much business is done with each firm of whom we buy or to whom we sell, then the items should not be checked, but postings should be made from both the purchase book and the cashbook.

When the check mark is used, as above, it means do not post.

Until otherwise instructed, all purchases for cash will be entered in the purchase book and the cashbook, and checked; all sales for cash will be entered in the sales book and the cashbook, and checked; neither will be posted to the ledger.

INTRODUCTION TO BUSINESS PRACTICE

THE BANK ACCOUNT

A Bank, primarily, is an institution chartered by the state or the national government, to deal in credits and to provide for the safe-keeping of money.

A Commercial Bank renders important and diversified services to business men, among which are the following:

1. It grants credit to business men who wish to borrow money.
2. It is a safe place to keep money, securities, and valuables.
3. It facilitates the payment of money by allowing deposits to be drawn out on an order called a check. It does away with the necessity of sending money from one place to another.
4. It is especially helpful to business men in making collections, such as notes, checks, and drafts.

A person opens an account with a commercial bank by being identified if he is not known to the bank. After identification he writes his name in a signature book or on a signature card. He then makes out a deposit ticket for all items deposited, as cash, checks, etc. The bank furnishes deposit tickets and a check book, a book of blank checks and stubs, without charge.

The Signature Card gives such information as the bank may require concerning the depositor, but the most important is the depositor's signature. Any paper presented at the bank bearing the depositor's name admits of identification by reference to the signature card.

A plain, neat signature is most difficult to imitate. One should always write his name in exactly the same form.

AUTHORIZED SIGNATURE OF
John E. McDermot
For the HAMPDEN NATIONAL BANK of Westfield, Mass.
Address	49 Elm St.
Business	Whip Manufactures
Date	Sept. 14, 19—

Deposit tickets are not uniform in arrangement. The following illustration shows how the items of a deposit may be classified for the convenience of the bank which receives them. The stars show the totals. The whole deposit is summarized at the bottom of the ticket.

These tickets are commonly made up on an adding machine; a duplicate copy may be made for the file of the depositor. The file of these duplicates is valuable for reference.

The deposit ticket and the items for deposit should be handed to the receiving teller, the official who generally receives all money and all deposits passed to the bank. He examines the deposit, and if everything is found to be correct, he enters it in a book called a Pass Book.

The pass book is returned to the depositor by the teller and serves as a receipt for the money deposited in the bank; it should always accompany a deposit. Under no circumstances should the depositor make an entry in his pass book.

Herewith is given another form of a deposit ticket and a method of keeping a duplicate of it. On the ticket, in addition to the currency items, each check is listed by giving the name of the city on which it is drawn, for the convenience of the bank which receives the deposit.

The reverse, or left, stub of the check book shows a duplicate of the deposit ticket, and each check is listed under the name of the maker, for the convenience of the depositor.

This form is convenient for recording a deposit of a limited number of items, but when a lengthy deposit ticket is made up, the plan given on page 69 is more convenient, as a large number of items could not be recorded on the reverse stub of an ordinary check book.

When the depositor wishes to withdraw money from the bank, he writes an order called a Check.

A Check Book is a book of blank checks furnished to the depositor by the bank. It consists usually of two parts, the stubs and the checks. The stub contains a memorandum of the check and is valuable for reference after the check has been detached, and for comparison when the check is returned, canceled.

The illustration on page 71 shows one page of a check book, both the checks and the stubs having been filled out. The checks may be totaled and the amount carried forward to the top of the next page.

The proof of cash is necessary at stated times, and in proving cash the check book must be depended on to show the condition of the bank account.

By keeping a total of the checks drawn and a total of the deposits made, the balance shown by the check book may be readily ascertained at any time.

The deposits may be recorded on the reverse, or left, stub, an illustration of which is given on page 70. The deposits may be carried forward on the reverse stub, and then the balance shown by the check book may be readily found by finding the difference between the total deposits and the total checks.

Page 71 is an illustration of a common form of check book. It shows the transactions of a depositor, Charles H. Jones, with The Union Bank for two consecutive days.

Notice the manner of filling out the check, the important items of the check reproduced on the stub, the total after the second check has been written, and the amount of the two checks carried forward.

Great care should be taken in the writing of each check. There should be no erasures of any kind in the check book.

The first figure in the amount of a check should be written close to the dollar sign; an amount in figures should be written as follows: $15⁴⁰. The first word in writing the amount should begin at the head of the line, and cents should be expressed as a fraction of a dollar, as 25/100; any other space on this line should be filled in with a waved or broken line.

It should be borne in mind that there are manifold ways of keeping a check book. The method outlined herewith is a simple one and well serves the need of the student in his work in business practice.

The Left, or Reverse, Stub may be used for recording any memoranda that the depositor deems important.

Deposits should be entered in the pass book by the teller of the bank at the time the deposit is made. If at any time a deposit is made without the pass book, a duplicate deposit ticket should be obtained by the depositor.

Different banks use different methods for keeping records in a pass book. All deposits may be entered in it; at the end of the month the checks are totaled on an adding machine, the amount carried to the pass book, and the balance shown.

However, it is more common, at least in large banks, to record deposits in a pass book, and at the end of each month all deposits and all checks, itemized or in total, are entered on a slip or on an envelope, and the balance shown as a monthly statement. This statement, together with all canceled checks, is given to the depositor and constitutes a statement of his dealings with the bank for a given month.

In this text, in business practice, all deposits will be entered in the pass book at the time they are made.

In the package of business forms, an envelope is provided for each month on which a monthly statement of the bank account should be made. Upon this envelope the student's name should be written, and as checks are drawn they may be filed in it.

At the end of a month a statement of the student's bank account should be made on the outside of this envelope, recording simply all deposits and all checks, as shown in the above illustration, and the balance.

The deposits in the pass book may be totaled and the checks, in total, subtracted therefrom, thus showing the balance in the pass book.

Place all the checks in the envelope. This constitutes a complete monthly statement of the student's bank account.

EXERCISE 39

TRANSACTIONS WITH A BANK

Make the following blank forms: rule lengthwise two sheets of paper about 5 × 8 inches; rule two checks, two stubs, and the reverse stub on each sheet. This represents a page of a check book and the reverse stub. Follow the models given on page 71.

Under date of March 1, enter on the reverse stub of the sheet just ruled a deposit of $1500.

Under date of March 9, write a check for $250, in favor of Henry S. Lee, No. 1. Fill out the stub first and then write the check.

Under date of March 13, enter a deposit of $150.

Under date of March 16, write a check for $137.50, in favor of Wm. G. Howe, No. 2. Remember to fill out the stub first.

Forward the total deposits to the reverse stub, and the total checks to the regular stub, on sheet number two.

Under date of March 19, write a check for $100, in favor of E. T. Perry.

Under date of March 23, enter a deposit of $75.

Under date of March 30, write a check for $28.40, in favor of Amos H. Wells.

What balance now remains in the bank?

This exercise may be continued at the discretion of the instructor.

The Receipt. Study the model receipt, page 74, in every detail. Write the following receipts on slips of paper properly ruled: S. T. Wade owes you $56.75, and pays the whole amount.

The receipt bears these words: in full of account.

R. O. Warner owes you $120.50, and pays you $75.

The receipt bears these words: to apply on account.

You owe John Wheeler $102.50, and pay it all.

You owe J. H. Leaman $62.50, and pay him $35.

Near the bottom of page 19 is an open ledger account with J. A. Lyons. Write the receipt that he should give you, assuming that you pay the account in full.

The Invoice. This model shows how an invoice should be made out when goods are bought or sold. The terms are on account, 60 da., therefore it is not receipted.

Study these model invoices in every detail, then rule two sheets of paper according to the model, and write the following invoices. Do your best work, — good writing and neat, legible figures.

Turn to Set I, page 42, and write the invoices under the dates of Jan. 4 and 9.

Turn to Set II, page 52, and write the invoices under the dates of Feb. 6 and 9.

Filing Invoices. For convenience in handling, invoices may be folded lengthwise with the printed matter outward.

The manner of folding the invoice (noted above) is not imperative. The invoice may be folded lengthwise, the printed matter within; on the left end write the name of the seller, the amount in figures, and the date.

For the student's work in business practice the first method is recommended.

After the invoices are folded a rubber band may be placed around them, and then they are in a convenient form for handling. The filing should be in the order of the dates.

These suggestions are simply for the students in the classroom.

The Promissory Note. Study all the details of the following model note:

$1200⁰⁰ Boston, Mass., Jan. 16, 19—
Thirty days after date, I promise to pay to the order of Morgan Taylor & Co.
Twelve Hundred ⁰⁰/₁₀₀ Dollars

Who is the maker of this note? the payee? Does it draw interest? When is the maturity of the note? Who holds this note before maturity? After it is paid who will hold it? Why is this called a promissory note?

Write the following notes on slips of paper. Use the current date.

1. Gave Henry A. Morton your note, at 60 da., with interest, payable at the First National Bank, $250.
2. Received of Henry S. Mercer his note, at 30 da., payable at The Union Bank, $128.50.
3. Gave Wilson & Brown your note, at 2 mo., payable at your office, $175.20.
4. Received of A. D. Rose & Son their note, at 1 mo., with interest, payable at their office, $200.

The Purchase Book. The following model represents a purchase book, — a book in which all purchases may be recorded.

Various books are designed for recording purchases, but the illustration given on page 77 shows the general plan of any book that may be used for this purpose. In the more advanced portion of this work an invoice book will be introduced.

The posting of this book is explained on page 61.

Daily Cash Proof. In the following sets the student will use representative money in carrying out his business transactions. At the close of each day's business cash should be proved.

DAILY CASH PROOF
Name	J. P. Brown
Date	Jan. 15, 19-
Cash received per cashbook, total	5760.⁴⁰
Cash paid per cashbook, total	1300.⁰⁰
Balance per cashbook	4460.⁴⁰
Cash on hand per cash drawer	400.⁰⁰
Cash in bank per check book	4060.⁴⁰
Total	4460.⁴⁰

How to prove cash:

1. The left side of the cashbook shows all cash received.
2. The right side of the cashbook shows all cash paid out.
3. The difference shows the amount of cash the business has on hand.
4. The money in the cash drawer added to the amount in the bank should equal the difference shown by the cashbook.

5. If no bank account is kept, the cash in the drawer should equal the difference shown by the cashbook.

6. If all money is in the bank, the true bank balance should equal the balance shown by the cashbook.

It is suggested that the above form of proof be used.

EXERCISE 41

THE TRIAL BALANCE

Thus far all trial balances have been made by taking the footings of the debit and the credit items of each account, omitting all accounts that balanced. It is a common practice for bookkeepers to take a trial balance by using the balance of each account. This form of trial balance is illustrated herewith.

Refer to the model trial balance, page 4; compare it with the following trial balance:

Trial Balance, January 31, 19—

James Wilson			2000
Cash	1123	60
Expense	50
Mdse.	926	40
D. Simons	100
O. Lane			200
	2200		2200

To find Errors in the Trial Balance. If the debit and the credit items are not equal, that is, do not balance, observe the following suggestions in tracing the error:

1. Go over all additions, both in the trial balance and in the ledger.
2. Find the exact amount of the error; if ten or some power of ten, the error is usually in addition.
3. If the amount of the error is exactly the same as some amount in the journal, the trouble is likely to be with that amount.
4. Divide the amount of the error in the trial balance by 2, and look for an amount corresponding to this result. If a debit item has been posted to the credit, it will cause an error equal to twice the amount of the item thus posted.
5. If the amount of the error is divisible by 9, the error is probably the result of the transposition of figures.
6. If necessary, recheck the posting to determine if that work was done correctly. (This manner of rechecking is described on page 19.) Rechecking involves a great deal of extra work; it should be undertaken only as a last expedient.

A trial balance that balances is not absolute proof that the ledger is correct. If a credit of Merchandise was posted to the credit of Cash, it would not affect the trial balance.

SET III. GRAIN AND SEED BUSINESS

WORK FOR MARCH

The Object of this set is to give systematic drill in elementary business practice. Student is represented as the proprietor. Business forms are used, and all transactions in cash admit the handling of currency. An account is kept with the bank, deposits are made and checks are drawn. This set covers a period of two months, March and April, the books being closed at the end of each month.

The Books used in this set are the journal, the cashbook, the sales book, the purchase book, the statement book, and the ledger.

All business forms handled are either Incoming Papers or Outgoing Papers. Incoming papers are those received from others; outgoing papers are those given to others. Incoming papers will be received and recorded by the student as in business, and he will issue and record all outgoing papers as in business.

Different selling price lists may be used if desired.

Twenty-five selling price lists are provided for this set. When the instructor gives the student the necessary blank forms he should assign him a price list. Any one of the selling price lists may be used in connection with the buying price list.

After a price list has been assigned, copy it for ready reference. Ask the instructor for Business Forms, No. 1, and then proceed to write Set III.

Directions and Suggestions. This set may be written in any of the following ways:

1. Simply record the transactions as in the preceding sets.

2. In addition to recording the transactions, all business forms may be used.

3. In addition to recording the transactions, using the forms, etc., all the business called for may be done, such business to be transacted according to the directions of the instructor.

The memoranda and all directions are given, so that complete business practice may be used if desired.

4. Prove the cash at the close of each day. (See model, page 78.)

5. If the tablet of Incoming Business Forms is not used, make out the forms on page 82 and file them in the envelope for Incoming Papers, before beginning Set III, and use them instead of the tablet.

Unless otherwise instructed, keep the cashbook on a loose sheet of journal paper and copy at the close of the month. All other work may be recorded directly in the required books.

INCOMING BUSINESS FORMS FOR MARCH

These incoming forms are included in the text for the following reasons:

1. All material in any given set is included in the text proper.
2. The student is able to make a study of the work of the set before attempting to write it; this is especially important.
3. By having all matter included in the text, extended and varied reviews are made possible.

The full indorsement, shown in the accompanying illustration, is the one most commonly used in business, and some banks and the clearing houses insist that this form must be used.

The blank indorsement is simply the writing of one's name on the back of the paper. (See page 90.)

CLOSING THE WORK FOR MARCH

Close each of the following: the cashbook, the sales book, and the purchase book. Refer to pages 63 to 65.

Post the books to the ledger, three accounts to the page, as follows:

1. Post the journal, writing J in the explanatory column of the ledger.
2. Post the cashbook, writing C in the explanatory column of the ledger.
3. Post the sales book, writing S in the explanatory column of the ledger.

4. Post the purchase book, writing P in the explanatory column of the ledger.

Foot the ledger accounts.

Take a trial balance, using only the balance of each account. (See page 79.) Do not forget the balance of cash from the cashbook.

Have the trial balance approved; record it in Blank No. 1, on the page indicated by the index.

Make the two statements and the verification; after approval, record them in Blank No. 1, on the page indicated by the index.

Close the ledger. Take a second trial balance.

Submit all work to the instructor for approval.

When the monthly statement of your bank account has been completed, compare each check with the stub in the check book; if they agree, put a large check mark on the stub. This shows that the check issued has been returned canceled.

Does the balance of your monthly bank statement agree with the balance shown in your check book? Place the canceled checks in the Paid Bills envelope.

EXERCISE 42

A WRITTEN REVIEW

The following review exercises are suggested:

- a. Journalize orally or in writing each transaction in March.
- b. Use trial balances 1 and 2, page 28. Make the two statements, using $25 for the expense inventory in each statement.
- c. Use Exercise 31, I and II, pages 33 and 34 for closing the ledger.

INDORSEMENTS

An Indorsement is the writing of one's name on the back of commercial paper with the intent to transfer the title or to assume legal responsibility for its payment.

Sometimes a payment of interest, or a partial payment of the face, is recorded on the back of an instrument.

The Object of indorsement is to effect a transfer of the title, or to make the indorser conditionally liable for payment, or both.

Indorsements are made by using a rubber stamp or by writing.

The indorsements most commonly used are the special or full, the blank, the qualified, and the restrictive.

Special

*Pay to the order of
John E. Lane
Howard & Co.*

Blank

Howard & Co.

Qualified

*Without recourse

or

John E. Lane, without recourse
Howard & Co.*

Restrictive

*Pay to The Union
Bank for deposit
Howard & Co.*

A special indorsement names the indorsee; the instrument could not again be negotiated without the indorsee's indorsement.

A blank indorsement names no indorsee. Any holder may, however, convert this into a special indorsement by writing "Pay to (his name) or order" above the blank indorsement.

A qualified indorsement simply passes the title without rendering the indorser liable. In form, this indorsement may be either in blank or special.

A restrictive indorsement constitutes the indorsee an agent of the indorser, usually for the collection of the paper.

This form of indorsement is not commended by banks and clearing houses.

Note the indorsement on page 87. All commercial paper offered for deposit at a bank must be indorsed, and the special indorsement is most commonly used.

This form is a protection to the lawful holder because the payee is named, and payment will be made only on his order, by indorsement.

If a check or a note bearing a special indorsement is lost or stolen, it is valueless to such a holder.

When one has a check cashed at the bank, the blank indorsement may be used, as the check will be canceled as soon as cashed.

As the qualified indorsement relieves the indorser of responsibility for payment, commercial paper bearing this indorsement should be accepted with great caution.

SET III. GRAIN AND SEED BUSINESS

The memoranda following are a continuation of the memoranda for March. No new principles are introduced, and the familiar business forms are used. 26. Sell Johnson & Pease, City, for cash, at the prices named herewith:

10 bu. Dwarf Beans at $4.20	100 bu. Field Corn at 48¢
25 bu. Garden Corn at $1.90

After entering the invoice in the required books, receipt it, pass it in, and receive the currency.

27. Receive of Jesse Watson his check, to apply on account, $175, Form 23.

28. Prepay your note in favor of Henry Bruce by check. Face of the note, $200; discount, 50¢; amount of the check, $199.50.

This note has 15 da. to run, and the interest on $200 for 15 da. is 50¢. Write the check. Enter it in the cashbook as follows: on the right side debit Bills Payable for $200; on the left side credit Interest for 50¢. Hand in the check and receive the note. Across the face of the note write, Paid April 28, 19—. Place the canceled note in the Paid Bills envelope.

Interest and discount are practically synonymous terms, interest is paid, usually, at the maturity of a loan, and discount is allowed before such maturity. For this reason all discount items will be entered as Interest.

Study this transaction until it is understood. The discount and the prepayment of notes are common business transactions.

28. Receive of Jesse Watson his check for note and interest due to-day, Form 24. Face of the note, $180; interest, 90¢.

What two entries are made in the cashbook? Cancel the note and pass it in.

29. Receive of Howard Young his check for the invoice of April 19, Form 25.

30. Give Henry T. Dale, your clerk, a check for his salary, $30.

30. Deposit the checks and all currency on hand.

Indorse the checks.

30. Withdraw by check the balance on deposit in The Union Bank.

This withdrawal is made as a matter of convenience in closing the set. The amount of the check is for the balance in the bank. Make the check payable to Self and pass it in. No entry is required.

Proceed with your bank account as you did at the close of March.

Before closing the books hand them to the instructor for inspection and approval.

Record the following in the journal, in the usual form, at the cost price:

INVENTORIES, APRIL 30, 19—

30 bu. Dwarf Beans	50 bu. Millet
20 bu. Clover Seed	60 bu. Oats
200 bu. Field Corn	60 bu. Spring Rye

Expense:

Office Safe	$75.
Office Books	7.50 $82.50

CLOSING THE WORK FOR APRIL

After looking over the closing of each book in March, close the cash-book, the sales book, and the purchase book.

The careful bookkeeper checks his work at every step. Check all additions before writing the results in ink. A simple way to check addition is to add the columns in reverse order. If the results agree, the work may be assumed to be correct.

Post the books to the ledger. Post to the same accounts as in March. If any new accounts are to be added, allow one third of a page for each.

Foot the ledger accounts.

Take a trial balance; after approval, record it in Blank No. 1, on the page indicated by the index.

Make the two statements and the verification; after approval, record them in Blank No. 1, on the page indicated by the index.

Close the ledger. Take a second trial balance.

Submit all work to the instructor for approval.

When your monthly bank statement has been completed, compare each check with the stub in the check book. If they agree, check the stub.

Place all canceled checks in the Paid Bills envelope.

EXERCISE 43 omit

A WRITTEN REVIEW

The following review exercises are suggested:

1. Journalize orally or in writing each transaction in April.
2. Use trial balances 3 and 4, page 28. Make the two statements, and the verification for each; use $30 for the expense inventory in each statement.

3. Write from memory on blank paper, cut to the proper size, the following business forms:

a. A Receipted Bill. Jan. 17, C. H. Palmer, Trenton, N.J., bought of Student for cash, less 3%: 25 doz. table knives at $7.50, 15 doz. nail hammers at $9, 25 doz. safety locks at $4.50.

b. A Promissory Note. Jan. 20, Student gave James B. Stevens a 60-da. interest-bearing promissory note payable at First National Bank. Face of the note, $125.

c. A Receipt. Jan. 22, Frank H. Jackson paid Student $127.85 in full for invoice of Jan. 12.

d. A Check. Jan. 25, Student gave William E. Hitchcock a check on Commonwealth Trust Company for $200.

EXERCISE 44

INTEREST AND DISCOUNT

The rate of interest allowed by law is called the Legal Rate. Persons may agree to pay less than this rate, but not more, unless a higher rate by special agreement is permitted by statute. If an agreement for the payment of interest specifies no rate, the highest legal rate in the state where the contract is signed will be understood.

In the Commercial World 12 mo. of 30 da. each — 360 da. — are reckoned as 1 yr. In bank discount the exact number of days is used.

Throughout the business practice employed in this text the rate will be 6%, based on the commercial year of 360 da.

This method is not exact, but it is the most common because the most convenient. It has been legalized by statute in some states and is generally used in all the states.

A great variety of methods is employed to compute interest and discount, but it is suggested that the student use the day method, as follows: Point off to the left three decimal places in the principal, multiply by the number of days, and then divide by 6. Cancel when possible.

Example. What is the interest on $146.50 for 50 da. at 6%?

Solution. $.1465 \times 50 = 7.325$.

$7.325 \div 6 = 1.22$, or \$1.22, the required interest.

When a man borrows money at a bank, he not infrequently pays the interest in advance; when he sells a note to a bank, he allows discount to the bank, and such allowance is called Bank Discount.

The maturity of negotiable paper is determined as follows: When the time is expressed in months, calendar months are used to fix the date of maturity; but when the time is expressed in days, the exact number of days is used.

To illustrate: A note dated Jan. 28, 29, 30, or 31, at 1 mo., will mature on Feb. 28 (leap years excepted); but a note with any of the dates just noted at 30 da. will mature on Feb. 27, 28, March 1, or 2, respectively.

The Term of Discount is the time from the date of discount to the maturity of the note. Banks differ as to method in finding the term, but in this text the exact number of days will be used uniformly.

EXERCISE 45

INTEREST AND DISCOUNT ENTRIES

This exercise is not a set, but a series of illustrations. It may be used first as an oral exercise.

Use a sheet of journal paper for the cashbook, and enter the following transactions; balance and rule the cashbook.

2. Give Henry A. Dunton a check for your note, which falls due to-day, $172.50.

9. Discount at The Union Bank W. K. Marsh's note. Face of the note, $300; discount allowed for 45 da.

What entry is made on the left side of the cashbook? on the right side?

12. Prepay your note in favor of Geo. R. Cushing. Face of the note, $400; discount allowed for 30 da.

20. Receive a check from Johnson & Co. for their note, due to-day. Face of the note, $256.25.

24. Prepay your note in favor of E. R. Sterling. Face of the note, $222.40; discount allowed for 60 da.

26. Discount at First National Bank T. T. Munger's note. Face of the note, $257.80; discount allowed for 60 da.

30. Make an additional investment in the business in cash, $500.

EXERCISE 46

COMPOUND ENTRIES

The Compound Entry is explained on page 46. Refer to that explanation before proceeding with this exercise.

A Simple Entry consists of one debit and one credit.

Several of the preceding interest and discount entries are here used as illustrations of compound entries; they will serve for reference in subsequent work.

Journalize Exercise 45.

The making of these entries in both the cashbook and the journal will make the debits and the credits clearer in each transaction.

May 6. Bills Pay. $325.	May 8. Cash $228.10
Interest 11.50	Bills Rec. $220.35

EXERCISE 50

CONSIGNMENTS

A fruit grower in Oregon may send a quantity of apples to a merchant in New York, who will act as agent in selling the apples. This agent is called a Commission Merchant.

The quantity of apples received is called the Consignment; the one who sent the apples, the Consignor; the commission merchant who received them, the Consignee; the itemized statement sent by the consignee to the consignor, the Account of Sales.

After the apples are sold, the merchant deducts a certain per cent of the sales as his Commission, pays all the other charges, and remits the balance.

The following transactions afford illustrations of the application of debit and credit to this kind of business. Journalize each transaction.

MEMORANDA

July 1. Henry Brown, a commission merchant of New York, received a consignment of pineapples from the Day Porto Rican Fruit Company, Manati, Porto Rico, by the steamer Coamo, to be sold, on their account and risk, as follows :

100 crates 36's	100 crates 30's
100 crates 24's	100 crates 18's

No debit and no credit entry for this, simply a memorandum.

36's, 24's, etc., set forth the number of pineapples in each crate, and indicate the size of the fruit.

2. The freight charges, $0.482 per crate, were paid by check to the New York & Porto Rican Steamship Company.

Charge the Day Porto Rican Fruit Company for the amount of this check.

3. Upon examination it was found that some of the fruit was damaged, and the entire shipment was repacked at a charge of 2¢ per crate. The following were the losses :

3 crates 36's	2 crates 30's
2 crates 24's	1 crate 18's

Charge the Company and credit Labor.

The charge is for the total number of crates.

4. Sold H. B. Smith on account :

50 crates 36's at $2.90	50 crates 24's at $3.25
--------------------------	--------------------------

5. Sold J. B. Conley for cash, less 2% :

47 crates 36's at $2.90	50 crates 30's at $3.10

Labor, $4; cartage, 2¢ per crate; commission, 10% on the sales.

Credit the accounts named.

9. A check is remitted for the net amount due the Day Porto Rican Fruit Company. Make the necessary entry for this remittance.

COMMERCIAL DRAFTS

NOTE. A brief study of the commercial sight draft and the bank draft is introduced at this stage of the student's work for the convenience and accommodation of those instructors who desire to take up the study of drafts, in a brief way, in connection with the introductory work of the text.

Study the following illustration, giving particular attention to the relation that the different parties bear to each other.

Chas. H. Hardy, Hartford, Conn., owes Geo. H. Allen, Chicago, Ill., $500. Amos R. Graham, Chicago, Ill., owes Chas. H. Hardy the same amount. What may Chas. H. Hardy do to serve his own convenience, and at the same time save Amos R. Graham the trouble of sending the money from Chicago to Hartford?

Chas. H. Hardy writes an order directing Amos R. Graham to pay Geo. H. Allen $500. Allen presents the order to Graham, and he pays it in cash. Does this accomplish the same result as if Graham had sent the money to Hardy, and Hardy had sent it to Allen?

Whom should Chas. H. Hardy debit? Whom should he credit?

Whom should Geo. H. Allen credit? What should he debit?

Whom should Amos R. Graham debit? What should he credit?

A Commercial Draft is a written order in which one person directs another to pay a specified sum of money to the order of himself, or to the order of a third person.

The primary object of commercial drafts is to effect the settlement of debts without the risk or the inconvenience of transmitting money.

There may be either three parties or two parties to a draft.

The Original Parties to a three-party draft are:

The Drawer, the one who draws the draft;

The Drawee, the one on whom the draft is drawn.

The Payee, the one to whom the order is made payable.

Many commercial drafts are drawn as a means of collecting debts, and a large number of them are dishonored. Unless there is a special reason, such as dealing with a delinquent debtor, a draft should not be drawn without a previous arrangement or an understanding between the persons. Without such notice, a draft ordinarily has no more significance than the sending of a monthly statement of account.

Sight Paper is paper payable on presentation.

The following is the usual form of a sight draft.

Sight Draft

$500 ⁰⁰	Boston, Mass. May 3, 19--
At sight	Pay to the order of
C. W. Gray
Five Hundred ⁰⁰ / ₁₀₀	Dollars
Value received and charge to account of
To F. C. Gorham
No. 12 Due Springfield Mass.	Mason & Young

Study this sight draft in connection with the following diagram :

The persons to a three-party commercial draft usually bear the following relation to each other :

- The Drawee generally owes the drawer ;

- The Drawer generally owes the payee ;

- The Payee and the drawee bear no relation to each other.

The drawee and the payee usually live in the same place.

While not bound to do so, the drawer usually notifies the drawee before or at the time of drawing the draft.

It is customary to send it to the payee, and he presents it to the drawee.

The Drawer's Entry. Mason & Young mail the following draft to C. W. Gray, and make this journal entry:

Mason & Young's Journal

C. W. Gray F. C. Gorham	Drew a sight draft on F. C. G. and remit- ted it to C. W. Gray on acct.	500—	—	500—
--	--	------	---	------

Mason & Young have given C. W. Gray an order equivalent to $500 cash, when presented to Gorham; therefore they should debit Gray.

When F. C. Gorham pays the sight draft, he gets out of Mason & Young's debt, $500. He gave the money to Gray, but for the account of Mason & Young; therefore Mason & Young will credit F. C. Gorham.

The Payee's Entry. Immediately upon the receipt of this draft Gray will take it to F. C. Gorham and receive the cash, or deposit it in his bank for collection and credit. Gray will get the cash, $500; he will make this cashbook entry on the left side:

Gray's Cashbook

May 4	Mason & Young	Sight draft on acct.	500—	—
--------------	--------------------------	-----------------------------	------	---

The cash received by Gray came from Mason & Young through Gorham; therefore Gray should credit Mason & Young.

The Drawee's Entry. When the draft is presented to Gorham, he will pay it, and make this cashbook entry on the right side:

Gorham's Cashbook

May 4	Mason & Young	Pd their sight draft	500—	—
--------------	--------------------------	-----------------------------	------	---

Gorham paid Gray $500, but he paid one of his debts to Mason & Young, and thus got out of their debt; therefore he should debit them.

The three-party draft is not used so frequently as formerly.

The Two-Party Draft; its General Uses. Business men frequently employ the sight draft as an aid in the collection of accounts that are past due. For example, suppose Edgar McMickle, Paterson, N.J., owes Wilbert, Closs & Co., Springfield, Mass., $260.50. The account is past due, and Wilbert, Closs & Co. want the money. They will, after proper notice, draw the following draft:

$ 260⁰⁰ — Springfield, Mass., July 3, 19—
At sight ————— Pay to the order of Ourselves. —————
Two Hundred Sixty ⁵⁰/₁₀₀ ————— Dollars
Value received and charge to account of
To Edgar M. Mickle ————— Wilbert, Closs & Co.
No. 130 Due Paterson, N.J.

Wilbert, Closs & Co. will indorse the draft and leave it with the Springfield National Bank for collection. As they have no account with a Paterson bank, they will again indorse the draft and forward it to the Chemical National Bank of New York City, with whom they have a regular account. The following indorsements will appear on the back of the draft.

Pay to the order of Springfield National Bank
Wilbert, Closs & Co.
per W.
 CHEMICAL NATIONAL BANK
 NEW YORK
Frank M. Mason
 Cashier

The blank indorsement, simply the name, is but little used in business. Banks insist on the use of the full indorsement.

A number of indorsements that are common in business are illustrated and explained on page 90.

The Chemical National Bank will collect the money from McMickle through a bank in Paterson, and then notify the Springfield National Bank that the draft has been collected and the amount credited. The Springfield National Bank notifies Wilbert, Closs & Co. that the proceeds have been credited.

The following are the entries for this draft:

The Drawer's Entry. Wilbert, Closs & Co. make this entry on the left side of their cashbook:

Wilbert, Closs & Co.'s Cashbook

July 3	Edgar McMickle	Deposited sight draft	260	50
--------	----------------	-----------------------	-----	----

Should the bank make a charge for collecting this draft, the amount of such a charge would appear on the right side of the above cashbook.

The Drawee's Entry. When Edgar McMickle pays the draft, he will debit Wilbert, Closs & Co. on the right side of his cashbook, as follows:

McMickle's Cashbook

July 5	Wilbert, Closs & Co.	Ad their sight dft.	260	50

From the preceding discussion the following principles are deduced regarding the entries for commercial sight drafts:

Drawer's Entry when a three-party sight draft is drawn:

Payee	Drawee
-------	--------

Drawer's Entry when he draws a sight draft in his own favor, and it is collected:

Cash	Drawee
------	--------

Payee's Entry when he receives a sight draft and collects it, on account:

Cash	Drawer
------	--------

Drawee's Entry when he pays a sight draft:

Drawer	Cash

EXERCISE 51

WRITING DRAFTS

Write each of the following drafts, at sight, and make the entry for each party. Use the current date. The following script model shows an orderly arrangement of the work.

It is suggested that the students rule ordinary sheets of writing paper to correspond to the model on page 121, and use them when writing the drafts outlined on page 122.

How is a sight draft used to collect a debt? 9. Is it wise to draw on a good customer without notifying him in advance? Why? 10. How would you indorse a sight draft left at The Union Bank for collection?

Commercial Time Drafts are used in business, but not so extensively as Sight Drafts; these time drafts will be discussed in a more advanced portion of this text.

BANK DRAFTS

Business men usually keep an account with a bank and make a large proportion of their payments by check. However, they find it necessary sometimes to make payment to persons or firms who do not care to give credit for private checks, and then some other form of transfer must be used. A very common and convenient form of remittance is by means of a check of one bank upon another. This is called a Bank Draft.

Suppose that C. C. Canan, Boston, Mass., wishes to buy a bill of goods of Jordan, Marsh & Co., New York, amounting to $400.60. If his financial standing is unknown to Jordan, Marsh & Co., he should not send his personal check. He therefore draws the following check and exchanges it at his bank for a New York draft.

Check to pay for Bank Draft

Boston, Mass., July 16, 19— No. 365
Traders National Bank
Pay to the order of	N. Y. draft (400⁶⁰) Exch. (50¢) $ 401¹⁰
	Four Hundred One ¹⁰/₁₀₀ ————— Dollars
	C. C. Canan

The check is drawn for 50¢ more than the face of the draft, and this charge is called Exchange. Some banks do not make any charge to regular customers. For this check the Traders National Bank will issue the following draft:

Bank Draft

Boston, Mass., July 16, 19— No. 920
Traders National Bank
Pay to the order of	C. C. Canan — $ 400⁶⁰
	Four Hundred ⁶⁰/₁₀₀ ————— Dollars
To Chemical National Bank } New York	W. A. Hinman Cashier

A bank draft is usually drawn payable to the order of the purchaser, who indorses it to the person or the firm to whom it is to be sent, as shown herewith.

In this way the name of the sender appears on the draft and he is identified as such, and the draft, when canceled, is filed and serves as a receipt.

The one who purchases a bank draft may require the name of the one to whom it is to be sent to appear as the payee.

In opening letters that contain drafts, if the name of the sender does not appear on the draft, care must be taken to keep the draft and the letter together. If his name is on the draft, it may be identified without the letter.

The Entries. The sending of this draft constitutes a cash payment by C. C. Canan to Jordan, Marsh & Co., and he makes the following entry on the right side of his cashbook:

July 16	Jordan Marsh & Co.	Dft. for Inv. Mds.	400	60
16	Expense	Exchange on above		50

Upon the receipt of the draft Jordan, Marsh & Co. will make this cashbook entry on the left side:

July 17	C. C. Canan,	Dft. for Inv. this da	400	60
---------	--------------	-----------------------	-----	----

When Jordan, Marsh & Co. make their deposit for the day they will include the draft received from Canan, such drafts being treated as checks.

2. Receive from Green & Co. a bank draft to apply on account, $328.40. Give your entry; give their entry. No exchange charged.

Brace in payment of your note due to-day. Give your entry; give his entry. In whose favor should this draft be drawn? Indicate the proper indorsement. No exchange charged.
4. Buy of the First National Bank, of your city, Thomas E. Gross, Cashier, a draft on the Second National Bank, of New York, No. 2378, payable to your order, for $32.50. Indorse it and send it to the Jones Manufacturing Company for a set of office books, to be used in your office. Give your entry; give their entry. No exchange charged.

As a review, write the check and the draft called for in No. 3, and the draft called for in No. 4.

SUGGESTIONS FOR BUSINESS CORRESPONDENCE

When ordering goods it is a common practice in business to keep a duplicate of the order, and as these orders are generally made by letter, a copy of the letter is a convenient and exact record for the office file. When a bill of the goods is received, if any question arises regarding the original letter, this duplicate is available for reference.

As business correspondence is closely allied to business practice, and is commonly taught in connection with it, the script letter on page 126 is given as a suggestion to the student and to the instructor.

It is not unusual for the instructor in correspondence to select some of the orders of purchase and sale in the bookkeeping text, and ask the student to write the required letters for these orders. This plan correlates the work in correspondence very closely with the work in bookkeeping, and affords an unusual variety of material for practice in the writing of this kind of letters.

PART II. INTERMEDIATE WORK

COMMERCIAL DRAFTS

EXERCISE 53

A WRITTEN REVIEW OF SIGHT DRAFTS

On pages 116 to 122 the discussion of the Sight Draft showed that it is an important factor in business. A review of these pages is suggested, and then the following exercises may be worked out.

1. You owed Samuel T. Porter $325 on account, and on May 6 you drew a sight draft on Warren & Son, St. Louis, Mo., in favor of Porter, for the amount named.

a. Make your entry, and the necessary explanations. A script model is given on page 121.

2. On May 10 you drew a sight draft on Patterson & Co., Atlanta, Ga., for an invoice dated May 1, for $165.20, in favor of yourself, and left it at your bank for collection.

a. Write the draft.

b. Show the necessary indorsement.

c. Make the entry for each person when the draft is collected.

3. On May 15 you sold an invoice of merchandise to Geo. H. Powell, Cleveland, Ohio, amounting to $125.50, subject to a sight draft in 10 da. On May 24 you drew a sight draft on Geo. H. Powell in favor of W. R. Haynes, Cleveland, Ohio, for the amount of the invoice, and remitted the draft to Haynes.

a. Trace the course for this draft until it is paid.

b. Write the draft.

c. Make your entry.

d. Make the entry for each of the other persons.

4. On May 20 you bought an invoice of goods of Thos. H. Head, Omaha, Nebr., amounting to $450, subject to a sight draft in 10 da. On May 31, A. A. Lewis, of your city, presented a sight draft drawn on you, in his favor, by Thos. H. Head, for the amount of the invoice. The draft was paid by a check on The Union Bank.

- a. Write the check.
- b. Write the draft, and make the entry for each person.

If a sight draft was presented to the drawee, and payment, by request, was deferred for a number of days, it would be proper for him to accept the draft. After acceptance, the sight draft may be treated as a time draft. Some states allow 3 da. of grace on sight drafts.

Time Drafts. Time drafts are of two kinds: namely, those payable a certain time after date, and those payable a certain time after sight, that is, a certain time after presentation for acceptance.

Draft Payable after Date

$ 320 ⁶⁴	Boston, Mass, July 6, 19--
Thirty days after date	Pay to the order of
William M. McKay
Three hundred Twenty ⁶⁴ / ₁₀₀	Dollars
Value received and charge to account of
To E. W. Masten,	Fred. V. Osgood & Co.
No. 12 Due 10 New York	per th.

An Acceptance is a time draft which has been accepted. The preceding form is an Acceptance, and it is treated in business as a promissory note.

Without the writing across the face of this draft it was not binding upon the drawee. He had not agreed to pay the draft, and could not be held legally for payment.

Method of Procedure in handling Time Drafts. The drawer writes the draft and mails it to the payee, who presents it to the drawee for acceptance. In the foregoing draft the date of maturity was not determined by the acceptance of E. W. Masten, and it was not absolutely necessary for William M. McKay to present the draft until it was due, and then only for payment; until the draft is accepted, there is no legal obligation on the part of Masten to pay it, so it would be unbusinesslike on the part of McKay not to present the draft for acceptance within a reasonable time after it was received.

When the foregoing draft is presented, Masten is not bound to accept it. However, if he does accept it, he becomes the acceptor and is held for its payment in the same way that he would be held if he had written his promissory note for the amount.

Manner of accepting. If the drawee is willing to meet a draft on him according to the conditions named therein, he writes the word Accepted and signs his name. This is generally done in red ink across the face of the draft, though the color of the ink has no particular significance.

In those states that allow days of grace on sight drafts it is necessary to have them accepted in the same manner as time drafts payable after sight, unless they are paid upon presentation.

To honor a sight draft is to pay it; to honor a time draft is to accept it or to prepay it.

Analysis of Entries of Parties to a Time Draft. Compare the foregoing draft with the sight draft explained on page 117. The relation of the parties is identical. Osgood & Co. owe McKay, and Masten owes Osgood & Co. It is expected that Masten will accept the draft when it is presented to him by McKay.

Drawers' Entry:

1. F. V. Osgood & Co. have given William M. McKay value which, when accepted by E. W. Masten, is the same as bills receivable. Therefore they should debit McKay.

2. When Masten accepts the draft he binds himself to pay one of Osgood & Co.'s debts. He is expected to honor the draft, and Osgood & Co. should therefore credit him, because by accepting the draft he cancels a debt to the amount of $320.64.

--	---	---------------	---------------

Payee's entry:

1. The payee, William M. McKay, instead of receiving cash, as in the case of the sight draft, has received simply E. W. Masten's written promise to pay. We have already learned that other people's written promises are debited to Bills Receivable when received.

2. As in the case of the sight draft, F. V. Osgood & Co. are responsible for McKay's getting the draft, and he should credit them.

Drawee's entry :

1. When E. W. Masten has accepted the foregoing draft, he has given the equivalent of his promissory note, and we have already learned that when one issues his promissory note he credits Bills Payable.

2. It is for F. V. Osgood & Co. that Masten has promised to be bound by this draft; therefore he should debit them.

Draft Payable after Sight

~~$ 250~~ Boston, Mass. July 20, 19--

~~At 30 days sight~~ Pay to the order of

~~D. M. Osgood & Co.~~

~~Two Hundred Fifty and 00/100~~ Dollars

Value received and charge to account of

To R. B. Kenney & Co.

No. 17 Due at Springfield, Mass. per W.

This draft is the same as the draft drawn payable after date except as to the manner of acceptance. In an order payable after sight it is necessary to date the acceptance in order to fix the date of maturity.

The difference between a draft payable after date and one payable after sight is that the former begins to mature on the date of the draft, the latter on the date on which the draft is accepted. The date of acceptance must be given in a draft payable after sight, while it may or may not be given in a draft payable after date.

Another Use of Time Drafts. The ordinary time draft is sometimes used in connection with sales of merchandise. For instance, Quincy, Bradley & Co. sell L. B. Wade & Co. merchandise amounting to $1305 on the following terms: 30-day draft for $500, balance in 60 da.

A draft similar to the following is mailed with the bill:

$ 500⁰⁰	Boston, Mass. July 15, 19--
Thirty days after date — Pay to the order of Ourselves
Five Hundred ⁰⁰/₁₀₀ ————— Dollars
Value received and charge to account of
To L. B. Wade & Co.	Quincy, Bradley & Co.
No. 73 Due ⁹ / ₁₆ Westfield, Mass.	July 20, 19--

The Object of drawing a time draft in connection with a sale of merchandise is twofold:

1. When accepted, the draft serves as a written contract.
2. Since an acceptance is negotiable, it may be discounted and cash realized upon it before maturity.

Necessary Entries for Second Time Draft. The sale will be recorded in the sales book in the regular way. No entry will be made for the draft until it is returned, accepted.

Some houses instead of mailing the foregoing draft with the invoice place it in their bank for collection. This is the usual way of handling paper of this kind, but both methods are illustrated in this work.

If Quincy, Bradley & Co. placed the foregoing draft in the hands of their bankers for collection instead of sending it to the drawees, they will make the entry the same as if the draft were in their possession, accepted, for L. B. Wade & Co., by the terms of the purchase, have contracted to accept the draft.

The following is the form of the journal entry:

Quincy, Bradley & Co.'s Journal

Bills Rec. L. B. Wade & Co.	Our 30-da. draft on them given to the bank for col- lection	500 —	500 —
--------------------------------	--	-------	-------

Should Quincy, Bradley & Co. wish to offer the draft, when accepted, for discount, they may do so. If this draft is discounted July 20, the date it is assumed they received it from L. B. Wade & Co. accepted, they will make the following cashbook records:

Left Side

July 20	L. B. Wade & Co.	Diff. recd. & disctd.	500	-
---------	------------------	-----------------------	-----	---

Right Side

July 20	Interest	L. B. Wade & Co.'s draft	2	08
---------	----------	--------------------------	---	----

NOTE. Some business men prefer to make two distinct entries for the above, as follows:

1. Bills Receivable to L. B. Wade & Co. for the acceptance received.
2. Bills Receivable on the left side of the cashbook, $500, and Interest on the right side for $2.08, when the acceptance was offered for discount.

PRINCIPLES FOR TIME DRAFTS

1. Drawer's Entry when a time draft with three distinct parties is accepted:

Payee	Drawee
-------	--------

2. Drawer's Entry when he receives his draft, drawn in his own favor, accepted:

Bills Receivable	Drawee
------------------	--------

3. Payee's Entry when he receives a time draft properly accepted:

Bills Receivable	Drawer
------------------	--------

4. Drawee's Entry when he accepts a time draft:

Drawer	Bills Payable
--------	---------------

5. Drawer's Entry when he draws a time draft on a second party in favor of himself, and the drawee prepays it in cash:

Cash	Drawee
Interest

6. Drawee's Entry when he prepays a time draft, in cash:

Drawer	Cash
	Interest

EXERCISE 54FOR WRITTEN WORK

NOTE. These exercises may be used first orally.

1. On June 1, W. G. Gambee, Denver, Colo., drew on you at 45 days' sight, in favor of Fred G. Mercier, of your city. Upon presentation, June 5, you accepted the draft. Face of the draft, $500.

- a. Write the draft and the acceptance.
- b. Make the entry for each person.

2. You bought of R. H. Macey & Co., New York, 750 yd. Scotch ginghams at 15¢, and received their 30-da. draft dated June 4. This you accepted on June 6, for the amount of the invoice.

- a. Write the draft and your acceptance.
- b. Make your entry for the draft.
- c. Make R. H. Macey & Co.'s entry when they received the draft accepted.

In the above it is assumed that R. H. Macey & Co. made one entry in their sales book at the time of shipping the goods, and another on the receipt of your acceptance; also that you entered the invoice in your invoice book, and made a journal entry when the draft was accepted.

3. You owed D. E. Smith, Seattle, Wash., $275, due in 30 da., and F. C. Kirkman, of Seattle, owed you $426.50, on account. You wrote a draft payable 30 da. after date, and sent it to Smith; he presented the draft to Kirkman, who accepted it. This canceled your debt to Smith.

- a. Show the proper acceptance on the draft.
- b. Make the entry for each person.

4. S. C. Davis, St. Louis, Mo., owed you $500, due in 30 da. You needed the money at once, and drew a 30-da. sight draft on him, in favor of yourself, and sent it to him. He accepted it and returned it to you. The draft was dated June 16, and the acceptance, June 18.

- a. Write the draft and show the acceptance.
- b. Make the entry for each person.

5. You drew a draft payable 30 da. after date on Frank H. Wilson, Trenton, N.J., in favor of yourself, for an invoice dated July 1, for $210.50, and left it at Traders National Bank for collection. The bank presented the draft, and it was duly accepted. At maturity Traders National Bank collected the draft, deducted 25¢ for charges, and remitted the balance to you.

- a. Write the draft and the indorsement. Show Wilson's acceptance and entry.
- b. Make your entry when notified that the draft had been accepted.
- c. Make your entry when you received the remittance.

6. You drew a draft payable 10 da. after date on James B. Stillman, Louisville, Ky., in favor of yourself, for $500, and sent it to Stillman for acceptance. The draft is dated July 6, and the acceptance, July 9. He returned the draft, and you held it until it was paid at maturity.

- a. Write the draft.
- b. Show the acceptance.
- c. Make the entry for each person, after acceptance.
- d. Make the entry for each person at the time of payment.

EXERCISE 55

FOR ORAL WORK

1. You drew a draft payable 30 da. after date on W. K. Darling, in favor of Isaac B. Langley.

- a. State your entry when you draw the draft.
- b. State the drawee's entry when he accepts the draft.
- c. Will the acceptance need to be dated? Why?

2. You accepted J. E. Keating's draft at 10 days' sight, in favor of Wells & Warriner.

- a. State your entry.
- b. When does a draft payable after sight begin to mature?

3. Your draft at 10 days' sight for $200, drawn on The Geo. B. Furman Company, in favor of yourself, for the invoice of Jan. 15, has been received, accepted.

- a. State your entry.
- b. Will the acceptance of The Geo. B. Furman Company on the above draft need to be dated? Why?

4. The draft in Example 3 was taken to the bank and discounted 8 da. before maturity.

- a. The draft is payable to the order of myself. Shall you need to indorse it? Why?
- b. State your entry when you discount the acceptance.
- c. State the entry of The Geo. B. Furman Company when they pay their acceptance at maturity.

QUESTIONS ON TIME DRAFTS

1. Explain the difference between drafts payable after date and drafts payable after sight. 2. What is meant by the term acceptance? 3. To what ledger account will the acceptances of other people be posted? 4. To what ledger account will our own acceptances be posted? 5. When does an acceptance need to be dated? Why? 6. Will banks take unaccepted drafts for collection? 7. When a bill of goods is sold and a time draft is drawn for all or a part of the sum, what is the proper method of treating the draft? 8. Will banks discount unaccepted drafts? 9. Give the drawee's entry when he accepts a time draft drawn upon him. 10. Give the drawer's entry when a time draft with three distinct parties is drawn. 11. How do the entries of the drawer of a time draft compare with the entries of the drawer of a sight draft? Why? 12. Give the payee's entry when he receives an accepted time draft to apply on account. 13. Give the payee's entry when he receives payment for an acceptance at maturity. 14. Are sight drafts ever accepted? Why? 15. Are days of grace allowed on sight drafts in your state? on time drafts? 16. An acceptance matures on Sunday. In your state when should it be paid? 17. When, in your state, should notes and acceptances maturing on July 4 be paid? on February 22, if that date occurs on Saturday?

- b. Show the maturity of the draft. Apr 3.
- c. Make the entry for each person when the draft was accepted.
- d. Make the entry for each person when the draft was paid at maturity.

important
NOTE. When the time of a note or a draft is expressed in months, calendar months (i.e. without regard to the exact number of days in each month) are used to determine the date of maturity; but when the time is expressed in days, the exact number of days is used.

A note or a draft due two months from date matures on the corresponding day of the second following month, provided there is a sufficient number of days in that month to make this possible. If there is not, it is due on the last day of that particular month.

Example. Notes and drafts dated Jan. 28, 29, 30, or 31, and payable one month after date, would each mature on Feb. 28, except in leap year; but if payable 30 da. after date, they would be due Feb. 27, 28, and March 1 and 2, respectively.

In most states the added day for leap years is not counted. For example, a note or a draft payable 30 da. after Feb. 25 in any leap year is due March 27, instead of March 26, as would be the case if the extra day were counted.

3. On Feb. 1 you sold F. B. Norton, Buffalo, N.Y., on his acceptance at 60 da., 150 doz. cotton hose at $2.50. The draft drawn on the date of the sale, payable 60 da. after date, was received, accepted, on Feb. 5.

- a. Write a check on Mechanics Bank to cover the draft and the exchange.
- b. Write the New York draft. A. Turner, Cashier.
- c. Make your entry.

5. On Feb. 20 you remitted your sight draft on Williams & King, Lansing, Mich., in favor of Goodwin Bros., in payment of an invoice of Feb. 18, less 5% discount. Face of the draft, $190.

SET V. JOBBING FURNITURE BUSINESS

Object. This set is designed to illustrate the Jobbing Furniture business. A variety of advanced business forms is illustrated and explained, and two new books of record are used. The transactions deal largely with commercial paper, and the actual handling of money is avoided as far as possible. Notes, drafts, and acceptances, and the relations existing between the parties connected therewith, are made a prominent feature of the work.

Books Used. In addition to the books with which the student is already familiar, the bill book and the invoice book are introduced.

Bill Book. This book is used for recording all notes or acceptances which are received by the business, or which are issued by the business. It is generally divided into two parts, one for bills receivable and the other for bills payable. When notes or acceptances are received or issued, a full description of the paper should be recorded in the bill book. This book should exhibit the same balances as the Bills Receivable and the Bills Payable accounts in the ledger.

The Model Bill Book given below is self-explanatory. Care should be taken to record in the proper columns the information called for. Complete records for the first three bills receivable and bills payable for the month of July are properly entered in this model.

NOTE. The amounts in the model bill book are for price list No. 1.

Invoice Book. This book illustrates another form for recording the amounts of all merchandise bought by the business, and takes the place of the purchase book with which the student is already familiar. It is generally made up of original bills. In regular work these bills are received and audited and then pasted into the invoice book. The net amount of each bill is carried to the money columns, which are ruled on the right of each page. In entering items in the invoice book observe the following:

1. Do not allow the edges of the bills to extend into the money column. Invoices coming from different houses will not be of uniform size, and when necessary the edges of some of these bills should be trimmed.

2. Use but little mucilage. Paste the upper and the lower corner of the first bill on each page, but paste only the lower corners of all the other bills, and let them lap over each other as shown in the model invoice book.

3. Place the amount of each bill in the money column directly opposite the name of the firm of whom the goods have been purchased.

How to post the Invoice Book. This book is posted in practically the same way as the purchase book. In posting observe the following:

1. Be sure to forward the total of the money column from page to page.

2. At the end of the month, or at such other periods as may seem advisable, post the aggregate of the money column to the debit side of the Merchandise account.

3. Post the amount of each bill directly from the invoice book to the credit of the firm of whom the merchandise was purchased.

Cashbook. The cashbook used in this set differs slightly from that used in the preceding sets. A special column is provided on each side for merchandise discounts. A careful study of the following illustration will enable the student to use this book intelligently.

NOTE. The Mdse. Disc. column is given a place in the cashbook as a matter of convenience. It shows the deduction on the invoice, and the posting to the credit of the customer's account requires that the net cash received should be added to the Mdse. Disc., to ascertain the amount of the bill settled.

The Mdse. Disc. is not used in proving cash.

INCOMING BUSINESS FORMS FOR JULY

A tablet, separate from the text, containing all the incoming business forms, is available for writing this set when business practice is used. A list of the forms is given herewith, so that the text affords all material for writing the set if business practice is omitted. These forms also afford an opportunity for the study of the set as a whole before writing it, thus meeting a requisite for adequate drill work, whether business forms are used or not.

If the set is written without using the business practice, blank invoice forms may be used for the invoice book, in recording the merchandise bought; these blanks may be secured of the publishers.

Accepted draft, dated June 3, payable at The Union Bank 30 da. after date, $450. This draft is drawn by J. B. Topham, in his own favor, on W. D. Rimbach and transferred to you by full indorsement.

The stock of furniture of the late Allen & Bailey Furniture Co., as per schedule on file, $7150.

Cash on hand, $6200.

Store and lot, 269 Causeway St., as per warranty deed on file, $7000.

Office fixtures, etc., as per schedule on file, $450.

Two horses, harness, delivery wagon, etc., valued at $450.

The following persons owe you: J. E. Bender, Troy, $1350; Samuel W. Bradley, Bedford, $750; E. F. Green & Co., Bangor, $400.

Liabilities

Your note at 1 mo. from June 25, in favor of Allen & Bailey Furniture Co., payable at The Union Bank, for $2500, with interest at 6%; interest accrued, $2.50.

Discount on bills receivable, 15¢.

C. O. Boswell's draft at 30 days' sight, dated New York City, June 20, on you, in his own favor, for $1000. You accepted it June 25, payable at The Union Bank.

You owe the following persons on account: J. O. Moran, City, $2100; Paine Manufacturing Co., Bedford, $350; Stoddard & Co., City, $4750.

NOTE. The ledger title for the store and lot is Real Estate; for the schedule of office supplies, Office Fixtures; for horses, harness, and delivery wagon, Horse & Wagon.

The Interest account and the Discount account will be united in one account under the title Interest.

Make the opening journal entry; enter the cash item in the cashbook also. Record the notes in the bill book.

Write the note and the draft given in the liabilities, and hand them in.

Did you remember to check the cash item in the opening journal entry in both the cashbook and the journal? How are they checked?

In opening a set of books it is always necessary to find the present value of the notes on hand and outstanding, in order to determine the actual net investment.

The item of $4 under interest on the list of resources is for 24 days' discount on the acceptance in favor of C. O. Boswell. The draft is not interest-bearing, so it will not be worth its face value until maturity. Computing the discount for 24 da., it is found that a cash payment of $4 less than the face will cancel the acceptance July 1. Since Bills Payable must be credited for the face of the draft, the discount is treated as an available resource.

In like manner it is found that W. D. Rimbach's acceptance is worth 15¢ less than its face value on July 1. Bills Receivable must be debited for the face of the acceptance, and Interest credited for 15¢ to offset the overcharge of resources.

Take J. B. Maxwell's note, Form 1, and W. D. Rimbach's acceptance, Form 2, and place them in the Unpaid Bills envelope. The warranty deed, the schedule of property on hand, etc., are assumed to be on file, and you will make no reference to them at this time.

Apply to the instructor for the cash investment.

Deposit in The Union Bank all the cash on hand except $100.

The bank account will be kept in the same manner as in the introductory work. An envelope for filing the checks drawn, and for making the monthly bank statement, will be found in the package of business forms. The left stub of the check book may be used for recording any important memoranda.

Pay by check the bill of Thorp, Martin & Thorp, for books, stationery, etc., Form 3.

Place the bill in the Paid Bills envelope.

Secure from the Manhattan Fire Insurance Co. a policy of insurance for \$12,000 on the store, the goods, and the fixtures at $1\frac{1}{3}\%$ premium.

Pay the premium by check in favor of Chas. M. Shaw, general agent for your place. Charge Expense.

The policy, it is assumed, was received and filed yesterday.

NOTE. A policy of insurance is simply an insurance company's contract with the insured. Such a contract covers usually the following :

Premium paid by the insured.

Term of insurance.

Amount of insurance.

Description of the property insured.

Extent of the company's liability, etc.

This agreement is signed usually by the president and the secretary of the company as well as by the local agent of whom you obtained it.

Engage Harry K. Sutton at $60 and Harvey L. Grant at $50 per month as salesmen ; Michael Donovan at $30 per month as delivery man ; Daniel L. Coon and Geo. W. Ainsley at $48 and $40 per month, respectively, as upholsterers and finishers.

A memorandum of the above may be made by the student and filed with the incoming papers.

JULY 2

David E. Teeter, 360 Main St., City, orders the following goods. The order is filled at the prices given herewith:

10 #5932 E. Toilet Tables at $50	3 #89 M. Chamber Sets at $80
1 #16 A C. Dining-room Set at $110	2 #1008 O. Sideboards at $195
1 #396 Mahogany Hall Stand at $65

Terms: 3/5, 1/30, net 60 da.

NOTE. The space allowed for recording the terms of sale on a bill is generally limited, and bookkeepers find it necessary to use symbols and abbreviations to indicate them. The following list explains the meanings of the abbreviations for terms used in this work.

Net 30 da. means that the bill is to be paid in thirty days without discount.

1/30 means that 1% discount will be allowed if the bill is paid within thirty days.

3/10, net 30 da., means that 3% discount will be allowed if the bill is paid within ten days, or the amount of the bill will be due in thirty days without discount.

Benj. P. Freeman & Co., 924 East St., City, order the following goods:

12 #170 Eng. Clothes Poles

12 #495 W. Iron Bedsteads

5 #245 Cedar Chests

25 #821 Parlor Lamps

Fill the order. Terms: sight draft in 10 da., less 3%.

Make out the bill, have it approved by the instructor, and then copy it into the sales book. Deduct the discount on the bill and in the sales book also. Draw a sight draft in favor of yourself, dating it 10 da. ahead. Write To be given to the bank July 12 on a slip of paper, pin the slip to the draft, and place both in the Business Cash envelope. Make no entry for the draft until July 12.

NOTE. Some business men prefer to wait until the 10 da. have expired before drawing the draft. It is considered better, however, to draw the draft at the time of billing the goods, since the matter may be overlooked if it is deferred 10 da.

Walker, Brown & Co., Albany, order:

5 #20 D Parlor Cabinets

10 #835 Music Cabinets

24 #176 c Piano Chairs

15 #821 Parlor Lamps

Fill the order. Terms: draft at 30 da. from date.

The goods called for in the above order will be sent by freight, and it will be necessary for you to prepare a bill of lading and the duplicates, the shipping order, and the memorandum.

Study carefully the following illustration and the explanation. This is a new feature of your work; be sure you understand it thoroughly.

In the box of business forms there is a pad of bill of lading blanks, and full instructions for using this form.

Use the pad marked Straight Bill of Lading.

BILLS OF LADING

As a means of serving the convenience of both the shippers and the railway companies, the Interstate Commerce Commission approved a uniform bill of lading, for general use, June 27, 1908. This approval applies to two forms of the bill of lading as follows: the straight bill of lading and the order bill of lading.

Model Shipping Order (Heading)

It is mutually agreed, as to each carrier of all or any of said property over all or any portion of said route to destination, and as to each party at any time interested in all or any of said property, that every service to be performed hereunder shall be subject to all the conditions, whether printed or written, herein contained (including conditions on back hereof) and which are agreed to by the shipper and accepted for himself and his assigns.

NOTE. Bills of lading were lacking in uniformity until a final decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission regarding them was secured. Previous to this they were so varied in size and form as to occasion much confusion and a consequent loss of time.

To obviate these difficulties, business men appealed to the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue an order that would require a uniform bill of lading for all shipments.

This request resulted in many conferences between the shippers, the transportation companies, and the Commission, with the result shown in the form of the bill of lading illustrated herewith.

The straight bill of lading is drawn up in a set of three papers, duplicates being made by using carbons, as follows: the straight bill of lading, original; the memorandum, an acknowledgment that a bill of lading has been issued; the shipping order. This form is not negotiable, and must be printed on white paper. The shipping order is signed by the shipper only, while the others are signed by both the shipper and the agent of the railway company. The shipping order is left with the agent; the bill of lading is sent to the purchaser of the goods; the memorandum is retained by the seller. The goods may be delivered to the purchaser without his surrender of the bill of lading.

The order bill of lading is also drawn up in a set of three papers, but in this form the bill of lading must be printed on yellow paper and the duplicates on blue paper. The order bill of lading is negotiable by indorsement, and is extensively used in the shipping of freight that is not to be delivered until it is paid for.

When the order bill of lading is used, the shipment is termed a Shipper's Order, and is recorded as a C.O.D. account.

When an order bill of lading is used, it is customary to draw a sight draft, attach it to the bill of lading, and make the collection through a bank. The name of the bank is written after Consigned to Order of, and the name of the consignee after Notify. The consignee cannot get the bill of lading until he pays the draft, and he cannot get the goods until he surrenders the bill of lading. For this reason, the shipper's order is a C.O.D. transaction.

The bill of lading must be used in connection with all out-of-town shipments, the straight bill of lading for general orders, and the order bill of lading for all orders that are not to be delivered until the goods are paid for. Observe this distinction carefully.

Prepare the straight bill of lading and the duplicates; sign the shipping order and the duplicates, and then have the instructor or the freight agent sign the bill of lading and the memorandum. Place the bill of lading with the invoice, inclose both in an envelope addressed to Walker, Brown & Co., and hand it in. The shipping order should be left with the freight agent, and the memorandum placed on file by the shipper.

Draw a draft, in favor of yourself, payable 30 da. from the date of the invoice. Indorse the draft properly and leave it with your bank for collection.

It should be borne in mind that Walker, Brown & Co. have agreed to accept the draft, and it will be honored in due course.

Make no entry in the check book. Some banks make a memorandum entry in the pass book for paper left for collection, but do not extend the amount into the money column.

The straight bill of lading will always be used, unless you are otherwise instructed at the time of the transaction.

Make an entry in the journal in the same way as if the accepted draft were in your possession. Make the proper record in the bill book. Refer to the model bill book, page 140.

Leave W. D. Rimbach's acceptance at the bank for collection.

Indorse it properly and make the necessary record in the Date Sent to Collect column of the bill book.

JULY 3

J. E. Bender, Troy, has agreed to honor your sight draft, in favor of Stoddard & Co., for $300.

Write the draft and the letters and hand them in. Make the proper entry in the journal.

The Metropolitan Carting Co. has just delivered to you the goods ordered of Cobb, Bates & Co. on July 1.

Look up the invoice, Form 4. Enter it in the invoice book. (See illustration, page 142.)

THINGS TO BE OBSERVED WHEN ENTERING PURCHASES IN THE INVOICE BOOK

1. In actual business never enter a bill in the invoice book until the goods have been received. Sometimes it may happen that more than one bill is sent for the same goods, or perhaps a bill is sent and the goods are not delivered.
2. When the goods have been received, the invoice for the same should be checked.
3. If everything called for in the invoice has been received, then the bill should be compared with the order to find out whether or not you have received the goods you ordered.
4. If the items on the bill agree with the order, next observe if the prices and the terms are what you bargained for.
5. Examine the extensions of the invoice carefully and, if everything is found to be correct, paste the bill into the invoice book.
6. If the checking shows any irregularities on the bill or in the goods received, do not paste the invoice into the invoice book, but hold it, and immediately notify the persons of whom you are purchasing the goods.

The goods ordered of Derby Manufacturing Co. have been delivered.

Look up the invoice, Form 5, and the draft sent with it, Form 6. Enter the invoice in the invoice book. Accept the draft, payable at The Union Bank, and make the journal entry. Record it in the bill book. Place the draft in an envelope, address it, and hand it in.

The deduction of 2% from the face value of this invoice is a trade discount, and really amounts to a reduction from the list price. Only the net amount is extended to the money column on the invoice, as this is the selling price of the goods, and this amount is to be posted to the ledger.

This discount appears only on the invoice, as no ledger account is kept with the trade discount.

W. D. Rimbach's acceptance has been collected. Go to the bank and have the amount placed to your credit in the pass book. Make the following record on the left stub of your check book:

July 3	W. D. Rimbach's accept- ance collected	450	—
--------	---	-----	---

Credit Bills Receivable on the left side of the cashbook. Mark the note Paid in the bill book.

JULY 5

Pay by check J. O. Moran's sight draft on you, in favor of himself, for $200, Form 7.

Write the check and make the cashbook entry. Hand in all outgoing papers.

Samuel W. Bradley, 126 James St., Bedford, orders the following goods. The order is filled at the prices given herewith.

5 #3116 A. Card Tables at $19.75 3 #1008 O. Sideboards at $195
6 #687 O. Tables at $5.25 5 #169 c Library Tables at $25

Terms: draft at 30 da., in favor of yourself, for the amount of the bill.

Write the draft and have it approved. Inclose the invoice, the bill of lading, and the draft in an addressed envelope, and hand it in. Make no entry for the draft until it has been returned, accepted.

The following suggests the general wording and the form of a telegram:

THINGS TO BE OBSERVED IN WRITING TELEGRAMS

1. Omit the salutation, the complimentary close, and all superfluous words. Avoid such expressions as, Ship immediately by American Express, etc. Here, and in all similar expressions, such words as immediately, at once, etc. are entirely unnecessary. A telegram in itself implies urgency.

2. Make all messages as short as possible, but clear and definite. A fixed charge is made for all messages, except those sent by cable, not exceeding ten words, and for every word in excess of that number there is an additional charge. All charges are regulated somewhat by distance.

3. No charge is made for the name and the address of the person who is to receive the message, or for the name of the sender.

4. The sender of a message should never include his street number, when writing his address. A charge is made for everything in the address except the name of the city or the town, the state, and the date. If you are not generally known in a large city or town, give the sending operator your street address, and answers will be delivered promptly, and no additional charge made.

5. Numbers should be written in full, since the charge is the same for a figure as for a word. For example, Send by fast freight 20 #1000 mahogany library tables would be counted as fourteen words, while Send fast freight twenty number one thousand mahogany library tables would be counted as ten words.

6. Except in a cable message, each part of a compound word is counted as an entire word. For instance, twenty-five is counted as two words.

7. Each initial of a name is charged as a separate word; but a few abbreviations are counted as one word; as, f.o.b., C.O.D., A.M., P.M., etc.

8. In cable messages a charge is made for the name and the address of the one to whom the message is sent, and for the signature as well as for the message.

9. Many kinds of cipher language are used to guard the secrecy and reduce the expense of messages. This plan is found very serviceable when the cost of transmission is great, or when very important matters are to be telegraphed without giving information except to those entitled to it. Almost all cable messages are in cipher. To telegraph or cable in cipher, business men employ what is called a code,—a system of abbreviations in which a single word stands for a whole phrase or sentence; as, Autumn might stand for Knowlton, Beach & Co., Butleigh, Glastonbury, England, or We arrived here this morning, or any other expression understood by both the sender and the receiver of a telegram or a cable message.

10. All messages of importance should be repeated. For one half the original cost of a telegram the sender of any message can have the receiving operator repeat it to the operator who sent it. Errors in important telegrams are in this way avoided.

11. Night messages are taken at reduced rates. These can be sent at any time after 6 P.M., but they are not delivered until the next morning.

12. Night letters will be received not later than midnight, to be transmitted for delivery on the morning of the next business day. Fifty words or less may be sent for the day rate of ten words. Additional charges are made for more than fifty words.

13. Day letters will be transmitted at one and one-half times the standard night letter rate for fifty words or less. Additional charges are made for more than fifty words.

JULY 7

J. E. Bender, 127 Main St., Troy, orders:

15 #396 Mahogany Hall Stands	9 #68 Oak Bookcases
10 #76 A Oak Chamber Sets

Fill the order. Terms: 3/5, 2/10, net 30 da.

Prepare the bill of lading as under July 5.

JULY 8

Receive a check from J. E. Bender for the amount of the invoice of July 7, less 3%, Form 8.

Enter the check on the left side of the cashbook. Refer to the second entry in the model cashbook, under cash receipts, page 144. Note the manner of recording the Merchandise Discount.

Merchandise Discount is an allowance for the payment of an invoice within a specified time from its date. It is usually the result of giving optional terms of settlement to the buyer, as 3/10, 1/30, n/60; that is, a reduction of 3% if payment is made within 10 da., or 1% if paid after the 10 da. and within 30 da., or the face of the bill if payment is made after the 30 da. and within 60 da.

Because the buyer has this option the invoice is billed without reduction, as it is not known which option the buyer will choose. If he pays within the time for which the discount is allowed, a record is made of this discount as a regular entry, under the title Merchandise Discount.

JULY 10

The Metropolitan Carting Co. has just delivered the goods shipped to you by W. H. Stearns & Co., Chicago, Ill., Form 9.

Make a journal entry for each draft, and then record them in the bill book. Each acceptance is journalized under the same name. Place them in the Unpaid Bills envelope.

Telegraph S. T. Udell & Co., Chicago, Ill., asking them to ship you by fast freight:

25 #20 Corner Chairs

25 #17 A Roman Chairs

They inclose a New York draft to cover the cost of the order, Form 13.

Fill the order. Terms: cash, less 3%.

Write the invoice, deducting the 3% allowed for cash. Prepare the straight bill of lading and the duplicates, in the usual form.

Enter the draft in the cash-book, but do not record the discount, as the persons have been charged in the sales book with only the proceeds of the invoice.

JULY 12

Deposit in the bank the check on hand; also the New York draft and the sight draft on Benj. P. Freeman & Co. Collection $\frac{1}{10}$ % on the check.

NOTE. Banks usually charge their depositors a small fee for collecting out-of-town checks. There is no uniform custom in charging for checks, sight drafts, and the various other negotiable instruments offered for collection. Nearly always a small charge is made for collecting any paper payable out of town. These charges range from $\frac{1}{10}$ % to $\frac{1}{4}$ %. As a rule, no charge is made to a regular depositor for collecting paper payable in the city nor to a customer who keeps a large bank account. The student will be instructed when the bank makes any charges.

Discount Samuel W. Bradley's acceptance for the invoice of July 5, and receive credit for the proceeds.

Take Bradley's acceptance from the Unpaid Bills envelope, indorse it, and then make out a discount memorandum similar to the following:

Enter the proceeds as a deposit in the check book.

In the cashbook remember to credit the acceptance for its face value; debit Interest for the discount.

In the bill book, in the Date Discounted column, write July 12.

Give Cobb, Bates & Co. a check for the invoice of July 3, less the discount allowed for prompt payment.

Write the check, hand it in, and make the entry in the cashbook. The cashbook entry will be the same, except the amounts, as the fifth entry in the model cashbook, under payments, page 145.

Receive the goods ordered of C. W. Allen & Co., on July 1, Form 14.

JULY 13

The Metropolitan Carting Co. has delivered the goods ordered of William Leavens & Co.

Look up the invoice, Form 15, and enter it in the invoice book. Note that William Leavens & Co. have deducted the discount on the invoice. You will receive their sight draft on you for the net amount of the invoice in 10 da.

No entry is made for the trade discount. Why?

Remit C. W. Allen & Co. a check for invoice of July 9, less the discount allowed for prompt payment.

Also order the following:

5 #59 A Cheval Glasses

17 #572 Drawing-room Suites

Write the check and have it approved; enter it in the cashbook. Write a letter, inclosing the check and ordering the goods.

Your acceptance in favor of Derby Manufacturing Co., made payable at your bank, is due to-day. The bank charges the amount to your account.

THE CIRCUMSTANCES UNDER WHICH A BANK WILL CHARGE A DEPOSITOR WITH A NOTE OR A DRAFT

1. Banks are not uniform in their practice of charging notes, accepted drafts, etc. In some places, notably in Chicago and several other large Western cities, they require their patrons to meet all such paper by check.

2. The practice followed by some banks is to pay notes, acceptances, etc. out of a firm's deposit, and to charge the depositor the same as they would had he drawn a check. Court decisions and special laws in force in a number of states hold that notes, acceptances, etc. made payable at a bank are orders upon that bank and may be charged to a depositor's account at maturity the same as a regular check.

3. These special laws and decisions are in operation in New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and a few other states. In these sections many banks charge notes, etc., to their patrons' accounts at maturity.

Enter the amount in the check book on the regular stub, and include this item in the total that is carried forward to the next stub.

Debit Bills Payable in the cashbook. Mark the acceptance paid in the bill book.

JULY 19

P. R. Brown, Rochester, orders:

25 #635 Brass Bedsteads

25 #6387 Hall Settles

Fill the order, subject to the order of The Union Bank.

DRAFT WITH BILL OF LADING ATTACHED

For the convenience of shippers when the responsibility or the credit of the buyer is limited or when his business standing is unknown, railway and steamship companies have provided a way whereby goods may be sent by freight so that the buyer cannot obtain possession of them without first paying for them. This method is commonly known among business men as Shipper's Order, and is analogous to C.O.D. shipments in the express business, as explained in the transaction of July 17.

Throughout the text, transactions of this kind will be entered as C.O.D. accounts.

In this shipment it will be necessary to make out an order bill of lading. This form is described and illustrated on pages 159 to 162. Observe the following directions:

After the words Consigned to order of, write The Union Bank, and on the line following write your address.

After Notify, write P. R. Brown, and on the line following write Rochester, N.Y.

Write a sight draft for the amount of the invoice, indorse it to The Union Bank, attach it to the bill of lading, and then leave it with the bank for collection.

Send the invoice to your customer in the usual way.

Enter in the sales book as a C.O.D. item. See script illustration under July 17.

HOW THE COLLECTION WILL BE MADE BY YOUR BANK

Your bank will indorse both the draft and the bill of lading, and send them to its correspondent at Rochester.

When the Rochester bank receives the draft it will notify Brown. If he pays it, the bank will give him the freight receipt, which receipt, when properly indorsed and given to the transportation company, will give him access to the goods.

Transportation companies will not deliver goods without obtaining an order bill of lading, for they would thereby render themselves liable to the shippers should the consignee not pay for the goods.

JULY 22

Pay William Leavens & Co.'s sight draft, in favor of themselves, for the amount of the invoice of July 11, Form 20.

Verify the amount of the draft by comparing it with the amount of the invoice in the invoice book. If correct, write a check for it. Make the cashbook entry. Write Paid across the face of the draft and keep it as a receipt.

Receive returns for the C.O.D. shipment of July 17, Form 21.

Take the money out of the C.O.D. envelope and place it in the Business Cash envelope. (If the Incoming Business Forms are used, the envelope containing the currency will be found in the back of the tablet.)

Enter in the cashbook as follows:

Receive of M. N. Overman, Roger, Peet & Co.'s acceptance at 30 da. from July 15, to apply on account, $469.39, Form 23.

The draft has 22 da. yet to run, so it is not worth its face value. The discount for 22 da. at 6% should be deducted. Make the journal entry, and then record in the bill book. Do not mark it Discounted in the bill book, but enter the draft at its face value.

JULY 24

Write a letter to J. K. Levy & Co., 27 East 126th St., New York, ordering:

Inclose the draft in a letter.

When a remittance is sent with an order, the amount may have been determined by previous correspondence, or by reference to prices quoted in a catalogue issued by the firm.

JULY 25

Take $75 from the Business Cash envelope and place it in the Personal Cash envelope.

JULY 29

Pay by check gas bill for the month, $7.07, Form 28.

Pay by checks salaries to date, as follows:

Harry K. Sutton	$60	Michael Donovan	$30

Write the checks and have them approved. Charge Expense in the cashbook. Enter the five checks as one item.

JULY 30

Your acceptance of July 15 in favor of Stoddard & Co., made payable at the bank, has been charged to your account.

Make the entries in the cashbook and the check book. Mark the note Paid in the bill book.

The reason for charging notes to a depositor's account is set forth on page 169.

CLOSING THE WORK FOR JULY

The student should now proceed to close the month's work as follows:

1. The monthly bank statement should be made.
2. Prove the cash, and balance and post the cashbook. (See model, pages 144 and 145.)

In posting from the cashbook observe the following:

a. In debiting or crediting a personal account when a discount has been allowed, be guided by the following form:

Williams, Dowd & Co.

19—		Discount	42			19—
July	1	N.Y. draft	2058	9	2100	June	28	I. B.	6	2100
							30	I. B.	9	592	60
						July	15	I. B.	16	1241	60

b. Post only the totals of the Merchandise Discount columns. The total of the column on the left side should be posted to the debit of Merchandise Discount in the ledger, because that column shows the aggregate discounts allowed to others for prepaying their bills during the month of July. The total of the column on the right side should be posted to the credit of Merchandise Discounts, because that column shows the aggregate discounts allowed to you for prepaying bills during the month of July.

3. In posting, allow one page for your account, one half page each for all property accounts, and one third of a page for all accounts receivable and all accounts payable.

Accounts Receivable is a term applied to the total amount due the business on personal accounts; Accounts Payable is a term applied to the total amount owed by the business on personal accounts. (The Proprietor's account is not included.)

These terms, Accounts Receivable and Accounts Payable, are to be used in making trial balances and statements in subsequent work; the result of using them is to shorten both the trial balance and the statement.

Another advantage of using the terms suggested in the preceding paragraph is to give information in concrete form. The important fact shown by these accounts in the statements is the amount due the business on account, and the amount owed by the business on account, as single items, rather than as a list of the individual debtors and creditors.

Information presented in concrete form is always a desirable feature in book-keeping.

NOTE. Blank ruled pages are provided at the beginning of the ledger for an index. Observe the following directions in preparing the index.

List all titles from the ledger alphabetically.

In each individual name write first the surname and then the Christian name; for example, Burton, John L.

Illustrations for writing firm names: Brightwood & Co., John H.; Cobb, Bates & Co.; Sherwood & Son, Henry L.

Write on every other line, and place the page number of the account immediately after the name.

When an account is transferred to a new page in the ledger, the number of this page should be written just after the number of the page on which the account was first written, as follows: Merchandise, 4, 76, etc. The last number indicates the page on which the open account may be found, and the series of page numbers enables the bookkeeper to refer to any page on which the account stands.

Any new accounts that may be opened in the ledger should be written in the index at once.

4. Rule, foot, and post the sales book and the invoice book.

5. Post the journal.

6. Prove the bill book.

NOTE. To prove the bill book, find the total of the uncanceled Bills Receivable. This sum should agree with the balance of the Bills Receivable account in the ledger.

In like manner find the total of the unredeemed Bills Payable, and this sum should agree with the balance of the Bills Payable account in the ledger.

7. Prepare monthly statements of the customers' accounts. Place them in envelopes properly addressed and hand them in for approval. (See form for statement, page 178.)

8. Take a trial balance of the balances of the ledger accounts and hand it to the instructor for approval.

9. Inventory of stock was completed by Harvey L. Grant and Harry K. Sutton yesterday. The following are their figures. Copy in the journal in the usual form, using the buying price for the merchandise.

13. If the statements and the proof are correct, close the accounts showing loss and gain, and then show the proprietor's present worth.

14. Compare the check book with the monthly bank statement.

HOW TO COMPARE THE CHECK BOOK WITH THE MONTHLY BANK STATEMENT

1. Arrange the canceled checks in the order of their numbers.
2. Compare each canceled check with the corresponding stub; if they agree as to the number, the date, the amount, to whom given and for what purpose, place a large check mark on the stub.
3. If all the stubs are checked, the balance shown by the check book will agree with the balance shown by the monthly bank statement.
4. If the balances do not agree, find the total of the stubs not checked. This sum should equal the difference between the check book and the balance shown by the monthly bank statement.

NOTE. If, at the time of making this comparison, any outstanding checks of a previous month have been returned, they must be checked with the stubs from which they were detached.

15. Place the canceled checks in the Paid Bills envelope.
16. Pass all books to the instructor for approval.

PARTNERSHIP

The work for August is a continuation of the work in July.

You are desirous of extending your business, and not having sufficient capital to do so, you have decided to enter into a partnership agreement with Harvey L. Manning.

For the resources enumerated below you admit Harvey L. Manning as an equal partner in your business.

Draw up articles of copartnership between yourself and Manning, embodying the following conditions. (See Form V, Appendix F.)

1. The firm name shall be Student & Co.
2. Student shall contribute the net resources shown by his July statement of resources and liabilities.
3. Manning shall invest:

Cash	$7000
Merchandise	1500
Account with Foley Bros. due him	5725

4. Each partner shall devote his entire time to the business.
5. Neither partner shall engage in any other business.
6. The gains and the losses shall be divided equally.
7. The partnership shall continue for two years unless sooner dissolved by mutual consent.

Hand the articles of copartnership to the instructor for criticism. If they are correct, he will sign for Harvey L. Manning.

Model for Briefing

ARTICLES OF COPARTNERSHIP between
Student
and
HARVEY L. MANNING
AUG. 1, 19—

Make a copy of the July statement of resources and liabilities, attach it to the articles of copartnership, fold the sheets together, and in the outer right-hand corner at the top brief as shown in the Model for Briefing on this page.

NOTE. Some business men prefer to make the reference to investments in the articles of copartnership cover merely the net amounts invested in the business by each partner, and then transfer all rights and interests in goods and personal property by means of a bill of sale. However, if the articles of copartnership are drawn up in accordance with the above directions, the bill of sale is wholly unnecessary. Each partner should receive a copy of the articles of copartnership.

Real property cannot be transferred by the ordinary bill of sale nor by articles of copartnership; a deed is necessary. In order not to multiply complicated forms at this point of the work, it is assumed that the student's real estate has been transferred by a warranty deed drawn this day by his attorney, Fred V. Smith, and placed on file in the office of the new firm.

Ordinarily, a business man does not draw up his own warranty deeds, articles of copartnership, etc., but employs an attorney.

When any change in the personnel of a business occurs, all who have had dealings with the house should be notified promptly, by means of circular letters or otherwise. In this case it is assumed that these letters have been written and mailed.

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP

It has been decided to dissolve the partnership existing between yourself and Harvey L. Manning. You dispose of your interest to Manning for the following:

A note at 60 da., with interest at 6%, $7500.

A check for the balance of your present worth as shown by your ledger account after closing, Aug. 31.

Write the note and have the instructor sign for Manning.

Make the journal entry, and then record the note in the bill book.

Write the check for the balance of your present worth.

Make the cashbook entry. Post both the entries to your account in the ledger and close the account.

Harvey L. Manning is to conduct the furniture business at the old stand under the name of Harvey L. Manning. He is to have the net resources and assume all the liabilities of the old firm.

Draw a check in favor of Harvey L. Manning for the balance of the cash in the bank in the name of the old firm, and hand it in.

It is assumed that your attorney, Fred V. Smith, has drawn up the contract of sale and the warranty deed necessary to transfer the title to all the chattels and the real estate to Manning. These documents, it is assumed, are on file with other important papers.

Consequences of Dissolution of Partnership. The direct consequence of a dissolution of partnership is the necessity of taking effectual steps to close the partnership affairs. Some disposition must always be made of the partnership effects. Sometimes articles of copartnership provide that property on hand shall be taken at dissolution by one of the partners according to a prescribed mode, and in that case the business may be continued without interruption. In this case there was no such agreement, but the partners between themselves entered into an arrangement whereby Manning continues the business and Student, for a sufficient consideration, consents to withdraw.

Notice of Dissolution. A dissolution of partnership, so far as it concerns its own members, may be immediate, but with reference to the public the element of notice requires consideration.

When Notice is Unnecessary. A notice of dissolution is unnecessary:

1. When a partnership expires by its own limitation.
2. When a partnership is dissolved by the operation of law.
3. When dissolution occurs by the death of one of the partners.
4. When a dormant, or silent, partner retires.

Manner of giving Notice. A notice of dissolution should be published in one of the usual advertising newspapers of the city in which the business has been conducted. This notice is deemed sufficient for all those who have not had previous dealings with the firm.

A special notice of the dissolution should be sent to those who have had previous dealings with the firm. (See Form II, Appendix F.)

Prepare a notice of your withdrawal from the firm. (See Form III, Appendix F.) Hand in the notice.

It is assumed that a notice of dissolution has been inserted in one of your usual advertising newspapers, and that circulars embodying the facts stated in the notice have been mailed to each of the firms with whom you have had dealings. After writing the circular, the work of sending it to the various firms is purely mechanical, and it is thought best not to require the student to do all this work.

After notices have been circulated as outlined above, your liability, so far as new debts are concerned, ceases.

3. The formation of partnerships.

The following illustrations apply to the formation of partnerships :

First, the formation of a partnership on the basis of equal investment by each partner at the beginning of the business.

The necessary entry is of the simplest character, as follows :

Cash	$4000
A		$2000
B		2000.

When posted, each partner's account will appear as follows :

A
						19- Jan.	1		2	2000

						19- Jan.	1		4	2000

Second, the formation of a partnership by the individual proprietor when he sells a half interest in an established business.

Illustration : A has an established business worth $15,000 ; he sells B a half interest for $7500 ; thus B becomes an equal partner. The money received by A is not a part of the capital of the new firm ; it is his individual possession, and the capital of the firm is $15,000.

On A's books, as proprietor, the capital account appeared as follows :

A
						19- Jan.	1		3	15000

Under the partnership agreement one half of this sum must be credited to each partner, and this is accomplished by the following journal entry :

A	$7500
B		$7500

When this entry is posted, the accounts of the proprietors, on the books formerly used by A, will appear as follows :

A

19—	Jan.		1		1	7500			19—	Jan.		1			3	15000
-----	------	--	---	--	---	------	--	--	-----	------	--	---	--	--	---	-------

B

										19—	Jan.		1			3	7500
--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	-----	------	--	---	--	--	---	------

Third, the formation of a partnership when the incoming partner makes an investment equal to the value of the established business.

Illustration: A has a business worth $18,000; B invests a like sum and becomes an equal partner. The money invested by B is a part of the capital of the firm, which is now $36,000.

On A's books, as proprietor, the capital account appeared as follows :

A

										19—	Jan.		1			2	18000
--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	-----	------	--	---	--	--	---	-------

The following entry should be made when B makes his investment :

Cash	$18,000
B		$18,000

After posting this entry in the books formerly used by A, B's account will appear as follows :

B

										19—	Jan.		1			2	18000
--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	-----	------	--	---	--	--	---	-------

A's account will remain unchanged, and each partner is now credited for one half of the capital of the firm.

NOTE. The cash items in the illustrations may be entered in the cashbook; the journal entry has been used simply to set forth the debit and the credit items more clearly.

Only two partners have been considered, but the principles are the same whether there are two partners or more than two, and whether the investments are equal or unequal.

Make entries for the following partnership arrangements :

- a. Henry T. Jackson and James Young form a partnership, as follows :
Henry T. Jackson invests cash, $1500, and a stock of merchandise valued at $2750.
James Young invests cash, $1250, and a store and lot worth $3000.
- b. Student and Fred S. Carmen form a partnership, as follows :
Student invests cash, $2000, and R. S. Good's note which he holds ; face of the note, $500, with accrued interest for 4 mo.
Fred S. Carmen invests cash equal to the total investment of Student.
- c. Harold D. Powers owns a dry-goods business the present value of which is $16,450. He sells a half interest to Bernard F. Shaw for $8225.
- d. George D. Fuller owns a drug store, and he values the store, fixtures, and stock at $12,600. Ralph F. Varley becomes an equal partner with Fuller by investing cash, $7600, and a stock of drugs worth $5000.
- e. Henry S. Carey, George R. Downey, and Harry S. Mason form a partnership on the following conditions : the capital is to be $25,000, of which Carey invests $12,500, Downey $7500, and Mason borrows $5000 of Carey and invests it in the business.

NOTE. How much of the Mason investment and loan should be entered on the books of the business ?

When the sales book is closed, the total sales are posted regularly to the debit of Accounts Receivable and to the credit of Merchandise in the general ledger.

The sales book of some large concerns is provided with an extra column for cash sales; the different amounts in this column are not posted to the sales ledger, but the total is entered in the cashbook daily, and credited to the Merchandise account at regular intervals. The general practice, however, is to treat all cash sales to regular customers, in just the same way as sales on account, that is, the goods are charged to the customer from the sales book and his account is credited through the cashbook for the amount received. The latter practice is followed throughout the intermediate portion of this text. The chief arguments in favor of this plan are as follows:

1. In most wholesale houses cash is understood generally to mean payments that are made within five or ten days from the date of the bill.

2. Wholesale houses would not be justified in quoting the same terms to all customers; those who buy in large quantities can be given better terms than those who buy in small quantities. As a basis for determining the best possible terms, a customer's ledger account should be consulted. This account is incomplete, not furnishing full information, if the cash sales are not entered in the customer's account in the ledger.

3. In some instances a customer, for good business reasons, might call for a statement of all his transactions for a year, and it would be to any dealer's advantage to be able to furnish such a statement readily.

Cashbook. The cashbook used in this set is designed to illustrate the desirability of using special columns to meet the requirements of certain lines of business. The model cashbook on pages 204 and 205 is self-explanatory.

NOTE. Additional columns may be placed in the cashbook, when special columns are used, if their introduction will lessen the work and increase the value of the cashbook records.

The first two columns on the left are reserved for receipts from customers on account. These columns are similar to those illustrated in Set V, but in this set they are used for personal items only. The separate items in these columns are credited to the customers in the sales ledger. At the end of the month, or as often as may be found desirable, the total of the first column is posted to the debit of Merchandise Discounts and to the credit of Accounts Receivable in the general ledger. (See page 204.)

The total of the net proceeds column is posted to the credit of Accounts Receivable in the general ledger.

All receipts of cash, aside from the items from personal accounts, are entered in the General column on the left side of the cashbook, and these items are posted separately.

Invoice Book. This book is illustrated and explained on pages 142 and 143. The separate bills are credited to the various accounts in the purchase ledger, and the total is posted to the debit of Merchandise and to the credit of Accounts Payable in the general ledger.

Purchase Ledger. The purchase ledger contains a record of transactions with the creditors. The principal items of credit in this ledger are posted from the invoice book, and the main items of charge, from the cashbook; but both debits and credits for the creditors' accounts may come from the journal.

Sales Ledger. The sales ledger contains a record of transactions with customers. The main items of charge come from the sales book, and the main items of credit from the cashbook; but both debits and credits for the customers' accounts may come from the journal.

General Ledger. The general ledger contains a record of all accounts of the business not entered in the purchase ledger or the sales ledger. The Accounts Payable account, or Purchase Ledger Account, in this ledger represents the purchase ledger, and the balance of the account should agree with the sum of the balances in the purchase ledger. The Accounts Receivable account, or the Sales Ledger Account, in the general ledger represents the sales ledger, and the balance of the account should equal the sum of the balances in the sales ledger.

Advantages of Auxiliary Ledgers. The chief advantages resulting from the use of auxiliary ledgers may be stated as follows:

1. By glancing at the balance of the Accounts Receivable in the general ledger a merchant may know at once the aggregate of the amounts due him. This would not be possible if a sales ledger were not used.

2. By glancing at the balance of the Accounts Payable a merchant may know the aggregate of the amounts he owes. This account would not be in the books, except in scattered details, if a purchase ledger were not used.

3. The Accounts Receivable and the Accounts Payable accounts aid in proving the correctness of the personal accounts of a business.

4. Auxiliary ledgers show a classification of accounts which is necessary in the bookkeeping of large concerns; they also give a business man classified information concerning many important details of his business.

The Journal used in this set is provided with special columns. (See model journal, page 208.)

This book is sometimes provided with a large number of columns to meet the requirements of some lines of business. The columns used here, however, are sufficient to give the student an idea of how special columns may be used to advantage in the journal.

The Purchase Ledger Debits column may be used to advantage in houses where a separate ledger is kept for accounts with those from whom goods are bought. Any charges to these accounts in the journal should be extended into this column. The several amounts are posted separately to the debit side of the accounts in the purchase ledger, and the total is carried regularly to the debit of Accounts Payable in the general ledger.

The Sales Ledger Credits column may be used to advantage in most houses where a separate ledger is kept for accounts with those to whom goods are sold. Any credits to these accounts in the journal should be extended into this column. The several amounts are posted separately to the credit side of the accounts in the sales ledger, and the total is carried regularly to the credit of Accounts Receivable in the general ledger.

The General Ledger Credits column contains all the items of credit in the journal except the sales ledger credits. The total is not posted.

INCOMING BUSINESS FORMS FOR SEPTEMBER

A tablet, separate from the text, containing all the incoming business forms, is available for use in writing this set when business practice is used. A list of the forms is given herewith so that the text affords all material required for writing the set if business practice is omitted. Also, these forms afford an opportunity for the study of the set as a whole before writing the same, thus meeting a requisite for adequate drill work, whether the business forms are used or not.

If the set is written without using business practice, blank invoice forms may be used for the invoice book, in recording the merchandise bought; these blanks may be secured of the publishers.

If business practice is used either with or without the tablet, the student should be given the necessary blank forms for making out the following:

MEMORANDA OF TRANSACTIONS FOR SEPTEMBER

SATURDAY, SEPT. 15

Since selling your interest in the furniture business of the late firm of Student & Co. you have had several conferences with Geo. H. Dobbin and Arthur M. Black, relative to making an investment in a wholesale grocery business.

To-day it has been decided to enter into a partnership for the purpose of conducting a wholesale grocery business under the following conditions:

1. The name of the copartnership will be Student, Black & Co.
2. Investments will be as follows:
 - a. Arthur M. Black makes a cash investment of $14,000.
 - b. Geo. H. Dobbin makes a cash investment of $10,000.
 - c. Student makes a cash investment of $7000, and a note of Frey & Brown in his favor, dated Sept. 1, at 3 mo., for $8000.
3. The partnership shall continue for two years, unless the parties mutually consent to a dissolution at an earlier date.
4. Gains shall be shared equally and losses borne equally.
5. Student and Black shall each receive $200 per month for their services, and Dobbin, $150.
6. Whenever the books of the firm are closed, each partner shall be charged with interest at 6% on all sums withdrawn for private use, and shall receive interest at the same rate on all sums invested.

Draw up articles of copartnership, fully covering the above points. (See Form V, Appendix F.)

Fold and brief the articles (see page 181) and then hand them in.

Each partner pays his investment as per agreement.

Receive the three checks. Dobbin's and Black's checks are Forms 3 and 4. Your check and note are Forms 1 and 2.

Enter the note in the bill book and place it in the proper envelope. Credit Student, Black & Co. for the total investment on the left side of the cashbook, extending the amount into the general column. Debit Bills Receivable on the right side of the cashbook for the amount of the note, $8000, extending the amount into the general column. The difference between the two amounts recorded in the cashbook will show the amount of cash received by the business, $31,000.

Open an account with The Union Bank and deposit the three checks on hand.

When signing the name of the firm to indorsements, notes, checks, etc., sign Student, Black & Co.

MONDAY, SEPT. 17

A. J. Weaver & Co., of your place, have offered to sell you the entire resources and liabilities of their business located at 420 State St., on the following conditions:

1. That you pay them $6000 for the good will of their business.
2. That you buy all their resources at face value, the personal accounts and the quality and the quantity of the merchandise on hand to be covered by their written guarantee.

3. That you assume their lease of the building at 420 State St. and pay all their liabilities.

4. That you pay them for the net assets of the business, cash, $14,000, and the balance in two notes payable in 3 mo. and 6 mo. respectively, without interest.

GOOD WILL EXPLAINED

The term good will can hardly be said to have any precise signification. It is generally understood to stand for certain advantages obtained by the purchaser of any business in consequence of his position before the public as succeeding to an enterprise which has been identified in the past with the good name and the repute of his predecessor. Its value is dependent upon the ability of the purchaser to maintain and improve past celebrity, reputation for skill, punctuality, etc.

The Good Will account may appear as a resource on the books of the purchaser of any business, but its value is never definite.

The value of the account is necessarily indefinite because of its dependence on the maintenance of the reputation and the success of the business, and as these are changing factors, the value of it is subject to change.

When a business changes ownership, the good will is then subject to a definite valuation, as agreed upon by the buyer and the seller.

The account is seldom opened except in connection with the purchase and the sale of an established business. When a business of recognized reputation is offered for sale, the good will is frequently as much a matter for consideration as any commodity. The account, however, is of more or less fictitious value, and many business men prefer to drop it gradually from their records in the ledger. This may be done by carrying regularly a definite portion of the account to the Loss and Gain account, when the books are closed.

In the course of time, this plan of carrying a certain portion of the Good Will account to the Loss and Gain account will eliminate it from the open ledger accounts of the business.

You accept the proposition of A. J. Weaver & Co. and ask them to make out a contract of sale at once.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 18

A contract of sale covering the following resources and liabilities was received by Mr. Black from A. J. Weaver & Co. this morning. It was duly examined by Joseph M. Gordon, Esq., the attorney for your firm, and when found strong and binding in every way was filed among other important papers in the firm's safe.

NOTE. Form IV, Appendix F, is a contract of sale similar to the one which would be given by A. J. Weaver & Co. in the preceding transaction.

If thought best, the instructor may require the student to prepare the contract for the preceding transaction.

NOTE. In actual business the two bills payable would be in the possession of the payees or the bank at which they are made payable. In this case it is assumed that they are in the possession of the bank for collection. The student will therefore need to draw up both notes and hand them to the bank or to the instructor. Indorse them as they should be indorsed by the payees when left at the bank for collection.

Write the check and the notes in payment of the purchase from A. J. Weaver & Co., as per agreement.

Make the journal and the cashbook entries for the purchase. Study the model journal, page 208. Check the cash item in both the journal and the cashbook.

Take the notes of A. J. Weaver & Co., Forms 5, 6, and 7, and enter them in the bill book. Also enter the bills payable in the bill book.

Post the journal and the cashbook entries just made to the proper ledgers. If necessary, consult the instructor.

After posting the journal entries to the general ledger, debit the several personal accounts receivable in the sales ledger and credit the several personal accounts payable in the purchase ledger.

In posting, allow one third of a page for each account in the general ledger, and one fourth of a page for each account in the sales ledger and the purchase ledger.

Prepare an index for each ledger; the general ledger on the first page, and the others on the second page.

In the sales ledger and the purchase ledger write the address after each ledger title. This should be written in a smaller hand just to the right of the title.

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 19

You desire to engage the services of a competent shipping clerk and decide to insert an advertisement in the Evening Transcript of your place.

Prepare an advertisement stating the qualifications you consider desirable in a candidate for such a position as you have to fill.

Write checks in payment of the following:

Two work horses purchased of Walter H. Wood for $125 each; bill of Eureka Coal Co., Form 8, for coal, $22.50; bill of Geo. E. Roe & Co., Form 9, for wagons, harnesses, etc., $275; bill of the Daily Transcript Co., Form 10, for advertising to date, $49.23.

Charge the advertising and the coal to Expense, and the other items to Horse and Wagon account.

NOTE. Unless otherwise instructed, hand in all outgoing papers. When in doubt as to what should be done with any incoming forms, consult the instructor.

Write letters, ordering the following:

1. Of Walter Baker & Co., New York, the goods outlined in Form 19, page 211. Give references and shipping directions and ask for the best cash discounts.

2. Of Smith, Perkins & Co., New York, the goods outlined in Form 21, page 211. These people have had extensive dealings with the old firm of A. J. Weaver & Co., but you are entire strangers to them. Give such information concerning your firm as will secure prompt shipment of the goods you order. If necessary, consult the instructor.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 20

Pay the following bills by checks: bill of R. H. Myers & Co., Form 11, for office books, stationery, etc., $26.09; bill of Eureka Coal Co., Form 12, for the private account of Geo. H. Dobbin, $13.50. Open an account with Geo. H. Dobbin, Private.

WHY PRIVATE ACCOUNTS WITH THE INDIVIDUAL MEMBERS OF A FIRM SHOULD BE OPENED

Strictly speaking, these accounts do not represent a part of the investment of any business, but rather the items show the dealings of the business with the individual members of the firm; it is, therefore, desirable that they be kept separate from the account or accounts representing the capital of the concern.

The failure to keep such accounts confuses business and private affairs, fosters carelessness and extravagance, and sometimes results in financial disaster.

The capital account or investment is a fund to be used in carrying on the business, and is not to be disturbed except by agreement of the partners and the amendment of the articles of partnership.

ITEMS THAT ARE ENTERED IN PROPRIETORS' PRIVATE ACCOUNTS

Debits

1. Cash, or any other property belonging to the firm, withdrawn by a partner for private use.
2. Private debts of a partner paid by the firm.
3. Proper share of any net losses to be borne by a partner when the books are closed.

Credits

1. Cash advanced to the business by a partner and not counted as a part of the capital of the firm.
2. Unpaid salary due a partner.
3. Firm debts assumed by a partner.
4. Proper share of any net gains of the business.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 21

In response to your advertisement of Sept. 19, for a competent shipping clerk, twenty-three letters were received; one from Albert B. Curtis, 270 Tremont St., impressed you favorably, Form 13, and you have had an interview with the young man, which has resulted in his engagement with your firm at $25 per week. His appointment dates from Monday, Sept. 24.

File the letter, as it may be needed for reference.

Engage Edward McDorman as driver at $10 per week.

Make a memorandum and place it on file.

Write letters, ordering the following goods:

1. Of Stickney, Poor & Co., New York:

50 bx. Butter Color	2500 lb. E. Apricots

Inclose a New York draft in payment of the bill, less 3%. Buy the draft by check, Form 14; exchange, 25¢.

2. Of Gray, Dunkle & Co., Chicago, the goods outlined in Form 35, page 213. Remember that this firm was one of the creditors of the late house of A. J. Weaver & Co., and word the letter accordingly.

3. Of Bates, Aldrich & Co., Boston, the goods outlined in Form 37, page 213. The members of this firm were creditors of A. J. Weaver & Co.

If you pay the balance in favor of D. W. Simpson & Co. this week, you will get a discount of 5%.

Write your check for the amount shown in the purchase ledger, less 5%. Take the check to your bank or instructor and have it certified.

CIRCUMSTANCES UNDER WHICH CHECKS ARE CERTIFIED IN BUSINESS

Checks pass as money very freely from one person to another. They cannot always be accepted as money, however, for there is nothing to prevent any person from drawing a check upon a bank in which he has no money on deposit. Before a business man accepts a check from a stranger he may require that it be certified; that is, that it be stamped by the bank upon which it is drawn, in a manner that will indicate its validity.

When a check is certified, the bank immediately charges the amount to the drawer and sets aside the funds from which to pay the check when it is presented.

A certified check is secured by the bank on which it is drawn, and it is good as long as the bank is solvent.

SIGNIFICANCE OF CERTIFICATION

1. By certifying a check a bank declares in effect the following:
 - a. That the signature is genuine.
 - b. That the drawer's balance is good for the amount named.
 - c. That it holds itself responsible for the payment of the check.
2. Certification does not guarantee the following:
 - a. That the indorsements, if any, are genuine.
 - b. That the check was drawn in good form. If a check is so carelessly drawn that it can be raised easily, and is certified afterwards, a bank can be held for only the amount for which the check was first drawn.

Write a letter to D. W. Simpson & Co., inclosing the above check and ordering :

50 bx. Sunlight Soap	5 cases, 100 sacks, P. P. Flour
125 bx. Wool Soap	50 cases, 1000 sacks, C. P. Flour

Albert B. Curtis, your shipping clerk, has made application for a position with Perry, Mason & Co., Boston. The position with that firm promises to develop an excellent future for Mr. Curtis, and you have decided to aid him in securing the place. Write a letter of recommendation for Mr. Curtis, placing a high estimate on his integrity and general business ability.

SUGGESTIONS BEARING UPON LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION

1. Avoid exaggerated expressions. They injure the one recommended.
2. Be thoroughly acquainted with the qualities of which you speak.
3. Recommend only those who are worthy of some praise.
4. Be sincere; do not entirely pass over defects when you know that they exist.
5. Generally speaking, do not write a letter of recommendation addressed, To whom it may concern, as such a letter cannot give a specific commendation.
6. Aim to be original in your expressions.
7. A good letter of recommendation usually conforms with the following arrangement of thoughts :

Paragraph No. 1 : Introduction.

Paragraph No. 2 : General estimate of character and ability.

Paragraph No. 3 : Brief summary and courteous closing.

Give Geo. H. Dobbin a check, for private use, $25.

Student withdraws by check, from the business for private use, $50.

Deposit the check, the New York draft, the sight draft on R. D. Fowler & Co., and all the currency on hand.

Make out a daily statement and have it examined. Post.

Proceed to adjust the interest on the Proprietors' accounts, preparatory to making the statements and closing the general ledger.

HOW TO ADJUST INTEREST BETWEEN PARTNERS

1. The investments were all paid on Sept. 15. Determine the exact number of days from that date to Oct. 6. Find the interest on each investment for this time.
2. The private accounts were credited for salaries Sept. 29. Determine the exact number of days from that date to Oct. 6. Find the interest on each private account credit for this time.
3. Find the total interest due the partners.
4. Find the interest on each man's withdrawals from the time of such withdrawals to Oct. 6.
5. Find the total interest due the business from the withdrawals of the partners.
6. Find the difference between the two totals above. This sum is the net interest due the partners from the business.
7. Next, find the difference between the total interest due each and the total interest to be charged to each. These sums represent the amounts to be credited to each partner and debited to Interest account. This interest does not properly belong to the regular Interest account, since that account is intended solely for interest arising from transactions with others.

HOW INTEREST DUE ON THE PROPRIETORS' ACCOUNTS MAY BE KEPT OUT OF THE REGULAR INTEREST ACCOUNT

In this set gains and losses are to be shared equally; therefore one third of any sum placed in the Interest account will finally be transferred to the opposite of the proprietors' accounts when the proper shares of profits or losses are carried to these accounts. For example: Suppose the total interest due the partners is $60. Of this sum there is due A $17, B $21, and C $22. If this was entered on the books it would appear as follows:

Interest	$60
A	$17
B	21
C	22

If the $60 interest was to be closed to Loss and Gain and then distributed to the partners as a cost to the business, each partner's gain would be decreased $20, or his loss increased $20. Then we should have:

1. A's debit is $20, and his credit $17. He owes the business $3.
2. B's debit is $20, and his credit $21. The business owes him $1.
3. C's debit is $20, and his credit $22. The business owes him $2.

Instead of this, one entry will adjust the interest between partners, as follows:

A	$3
B	$1
C	2

On this basis of reasoning, make the proper entry to adjust the interest on the proprietors' accounts in the business.

Have the entry approved before posting it to the ledger.

PART III. ADVANCED WORK

SET VII. DRY-GOODS BUSINESS

The Object of this set is to illustrate, as concisely as possible, a system of bookkeeping which, with slight modifications, may be adapted to the general routine of a wholesale or a jobbing dry-goods house. No attempt is made to enter into an explanation of the minor details of bookkeeping, which are different in all large dry-goods houses.

Some of the special features of this set are :

1. Suggestions bearing upon general business correspondence.
2. The introduction and the use of the Cash Suspense account, and the significance of Protest as applied to commercial paper.
3. A more complete explanation and illustration of special columns.
4. The use of the Power of Attorney.
5. A personal account closed into the Loss and Gain account.
6. A classification of the Merchandise account.
7. An illustration of goods returned, both a purchase and a sale.

The following books are used: the cashbook, the sales book, the invoice book, the journal, the general ledger, the sales ledger, the purchase ledger, and the bill book.

The cashbook used in this set is essentially the same as the one explained and illustrated in Set VI, but several new special columns have been added.

The Bills Receivable column on the left side of the cashbook is for the cash received for notes and acceptances paid or discounted. Only the total of this column is posted. Such a column may be used when a large number of notes are received on account.

The Bills Payable column on the right side of the cashbook is for the cash paid for our notes and acceptances. Only the total of this column is posted. Such a column may be used when our notes and acceptances are given frequently on account.

Owing to the introduction of the classified Merchandise account, the totals of the Merchandise Discount columns, in the cashbook, are closed under the names Merchandise Sales and Merchandise Purchases, and posted to the ledger accounts bearing these names.

Make a careful study of the cashbook illustrated on pages 250 and 251.

Special Columns in Sales Book and Invoice Book. The sales book used in many wholesale and jobbing dry-goods houses is provided with special columns for the several departments of the business. These columns are indispensable when a special Merchandise account is used for each department. When these departmental accounts are kept, the invoice book should be provided with special columns for the several departments.

NOTE. When accounts with the several departments of a business are kept, they are debited with their approximate share of the general expenses of the concern. This, in most cases, means an additional number of special columns in the cashbook. The inventories belonging to each department will then be recorded separately, and the several departmental accounts closed separately into a general Merchandise account; or directly into the Loss and Gain account, if there are no goods kept in stock except those covered by the different departments.

POWER OF ATTORNEY DEFINED

A power of attorney is a written instrument by which one person appoints another to act for him along certain specified lines. It is frequently drawn up under seal; indeed, when the authority conferred is to execute any instrument that must be recorded, the person signing the paper must go before a notary public or a similar officer and acknowledge that he, of his own free act and will, executed the same.

MEMORANDA OF TRANSACTIONS FOR NOVEMBER

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 19

In this set, the student will not be a member of the firm as in the previous sets, but he will act as bookkeeper and confidential clerk for the wholesale dry-goods house of A. J. Morley & Co., located at 624 North Ave., City.

The members of the firm have decided to give him a power of attorney, in order that he may sign and indorse notes, checks, and all other negotiable paper of the firm.

Take the power of attorney, Form 1, fold it properly, and in the upper right-hand corner write:

POWER OF ATTORNEY A. J. MORLEY & Co. to Student Nov. 19, 19—
--

NOTE. If the tablet of Incoming Business Forms is not used in the business practice, the power of attorney may be prepared by the student as suggested in Form 1.

Your firm has decided to withdraw the balance on deposit in Traders National Bank, City, with whom they have heretofore done their banking business, and deposit it in The Union Bank.

Take the check, Form 2, for $4834.44, indorse it, make out a deposit ticket, place both in the pass book, and open an account at The Union Bank.

The firm name must be written as follows on all indorsements, etc., in this set:

A. J. Morley & Co.,
by Student, Atty.

In opening an account for the firm by whom you are employed as above, you may take with you to the bank your power of attorney, showing the right conferred upon you.

Enter the amount of the check in the check book; also, as a balance in the cashbook. Keep the bank account as in the previous sets.

The student should bear in mind that he is not opening a set of books, but that he is taking up the work where another left it.

INSTRUCTIONS WHEN ASSUMING CHARGE OF A SET OF BOOKS

1. Prove the cash.

a. If it proves, balance the cashbook and post the items that are not already in the ledgers.

b. If it does not prove, determine the date on which it did prove, and trace the errors if you can. If unable to find the errors, report to your employers and proceed as instructed by them.

2. Post all the books to date, and take a trial balance from the general ledger. If unable to get a trial balance, find the last trial balance and compare it with the ledger items of that date. If there are no discrepancies in that sheet, proceed to trace the posting to the general ledger since the date of the trial balance which is correct. Report errors and discrepancies to your employers and proceed as instructed by them.

3. In like manner, test the correctness of the sales ledger and the purchase ledger. If there are any errors, try to locate them.

—They inclose their check in payment of the bill, less 2%, Form 21.

Place a small \checkmark in the folio columns of the sales book and the cashbook, opposite the firm name, to indicate that neither item should be posted. This illustrates how some business houses keep spot cash sales out of the sales ledger.

—D. O. Mills, who has been out of town several days, has just returned. (40, 41) Scotch cheviot; the cash was put in the cash drawer, but no bill was rendered or memorandum made.

—1. Make an entry on the right side of the cashbook, debiting Cash Suspense, $40.50. (This sum has been carried as a cash-over item.)

—2. Enter in the sales book in the regular way. Check the amount \checkmark , so that it will not be posted.

—3. Credit Joseph L. Dillingham on the left side of the cashbook in the regular way. Check the amount \checkmark , so that it will not be posted.

SUSPENSE ACCOUNT EXPLAINED

—The Suspense account, as it is sometimes used, contains the items of cash over or cash shortage. Sometimes when several persons handle the cash, money is taken in or paid out and no memorandum made; and, again, sometimes a remittance is made in such a way as to fail to disclose the name of the person who made it. In such cases, proceed as follows:

a. For cash over: debit Cash and credit Cash Suspense account.

b. For cash shortage: debit Cash Suspense account and credit Cash.

The Cash Suspense account may represent either a resource or a liability or a loss or a gain; as, a. When items of suspense have been of long standing at the time of making a statement of the business, the balance is usually carried into loss or gain.

b. When such items have not been of long standing, they are treated either as a resource or a liability.

Give M. P. Keeler a check for the private account of D. O. Mills, $100.

Give H. C. Benway a check for painting the store, $120.

Charge Expense.

Deposit the two checks and the sight draft on hand; $\frac{1}{10}\%$ collection on Gardiner & Sprong's check.

Make out a daily statement and have it approved. Post.

Submit all books to the instructor for approval.

MONDAY, NOV. 24

— Discount at The Union Bank the note received of B. N. Acker on Nov. 22.

2. Discount the amount of the note (the face plus the interest) for the time from the date of discount to the maturity of the note.
3. Subtract the discount found from the amount of the note, and the difference is the sum for which you should receive credit.

Credit Bills Receivable in the cashbook for the face of the note; credit Interest for the total amount of the interest, and debit Interest for the discount. Make the proper record in the bill book.

TUESDAY, Nov. 25

Your firm has received a letter from Williams, Howard & Co., Springfield, asking for information with regard to the financial standing and general business equipment of Starr, Jordan & Co., of your city. You are asked to wire your reply.

You confer with A. J. Morley, the senior member of your firm, and at his suggestion send a telegram, giving the following information :

The firm of Starr, Jordan & Co. does not stand well financially in this section. WEDNESDAY, NOV. 26

Receive from The Union Bank a notice of protest of J. N. Smith & Co.'s note, due yesterday, Form 28. Pay the protest fees in cash, $1.

Write Protested in the Remarks column of the bill book, and debit Protest Fees in the cashbook for the notary's charge for protesting.

All paper that goes to protest should be taken out of the Bills Receivable account, therefore make the following journal entry: Protested Paper to Bills Receivable.

In the general ledger, open an account with Protested Paper.

WHEN PROTEST IS NECESSARY

1. When payment of a note or a draft has been formally demanded and refused, it should be protested.

2. All foreign drafts must be protested, either for nonpayment or for non-acceptance, or the drawers or indorsers will be relieved of all responsibility.

3. While it is quite unnecessary to protest a note on which there is no indorser, the majority of banks will protest all paper that is not paid at maturity, unless they are specifically instructed to the contrary. No protest is sometimes printed on a perforated slip at the end of a note or draft. These words may be left on or detached at the discretion of the indorser of the paper.

VALUE OF PROTEST

1. In a general way a protest aids in securing prompt attention on the part of the payer to all his maturing negotiable obligations payable at a bank.

2. A protest in an indirect way aids the business man in the collection of overdue accounts. A debtor will give, in most cases, more serious attention to a sight draft drawn upon him, which may go to protest, than he will to the ordinary statement of an account or to a request for a remittance.

METHOD OF PROTESTING

1. The notary takes the bill and demands payment, which is refused.

2. He writes a statement to the effect:

- a. That he has presented and demanded payment of the bill.
- b. That payment has been refused.
- c. That he protests against the drawers and the indorsers.
- d. That due notice has been given to the indorsers, etc.

3. He affixes his name and seal to the paper.
4. The protest is then attached to the note or the draft and is filed by the holder. (For Certificate of Protest, see Form VII, Appendix F.)

Before closing the books for November give careful attention to the classification of the Merchandise account as explained on page 274.

CLASSIFICATION OF THE MERCHANDISE ACCOUNT

In small lines of business it is the general custom to enter all transactions with merchandise in one account, the Merchandise account; but in a large business the subdivision of this account is important as a means of setting forth the facts regarding the different transactions with the merchandise bought, sold, or exchanged.

In this set, three accounts are opened with merchandise, as follows: Merchandise General, which, as an open account, shows the merchandise inventory; Merchandise Purchases, which, as an open account, shows on the debit side all goods bought, and the freight and drayage, and on the credit side all discounts allowed and all goods returned, if any; Merchandise Sales, which, as an open account, shows on the credit side all goods sold, and on the debit side all discounts allowed and all goods returned, if any.

The manner of posting to these accounts is explained in Closing the Work for November.

The closing of these accounts, when the books are closed on Dec. 6, is illustrated on page 292.

CLOSING THE WORK FOR NOVEMBER

1. Balance the cashbook and post the totals to the general ledger.

NOTE. The footing of the Merchandise Discount columns is closed under the names Merchandise Sales Dr., and Merchandise Purchases Cr., and posted to those accounts in the general ledger.

2. Rule and foot the sales book. The following is the closing entry: Accounts Receivable to Merchandise Sales. Post these items to the general ledger.

3. Rule and foot the invoice book. The following is the closing entry: Merchandise Purchases to Accounts Payable. Post these items to the general ledger.

4. Rule and foot the journal; make the proper entry for the total of the Purchase Ledger column and Sales Ledger column. Post to the general ledger.

5. Prove the bill book.

6. Make an abstract of the sales ledger and have it approved.

7. Make an abstract of the purchase ledger and have it approved.

8. Take a trial balance of the general ledger and have it approved.

9. Compare the monthly bank statement with the check book.

10. Hand all books to the instructor for approval.

An inquiry has been received from Nester & Worden, retail dry-goods merchants, Geneva, relative to a general line of dry goods. They refer you to several well-known houses, state that they are rated by Dun's and Bradstreet's agencies, and ask you to quote them your best terms.

An investigation of their financial standing by your firm proves the desirability of securing this firm as regular customers, and you write them a courteous letter, thanking them for their inquiry and soliciting a share of their patronage. Call brief attention to your general facilities for doing business, and try to make them feel that it would be to their advantage to enter into business relations with your firm.

Have the letter criticized before handing it in.

NOTE. Dun's and Bradstreet's commercial agencies are two large corporations of the United States engaged in the business of collecting information with regard to the financial standing, the ability, and the rating of persons engaged in business enterprises, and sending it to subscribers to their service.

These two agencies have become extensive factors in modern commercial transactions by furnishing information to retail jobbers, wholesale merchants, etc. The prudent business man before selling to a stranger on credit should inform himself first, through these commercial agencies, of the financial standing of the prospective customer.

SUGGESTIONS BEARING UPON LETTERS SOLICITING TRADE

A very fruitful source of new business is the letter soliciting trade; and since no accomplishment is of more importance to the business man than that of securing trade, all these letters should be handled diplomatically. The following points should receive consideration in the writing of such a letter.

1. Follow up inquiries promptly and tactfully.
2. If you are not satisfied with the references given you, be careful how you say so.
3. Do not hesitate to show your unwillingness to fill orders when references are unsatisfactory.
4. Avoid all extravagant claims for goods and facilities for doing business.
5. Use good materials and write an attractive letter. The letters sent out, in most cases, stamp pretty accurately the kind of a house they represent.
6. Do not beg for trade.
7. Be brief. In letters similar to the foregoing, especially, do not say too much. Business men are not likely even to read long circular letters.

SATURDAY, DEC. 6

The balance due on the account of Baker, Shaw & Co., Clifton Springs, is over 60 da. past due. At maturity of their bills a statement of account was sent them. No attention was paid to this, and on Nov. 1 Mr. Morley wrote them a mild dunning letter, calling attention to their overdue balance and urging a prompt settlement. Nov. 8 a letter was received from them, stating their inability to pay then, but making a definite promise to settle in full by Nov. 25. No word has been received from them since. At Mr. Morley's suggestion you write a letter, asking for an immediate settlement of the account. These points are set forth in your letter:

1. The firm has the ability to pay its debts, you think.
2. You want to continue to do business with them.
3. You must have a settlement at once.

SUGGESTIONS BEARING UPON DUNNING LETTERS

1. Promptness and accuracy in the matter of sending statements and other reminders of overdue accounts are of the greatest importance in securing prompt settlements.

2. When no attention is paid to statements of account, dunning letters generally follow. How soon they should follow depends upon circumstances.

3. The tone of a dunning letter should be governed by existing conditions. No dunning letter should

- a. Lack in courtesy.
- b. Contain accusations of any sort.
- c. Show that the temper of the writer is overwrought.
- d. Intimate court proceedings unless that seems to be the last resort.

4. Dunning letters should

- a. Aim to make the tone of the appeal consistent with the facts of the case.
For instance, the first of a series of dunning letters should be entirely different in tone from the second or the third letter.
- b. Be brief and to the point.
- c. As far as possible show that the writer has confidence in his debtor and expects a prompt payment.
- d. Make proper reference to the amount of the account.
- e. Be fair and, as far as consistent with good business management, lenient.
- f. Avoid the imperative form of statement.

CLOSING THE WORK FOR DECEMBER

1. Make a journal entry to adjust the interest on the proprietors' accounts. (See explanation, page 242.) Take into consideration the following:

a. Interest was last adjusted Nov. 15.

b. Morley's share of the capital stock is $20,000; Mills's share, $18,750; these sums draw interest from Nov. 15 to date. (Count the exact number of days.)

c. The credit of Morley's private account draws interest from Nov. 15 to date; also, the credit of Mills's private account draws interest from Nov. 15 to date.

d. The withdrawals on each personal account are charged with interest from the date of withdrawal to Dec. 6.

e. According to the articles of agreement, the gains and the losses are to be shared equally.

Outline the entry on paper for the above adjustment of interest, and have it approved by the instructor before you make it in your books.

2. Post the above entry. Rule and foot the journal and make the proper entry for the totals. Post the entry to the general ledger.

NOTE. Before closing the cashbook, the sales book, and the purchase book, refer to the instructions given for closing the work in November, page 274.

3. Balance the cashbook and post the items in the summary.

4. Rule and foot the sales book and make the proper entry for the total. Post the entry to the general ledger.

5. Rule and foot the invoice book and make the proper entry for the total. Post the entry to the general ledger.

6. Prove the bill book.

7. Make an abstract of the sales ledger and have it approved.

8. Make an abstract of the purchase ledger and have it approved.

9. Make a trial balance from the general ledger and have it approved.

TO THE STUDENT. If the trial balance and abstracts do not prove, look for the errors systematically. Never verify portions of the work at random and expect to locate the discrepancies. Be sure that errors actually exist before you begin to look for them. Revise the additions of the trial balance and abstracts before looking for the error in the ledger or other books. Find the exact amount of the discrepancy and see if the sum is not some footing which has been improperly forwarded or posted, or the posting of this footing may have been omitted. Errors of one figure are usually mistakes in addition. Verify the additions of the ledgers and the various books from which totals are posted. If dollars have been written as cents, or vice versa, dividing the difference by 9, 99, or 999 respectively will indicate a figure which has been misplaced one, two, or three orders to the right or left.

10. The following is a statement of everything inventoried at this time :

The Net Purchases, $8000, are transferred to the Merchandise General account, and then the total purchases appear on the debit side of that account. Enter the inventory, $4500, record the Cost of Sales, $9500; transfer this last item to the Merchandise Sales account. The balance of this account now shows the Gain on Sales; record this amount and then transfer it to the Loss and Gain account.

13. Close the general ledger accounts. Carry each partner's share of the net gain or the net loss to his private account. These accounts should always be closed by Balance. The firm account contains but one item in this instance, therefore it should not be closed.

14. Draw a check in favor of the instructor for the credit balance of your firm at The Union Bank. Receive your monthly bank statement.

15. Hand in all books to the instructor for approval.

GENERAL REVIEW QUESTIONS

1. What new features were introduced in the cashbook for this set? 2. Explain the advantage of the special columns used in the journal. 3. Under what circumstances would it be advisable to open special columns for different departments of merchandise in the sales book? If these special columns were opened in the sales book, what necessary changes would be made in the invoice book? 4. What is a power of attorney? When must it be drawn up under seal? 5. Briefly outline what should be done by a bookkeeper on assuming charge of a set of books. 6. Give an example of a personal account, showing a loss. 7. Under what circumstances should a suspense account be opened? 8. To which of the two general classes of accounts does the suspense account belong? May it belong to either class? 9. What is meant by protest as applied to negotiable paper? When is it necessary? 10. State briefly the process of making a protest. 11. What is the general value of a protest? 12. What is a notice of protest? What items of information must it always give? Who serves such a notice? 13. Briefly outline some of the things that contribute to a good business letter. 14. State some of the essentials of a good letter soliciting trade. 15. State some of the things that should never be incorporated in a dunning letter. 16. State some of the things that help to make a strong dunning letter. 17. Explain how the personal accounts with partners are usually closed. 18. To which of the two general classes of accounts do each of the following belong: (a) the proprietors' private accounts; (b) the investment account or accounts of a business; (c) C.O.D. accounts? 19. Give an example of a cash account showing an overdraft.¹ 20. Name the two leading mercantile agencies of the United States. What is their principal business?

HOW TEMPORARY OVERDRAFTS ARE TREATED

1. The amount of the overdraft should be indicated in red ink in the check book.
2. If there is no cash in the safe, the amount of the overdraft should equal the excess of the cash credits over the cash debits in the cashbook.
3. If there is cash in the safe, the difference between the overdraft and the amount in the safe should equal the balance shown in the cashbook.

DEPRECIATION

The term depreciation, in bookkeeping, indicates a certain loss on property due to wearing out, deterioration, or disintegration. This loss applies to all forms of personal property, such as buildings, machinery, furniture and fixtures, such loss being due to the action of the elements, to wearing out by use, and to other causes which tend to lessen values.

When property is first bought or comes into the possession of the business its value as an asset is the cost price, but as time goes on this property as a machine or a building becomes through use or exposure in need of repair, and this is true even though repairs may not yet be imperative. This fact indicates clearly that the value has lessened. To illustrate: an automobile in regular use is constantly wearing out and its value decreasing, but it must necessarily be some time before the wearing out reaches such a stage that repairs are needed, or that some parts must be replaced. This decrease in the value of the machine is depreciation.

An ever-present question is how to show this depreciation in a way to approximate the loss without introducing difficult methods of bookkeeping. The importance of setting forth these facts depends somewhat on the kind of business under consideration, — whether it is an individual proprietorship, or a partnership managed by the owners, or a corporation which must give extended information to many stockholders who have nothing to do with the direct management or control of the business, but to whom definite reports must be given.

A building in which a factory is situated is constantly wearing out, even though it may be repaired as often as repairs are needed. This lessening of the value is a cost of conducting the business and ought to go in with other losses in the financial showing. One of the simplest ways of showing that loss would be every year to calculate how much depreciation had gone on and charge that impairment to Loss and Gain and credit Property. For example: the property is a factory building listed on the balance sheet at $10,000; at the end of a year there is a 5% depreciation calculated; this 5%, $500, should be charged to Loss and Gain, with the explanation that it is the depreciation on the building, and the amount should be credited to the Building Account; at the beginning of the next financial period the building must appear on the balance sheet at a valuation of only $9500. If any additions or improvements had been made on the building, that would be a separate matter and should be treated separately, based upon the facts; the amount involved would be charged to Building Account and credited to Cash.

Many accountants, especially when the business is large and the property complicated, have devised various schemes for equalizing depreciation. For instance: charges are made every month to loss and gain for $1/12$ of the estimated annual amount for impairments, to be credited to the building or other property account. For example, referring to the previous illustration, the $500 might appear as a liability under some such name as reserve for depreciation, indicating, for the purpose of bookkeeping, that the amount provided for depreciation on the liability side is to be subtracted from the original cost on the asset side, the difference being the true value.

The particular plan for showing the depreciation is secondary in importance to the fact that the property shown on the balance sheet should not be overvalued, under conditions that will tend to deceive those who examine it. It will be sufficient if the amount of the property to be written off is actually taken from the property account.

What has been said about depreciation for buildings may be applied to all other property which tends to wear out, to waste, or to become less valuable as time passes on. Nothing, in short, should be carried at its full value when such value has been materially lessened.

EXERCISE 64

A WRITTEN REVIEW

The following review exercises are suggested:

1. A, B, and C are partners, with investments of $6000, $4000, and $2000 respectively. After paying A a salary of $750, which was charged to expense, the net profit for the year is $2466.24. During the year A withdrew $750, in addition to his salary, B $600, and C $450.

Required: the net gain of each, on the basis of the original investment; the present worth of each.

2. D, E, and F invested equal amounts, and agreed to share all results equally. When the firm dissolved, the resources amounted to $9768.45, and the liabilities to $11,268.45. The net loss was $9000.

Required: the net insolvency of the business; each partner's investment.

3. A and B engaged in business as partners, investing $8000 and $4000 respectively. They agreed to share all gains or losses in proportion to the investment. At dissolution the following were the resources and liabilities:

Cash	$2050
Bills Rec.	4075
Real Estate	2050
Merchandise	9655
Accounts Rec.	2170
Bills Pay.	2945
Accounts Pay.	2788

Of the Accounts Receivable 10% cannot be collected.

If the partnership lasted 1 yr., and A drew out $500, and B drew out $300, what is the interest of each partner at closing?

4. X, Y, and Z made equal investments in a total capital of $9000. During the year, on the same date, each partner added $1000 to his investment.

At the end of one year the resources and liabilities were as follows:

Cash	$2864.75
Real Estate	3850.
Accounts Pay.	1534.50
Bills Rec.	1675.25
Bills Pay.	1480.
Office Fixtures	264.20
Horses and Wagons	376.20
Accounts Rec.	2654.25
Merchandise	6329.85

At the close of the year what was due each partner, gains or losses being shared equally?

In examples 2, 3, and 4, in addition to the necessary statements to find the results or the condition of the business, accounts may be opened on ledger paper with the proprietors and for the other items, and the present worth of each proprietor may be shown.

CORPORATIONS AND KINDRED ORGANIZATIONS

COMBINATIONS OF CAPITAL

Commercial interests of the present day require such large investments as to make combinations of capital a necessity. Neither the individual nor the ordinary partnership can command sufficient funds to carry on the manufacturing or the transportation enterprises of to-day. The result is that corporations and kindred organizations have been formed generally throughout the country.

The Partnership. A partnership ordinarily represents but a limited amount of capital, is formed by agreement, and may be dissolved by the action of any one partner. Each partner, except in the case of a limited partnership, is also liable for all of the debts of the business.

The Joint-Stock Company. A joint-stock company is in reality a partnership, the affairs of the business being conducted by officers chosen by the stockholders. A larger number of investors may associate themselves under a joint-stock-company agreement than can work together effectually as partners, and the action of one stockholder cannot dissolve a joint-stock company. In general, the liability of the stockholders is the same as that of partners in a copartnership.

NOTE. The statutes of most of the states provide for limited joint-stock companies, thereby limiting each stockholder's liability to the amount of stock owned. A limited joint-stock company may be known by the manner in which its name is written or printed; for instance, Walter Baker Company, Limited.

The Corporation. A corporation is said to be an artificial person. It is composed of a number of persons endowed with the power to act as one individual. It is ordinarily organized under a general statute of any given state, but it may be organized under a special charter granted by the legislature. The liability of each stockholder is generally limited to the amount of stock owned. A corporation affords an opportunity for many persons of small means to unite in carrying on large enterprises under efficient management.

ORGANIZATION OF CORPORATIONS

Some details of the organization of corporations will be of interest to the student. The laws of the various states are very different regarding such organization. Persons who desire to form a corporation should employ an attorney to conduct every step, thus insuring a compliance with the requirements of the statute of the state under whose laws the corporation is organized.

How Formed. The following general statements apply to the formation of corporations.

1. The statute specifies the least number of persons who can form a corporation. These persons or a greater number unite in a written statement to the Secretary of State setting forth the following:

- a.* The corporate name assumed.
- b.* The purpose for which the corporation is formed.
- c.* The place where it is to be established or located.
- d.* The amount of capital stock.
- e.* The par value and the number of shares of capital stock.

Any other information which a particular statute may require must be included.

Fees. Certain fees are required by the state for issuing a charter, and for recording and filing certificates.

Powers. The powers of a corporation may be stated as follows:

- a.* To have succession.
- b.* To sue or to be sued under its corporate name.
- c.* To use a common seal.
- d.* To purchase, to hold, and to convey lands and chattels.
- e.* To elect officers and to appoint agents.
- f.* To make by-laws.

Board of Directors. After incorporation a meeting of the subscribers is held to determine the number of directors and to elect them. In the election of the board of directors each stockholder is entitled to a vote for each share of stock.

Officers and Management. After the directors are chosen they elect from their number the necessary officers of the board. The general management of a corporation is entirely in the hands of the board of directors.

Capital Stock. The capital stock of a corporation is the amount of capital authorized by the charter, and represents the combined invested interests of all the stockholders.

Classes of Stock. The varying conditions and limitations under which stock is issued to the stockholders of a corporation give rise in many states to several distinct classes of stock, among the more important of which are common stock, preferred stock, and treasury stock.

Common Stock is stock upon which dividends are paid after certain dividends have been allowed on the preferred stock.

Preferred Stock is stock upon which dividends are paid out of the accrued profits before any allowance is made for dividends on common stock.

Treasury Stock may be either common or preferred stock purchased from, or forfeited or donated by, the stockholders.

NOTE. Sometimes the number of shares of stock of a corporation is increased without a corresponding increase of the property owned. This act is known as watering stock. Stock is sometimes watered in the reorganization of a railroad or the consolidation of different railway lines by fictitiously increasing the value of the franchise or property. To water stock is deceptive, if not dishonest, and therefore is never justifiable. If the capital stock of a concern is not commensurate with the demands of the enterprise, it can be increased in a legitimate manner.

The term watered stock is said to be derived from the action of some farmers in giving their live stock, just before weighing them for market, a plentiful supply of water as a means of increasing their weight.

Certificates of Stock. As soon as a subscription is paid a certificate is issued to the subscriber. A stockholder may transfer his certificate by an instrument in writing signed by him, which is recorded in a book kept for that purpose.

Liabilities of Stockholders. The liability of stockholders for the debts of a corporation differs widely under varying conditions. Ordinarily a stockholder is liable for a sum equal to the par value of the stock that stands in his name.

Reports. In some states the corporation is required to file an annual report with the Secretary of State.

Dividends. A dividend is a pro rata division of the profits, or some portion thereof, among the stockholders of a corporation.

Franchise is a particular privilege granted by a government to a corporation.

The right to use the streets of a city for laying railway tracks, for placing water mains underground, etc., are illustrations of franchises commonly granted.

AUXILIARY BOOKS PECULIAR TO CORPORATIONS

The principal books of record in a corporation do not differ materially from those used in any other business. Several special books, however, are necessary to facilitate the issue and transfer of stock. Among these are the following:

Minute Book. This book contains a record of all the meetings of the stockholders or of the board of directors, and is usually kept by the secretary of the corporation.

Installment Scrip Book. This is a book of blank receipts to be filled out and signed by the secretary and the treasurer as the installments are paid. Upon payment of the last installment the scrip is exchanged for certificates of stock.

Stock Transfer Book. This book is used to record the transfer of stock and contains the permanent records, which are finally posted to the stock ledger.

Dividend Book. This book contains information furnished by the statements of the business and shows the names of the stockholders, the number of shares of stock, the par value of each share, the amount of dividend due each stockholder, and the date on which the dividend was paid.

The stockholder sometimes receipts for dividends in the dividend book. When payment is by dividend check, this is, of course, unnecessary.

Stock Certificate Book. This book contains blank certificates, with stubs, to be filled out and signed, usually by the president and the secretary of the corporation. For convenience these certificates are numbered consecutively. The stockholder signs the stub as a receipt when the certificates are issued to him.

A bill of sale in blank is always printed on the back of the certificate to facilitate the sale and transfer of stock.

Stock Ledger. This book contains an account with capital stock, debited at par value, and with each stockholder, credited for his stock at par value. When stock is sold the seller is debited and the buyer credited, thus preserving the equality of the ledger. The stock ledger is similar in form to the ordinary ledger; it is purely a private book, and is not referred to in making the business and financial statements.

EXERCISE 66

OPENING ENTRIES IN CORPORATION BOOKKEEPING

Directions. After studying the foregoing illustrations, take a sheet of journal paper and make the proper records for the following transactions :

1. A corporation has been formed with a capital stock of $35,000. This sum has been subscribed and paid in cash. Make the necessary entry.

2. A corporation has been formed with a capital stock of $75,000 ; $50,000 has been subscribed and paid ; the balance, $25,000, is to be held in reserve, unissued. Make the necessary entries.

3. A corporation has been formed for the manufacture of paper-box machinery with a capital stock of $150,000. The owner of the patents is to receive 400 shares of stock, at $100 per share, for his inventions. Of the stock remaining, 800 shares have been subscribed and paid in full. The remainder of the stock, 300 shares, is to be held in reserve, unissued. Make the necessary entries to open the books of the corporation.

4. A joint-stock company has been formed for the purpose of manufacturing paper boxes. The capital stock is to be $50,000, divided into 1000 shares of $50 each, 200 shares of which are preferred stock, and the remaining 800 shares common stock. The preferred stock has been subscribed and paid. Of the common stock 60% has been subscribed at par. Of this latter sum 40% has been paid in cash, and the balance is to be settled for in five equal monthly installments. The balance of the capital stock is to be held in reserve, unissued. Make the necessary entries to open the books of the joint-stock company.

5. A corporation has been formed with a capital stock of $40,000, divided into 400 shares at $100 per share. Of the capital stock 75% has been subscribed at par, and full payment made in cash ; the remainder is to be held in reserve, unissued. Make the necessary opening entries.

6. C. W. Williams is the sole owner of a manufacturing plant. He has resources and liabilities as follows :

	Resources
Cash		$5000
Plant		6000
Real Estate		5000
Raw Material		5000
Accounts Receivable		2000

	Liabilities
Accounts Payable		$2000
Mortgage Payable		5000

He decides to join with E. B. Monroe, H. L. Hinnan, and W. E. Rollins in the formation of a corporation. The capital stock is to be $70,000, divided into 700 shares at $100 each, of which each of the incorporators is to have 170 shares. The balance, 20 shares, is to be held in reserve, unissued. The business is to be continued at the old location of C. W. Williams and a new set of books opened. Make the necessary entries to close the books of C. W. Williams and to open those of the corporation.

NOTE. The difference between the resources and liabilities of C. W. Williams and the total stock credited to him is charged to the Good Will account.

7. Sell to A. B. Miller, on his note at 30 da., 5 shares of the unsold capital stock referred to in Exercise 6, at par. Make the necessary entry.

8. W. E. Frye, C. W. Gray, and E. O. Burrill are associated as partners in the manufacture of shoes, under the firm name of Frye & Gray. Their investments are as follows:

W. E. Frye	$14800
C. W. Gray	14400
E. O. Burrill	9800

They decide to reorganize and incorporate their business. A capital stock of $60,000, consisting of 600 shares at $100 per share, is decided upon. The partners are to receive paid-up stock for their respective interests and the Good Will, as follows:

W. E. Frye	160 shares
C. W. Gray	160 shares
E. O. Burrill	130 shares

Of the remaining capital C. H. Dean subscribes 50 shares; Fred Everitt, 30 shares; Charles Baker, 10 shares. The balance of the capital stock, 60 shares, is to be held in reserve, unissued. A statement of the present resources and liabilities has been submitted by the old partners and is accepted by the corporation. This statement is as follows:

Resources
Bills Receivable	$8000
Operating Products	6000
Plant	3000
Real Estate	15000
Cash	5400
Finished Products	5800
Liabilities
Mortgage Payable	$4200

The books of the old firm will be used by the corporation. Make the necessary entry to change the partnership accounts so that they will serve the purposes of the corporation.

9. A corporation is organized with a capital stock of $400,000 to work a gold mine in Alaska. C. L. Bender, who holds a deed to the mine, transfers it to the company in payment for 1000 shares of paid-up stock at a par value of $100 per share. Ninety per cent of the remainder of the stock has been subscribed and fully paid. The balance is to be held in reserve, unissued. Make the necessary opening entries.

10. Ten shares of the above stock has been sold for cash at $100 per share. Make the necessary entry.

THE VOUCHER SYSTEM OF BOOKKEEPING

Among the many modern devices for economically systematizing accounts and properly distributing the various items of expenditure is what is known as the voucher system. This system was primarily planned for, and is particularly adapted to, large industrial and manufacturing enterprises, such as railroad companies, street-car plants, etc.; but the general principles of the system are so susceptible of modifications that they have been found well adapted to some other lines of business.

The system derives its name from a special form of combined abstract of invoice and receipt known as a voucher, which is issued for purchases and other expenditures of the business. Where the system is found in its highest stage of development it is characterized by approved methods for filing paid and unpaid bills and recording firm and corporate disbursements. The method of filing vouchers, the classification and the distribution of amounts paid, etc., vary greatly in different lines of business.

In the bookkeeping of large railroad concerns and kindred organizations, vouchers are usually issued for absolutely everything in the way of expenditures connected with the business, the fundamental idea being to have every recorded transaction, as far as possible and practicable, evidenced by a paper or voucher filed in the office. Some houses use vouchers only in making payments for certain classes of goods, usually such articles as are used in manufacturing processes, etc., the cost of which it is generally desirable to enter in separate accounts in the books of record.

Manner of issuing Vouchers. Vouchers are issued for both paid and unpaid bills. As soon as any bill has been received and audited a voucher, conveniently numbered, is issued for the transaction. The voucher is simply an abstract of the bill or the invoice with the necessary

When any bill is paid, the voucher representing it is detached from the stub and presented to some officer of the firm for approval and signature. The voucher is then sent, with a check, to the creditor. He signs the receipt printed at the bottom of the voucher and returns it. This voucher, when returned, is filed for reference.

For time purchases a voucher is made out at the time the goods are received and the bill is audited. It is not detached from the stub of the voucher book until the time of payment. When the bill becomes due the voucher is detached from the voucher stub in the regular way and presented to the proper officer for approval and signature. It is then sent away the same as the voucher used on a cash bill.

Model Voucher Book. The model voucher book given on page 311 is self-explanatory. The form of voucher given shows that the United States Whip Company, of Boston, Mass., has purchased of Bradley, Morgan & Co., of New York, goods as per invoice No. 74, amounting to $1269.40, for which a cash payment was made on Feb. 6, less 2%. The receipt at the bottom of the voucher shows that Bradley, Morgan & Co. received the remittance Feb. 7. The stub gives a complete history of everything connected with the voucher.

Voucher Check. Payment for the voucher illustrated on page 311 was made by check. Many houses print the voucher and the voucher check as one blank (see page 310), to insure an early return of the voucher. When this is done it is necessary that the voucher be returned with the check, through the bank, before payment can be received. Banks, however, object to the handling of this form of check, and what is known as the voucher check is largely taking the place of the old form of attached voucher and check. The illustration following is suggestive of the usual form of a voucher check.

The Object of this set is to illustrate corporation bookkeeping, as applied to manufacturing interests, including the organization of a corporation, and the opening, the conducting, and the closing of a set of corporation books.

The Special Features of this set are the classification of the Merchandise and Expense accounts.

As the student has been given extensive work in business practice in the preceding sets and is now familiar with the various forms used in business, this set presents the theory of manufacturing bookkeeping.

The voucher system is sometimes used in general corporation bookkeeping. This set does not attempt to illustrate this system; however, it is explained and illustrated in the preceding pages. Both the instructor and the student should give careful attention to this explanatory statement.

The Books used in this set are the journal, the cashbook, the petty cashbook, the invoice register, the sales book, the general ledger, the sales ledger, and the purchase ledger. With the exception of the cashbook, the petty cashbook, and the invoice register, the books are the same as those used in the preceding sets of this text.

Cashbook. The cashbook is provided with special columns for accounts receivable, accounts payable, and merchandise. These columns are similar to those of the cashbooks used in Sets VI and VII. In addition to columns for net cash and discount, a column is provided for accounts receivable and accounts payable. These columns record the amounts that are to be posted to the sales ledger and the purchase ledger respectively, and the totals of these columns indicate the amounts to be posted to the general ledger, when the books are closed. The special column for merchandise on the left side is for recording cash sales. Refer to the model cashbook, pages 314 and 315.

A Controlling Account is an account kept in the general ledger for the purpose of proving the accuracy of some subsidiary record.

Accounts Receivable and Accounts Payable are illustrations of controlling accounts, as they prove the correctness of the sales ledger and the purchase ledger.

Petty Cashbook. This book is used for recording small expenditures of cash. The ruling of an ordinary journal page is a form of a petty cashbook. All receipts are to be placed in the first money column and all payments in the second money column. Special columns may be used if desired. The form of the petty cashbook is illustrated on page 321.

Invoice Register. The invoice register is not essentially different from the purchase book with which the student is already familiar. In a manufacturing business it is desirable that the cost of the various manufacturing products be kept in separate accounts in the ledger. This necessitates the addition of a number of special columns in the invoice register for the proper distribution of all raw material bought. When an invoice is received it is audited and entered in the invoice register. The first part of the record is the same as that of the ordinary purchase book. After this part of the record is complete, the amount of the purchase is carried to the proper distributing column. In this set the purchasers are credited weekly for the amount of the invoice, and at the end of the month Accounts Payable is credited for the total of the amount column. Instead of debiting Merchandise, as is done when the ordinary purchase book is used, each of the articles used in manufacturing should have a separate account under the names appearing at the heads of the several columns. Care should be taken to check properly all items posted. (See model on pages 314 and 315.)

Close the main cashbook. Consult the model cashbook on pages 314 and 315. The discount columns are termed contra columns. The meaning is this: The discount on the left side of the cashbook is a debit; but it is placed there for convenience. By this arrangement the discount, the net cash, and the total of any invoice paid are shown together. The same explanation applies to the discount column on the right side of the cashbook. This column represents a credit. The footing of the discount column on the left side is carried to the summary on the right side. The footing of the column on the right side is carried to the summary on the left side. This places each footing in its proper place for posting.

Post the summary of the cashbook to the main ledger.

Close the sales book and make the following entry for the total footing: Accounts Receivable to Merchandise. Post the entry.

Close the invoice register. Consult the model on pages 314 and 315.

From the invoice register post the footing of the Amount column to the credit of Accounts Payable in the main ledger, and debit the footing of each distributing column to its proper account in the general ledger. This completes the posting to the general ledger.

As the sales book and the amount column of the invoice register have been posted to the sales ledger and the purchase ledger respectively, and the items from the accounts receivable and accounts payable columns of the main cashbook have been posted at the end of each week, all posting is now completed.

The student will now make a trial balance from the main ledger. Have it approved by the instructor. Make an abstract of the purchase ledger and prove it with the Accounts Payable in the general ledger. Make an abstract of the sales ledger and prove it with the Accounts Receivable in the general ledger.

Make a statement of losses and gains, referring to the model given on pages 328 and 329.

After giving careful attention to the illustration in the text, make the statement of losses and gains from the trial balance made from your own books. Divide the Freight and Cartage equally between material cost (in-freight) and selling expense.

We divide Freight and Cartage because the carting of material from the freight station to the factory adds to the cost of the material bought, and the carting to the freight station of the manufactured goods sold adds to the expense of sales.

Make a statement of resources and liabilities.

The above statements are necessary in order that the board of directors may be informed regarding the condition of the business before declaring a dividend. The following outline will suggest the form of resource and liability statement to be used. The student will supply amounts from his own ledger.

Resources

Cash, per cashbook
 Finished Goods, per inventory
 Raw Material, per inventory
 Incidentals, per inventory Accounts Receivable, due the business
 Machinery, per inventory
 Bills Receivable, on hand

Liabilities

Capital Stock, par value
 Accounts Payable, due from the business
Loss and Gain, per statement

CLOSING ACCOUNTS RELATING TO MERCHANDISE

Raw Material. The classification of accounts with raw material has been explained and illustrated in connection with the invoice register on page 315. In closing the ledger these accounts are transferred to the Merchandise account. If all raw material had been consumed, there would be no inventories on hand. Therefore all inventories in these accounts represent unconsumed raw material. In order that the Merchandise account may show just what it has cost, in raw material, to manufacture goods, these accounts are closed into the Merchandise account.

Labor. The labor required for the production of finished goods also represents an element of cost in merchandise. Therefore this account is closed into the Merchandise account.

The following is the list of the accounts to be closed into the Merchandise account, according to the model given herewith:

Whalebone	Thread	Leather and Cloth
Rawhide	Trimnings	Sundries
Wood Butts	Paints and Oils	Labor
Reeds	Hardware	Mdse. Discounts

The following accounts have inventories:

Whalebone	$135.80	Trimnings	$64.20
Rawhide	148.75	Paints and Oils	66.70
Wood Butts	28.60	Hardware	35.
Reeds	1020.	Leather and Cloth	56.45
Thread	110.	Sundries	18.50

In the accounts named above which have no inventory the full balance is closed into the Merchandise account.

Do not close the Merchandise account at this point.

Incidentals. A third element in the manufacture of goods is incidental expenses. As a matter of fact, all expenses are incurred as a means of carrying on the manufacturing interests, and all money paid out for incidental expenses simply adds to the cost of goods. These incidental items are of importance in closing the books, as showing what relation they bear to the total cost. These accounts are closed into the Expense account as a means of knowing what the total incidentals represent, and then the Expense account is closed into the Merchandise account. The inventories represent raw material on hand belonging to the incidental accounts. The manner of closing is indicated on page 333.

The following is the list of the accounts to be closed into the Expense account, according to the model given herewith:

| Freight and Cartage | Fuel, Light, and Rent |
| Agents' Salaries | Salaries |

The following accounts have inventories:

|--------------------------|---------|-----------------------|-------|
| Printing and Advertising | $10.25 | Fuel, Light, and Rent | $50. |
| Insurance | 85. | Shipping | 11.30 |

In those accounts above which have no inventory the full balance is closed into the Expense account.

After the above accounts have been closed into the Expense account close the Expense account into the Merchandise account.

TO THE INSTRUCTOR. If you deem it preferable, the Expense account may be closed directly into the Loss and Gain account. If this is done, the Merchandise account must also be closed into the Loss and Gain account, without reference to the Expense account.

The Merchandise Inventory, the finished goods on hand, is $1285.46.

Closing the Merchandise Account. Enter the inventory in the Merchandise account, find the gain, and close the account as usual.

The Machinery account is inventoried at cost.

Closing the Loss and Gain Account. In this set the closing of the Loss and Gain account is effected by a journal entry, as follows:

Loss and Gain	$323.50
To Dividend account		$300.
To Undivided Profits		23.50

Dividends are usually declared quarterly, semiannually, or annually. In this set, in order that the student may have the work of closing the Loss and Gain account, a monthly dividend will be declared.

At a meeting of the board of directors, a statement of the business having been presented, a dividend of 2% on the capital stock was declared. Compute the dividend and then make a journal entry similar to the one given. The net gain will be verified by the instructor. Open accounts with Dividends and Undivided Profits. Post the journal entry and close the Loss and Gain account. When the dividends are paid in cash to the stockholders, the Dividend account will then be closed.

After closing the books, take a trial balance of the ledger.

An Analysis of the Merchandise Account. The student will now turn to his ledger and follow carefully the statements given below:

Total sales		$6801.50
Cost of manufacturing	$6070.23
Raw material	$3131.75
Labor	1732.
Incidentals	1166.10
Mdse. Disc.	40.38
Goods on hand Feb. 1	1500.
	$7570.23
Less inventory Feb. 27	1285.46
Cost of goods sold		6284.77
Gain		$516.73

The above analysis shows that the raw material cost, in even numbers, 52% ; labor, 28% ; incidentals, 20%.

APPENDIX A

SINGLE ENTRY

Object. This set is designed to illustrate in a simple and practical way the uses of that method of bookkeeping known as single entry. As the student is already familiar with double entry, a comparison of the two methods will help him to understand single-entry bookkeeping.

Single Entry and Double Entry may be compared as follows :

The books used are very nearly the same for either method. The sales book, the purchase book, the journal, the cashbook, the bill book, and the ledger are the same in form. The general principles employed are identical.

The statement of resources and liabilities is the same.

The present worth and the net gain or the net loss of a business are shown by either method.

Single Entry and Double Entry may be contrasted as follows :

In double entry, the journal has both a debit and a credit record for each transaction ; in single entry, the journal has only a debit or a credit record for each transaction. (See model journal, page ii.)

In double entry all items in the cashbook are posted ; in single entry only items that affect personal accounts are posted. In this set these items are recorded in the first column of the cashbook. (See model cashbook, pages ii and iii.)

In a single-entry ledger only personal accounts are kept.

An itemized statement of losses and gains cannot be made from a single-entry ledger, as loss and gain accounts are not kept in the ledger.

In double entry the separate sources of loss and gain are clearly set forth, while single entry shows only total results and furnishes no detailed information regarding the channels through which these results were obtained.

A double-entry ledger is in balance ; a trial balance cannot be taken from a single-entry ledger, because property and other accounts not personal are not in this ledger.

Single Entry may be used to advantage in any small business, or where the business deals in few articles of purchase and sale, or where a classification of accounts relating to losses and gains is not wanted.

If books are strictly single entry, only accounts with persons are kept in the ledger ; if any other accounts appear in the ledger, the method is not strictly single entry.

As the student is familiar with the various books of record, few explanations are given in this set.

Cashbook. In the explanatory part of the text, at the beginning of this set, it was noted that the cashbook is very nearly the same in single entry as in double entry. The above form is easily understood. All items that are to be posted are placed in the first money column.

Journal. The form on page ii is a single-entry journal. As the student is now familiar with the principles of debit and credit, this form will be readily understood. Just at the left of the first money column it is necessary to write either Dr. or Cr. as a means of determining how the item is to be posted. As only personal items are posted in single entry, only the names of persons appear in the journal.

Bill Book. This book is used for recording all notes received or issued by the business. It is generally divided into two parts, one for bills receivable and the other for bills payable. A full description of all notes received or issued should be recorded in the bill book. All canceled notes should be marked paid in this book.

The notes recorded in the model bill book are from the single-entry set.

CLOSING THE WORK FOR SINGLE ENTRY

After recording all transactions, have them corrected by the instructor. Close the cashbook. (See model, pages ii and iii.)

Posting. In posting, observe the following:

1. Place three accounts on each page of the ledger.
2. The Proprietor's account should be placed first.
3. Open an account with each person whose name appears in the sales book or the purchase book.
4. Debit each person whose name appears in the sales book.
5. Credit each person whose name appears in the purchase book.
6. Post from the journal. The debit or the credit of each item in the journal is indicated.
7. Post from the cashbook. Each item in the first column on the left side of the cashbook should be posted as a credit; each item in the first column of the cashbook on the right side should be posted as a debit.
8. The above completes the posting.

NOTE. Posting directly from the sales book, the cashbook, and the purchase book is a modification of the older methods of single entry, but the plan here suggested saves much time both in recording and in posting transactions.

The Statement. Make a statement as follows :

1. The total of the balances of all the accounts in the ledger in which the debit is the larger represents accounts receivable.
2. The total of the balances of all the accounts, the Proprietor's account excepted, in which the credit is the larger represents accounts payable.
3. The unpaid notes in the bill book are to be used in making the statement.

Before making the statement of resources and liabilities, it is suggested that the student examine the records in the bill book to find out if each note issued or received has been recorded, and if all notes either paid or discounted have been so marked in the bill book.

It is easier to avoid errors than to correct them.

Resources :

Accounts Receivable, per ledger
 Real Estate, per inventory
 Expense, per inventory
 Merchandise, per inventory
 Bills Receivable, per bill book
 Cash, per cashbook

Liabilities :

Accounts Payable, per ledger
 Bills Payable, per bill book

The present worth equals the difference between the resources and the liabilities.

The present worth minus the net credit equals the net gain.

Enter the net gain in the journal as follows :

David Easton	Cr.
Net gain, per statement

Post the net gain to the Proprietor's account and show the present worth as in double entry.

Changing to Double Entry. Change to double entry as follows :

1. Debit each of the following accounts in the ledger with the amount appearing in the statement:

Real Estate	Expense
Merchandise	Bills Receivable

2. Credit Bills Payable with the amount appearing in the statement.
3. Take a trial balance from your ledger; use the cash balance from the cashbook.

NOTE. Some bookkeepers prefer to journalize the items which enter into the change of single entry to double entry. Various entries may be made to bring about the desired effect, but a record similar to the following is generally preferred, since by it all the resources and all the liabilities of the business are shown in a form convenient for transferring to the ledger.

January 31, 19—

✓	Accounts Receivable	Per ledger	2310
5	Real Estate	Per inventory	4000
3	Expense	Per inventory	50
2	Mdse.	Per inventory	920
3	Bills Receivable	Per bill book	428
C.B.	Cash	Per cashbook	1650
3	Bills Payable	Per bill book		365
✓	Accounts Payable	Per ledger		2560
✓	C. D. Lewis, Prop.	Per ledger		6433

The items that are already in the ledger are marked ✓ so that they will not be posted. After the above entry has been posted, the accounts of the business are in double-entry form.

A Double-Entry set of books may be changed to a single-entry set by leaving out of the ledger all accounts except personal accounts.

The Use of Other Sets for Single Entry. If the instructor thinks it desirable to have additional work in single entry, it is suggested that any set in the Introductory portion of the textbook may be written in single-entry form. Journal paper and ledger paper may be used for this additional work.

REVIEW EXERCISES

The following review exercises are suggested :

1. July 1 Frank Wilson and Chas. K. Peck began a Provision business with the following resources and liabilities :

Resources
Cash	$1350
Merchandise	4250
Office Fixtures	240
Horse and Wagon	200
Accounts Receivable	850
Liabilities
Bills Payable	$800
Accounts Payable	940

The partners had an equal interest in the business.

The books had been kept by single entry.

October 1 the partners decided to change the books to double entry. The resources and the liabilities on that date were as follows :

Resources
Cash	$925
Merchandise	4150
Office Fixtures	240
Horse and Wagon	200

APPENDIX B

DEFINITIONS AND EXPLANATIONS

Bookkeeping is the art of making a systematic record of business transactions, enabling the proprietor to ascertain the condition of his business.

A Business Transaction is an exchange of values.

There are two methods of bookkeeping, Double Entry and Single Entry.

In Double Entry, accounts are kept not only with persons but with all sources that affect the results or the condition of the business.

In Single Entry, accounts are kept, usually, with persons only.

There are two classes of accounts :

Resource and liability accounts ;

Loss and gain accounts.

An Inventory is an itemized statement or schedule, in writing, showing the amount of certain assets owned by the business, or certain liabilities owed by the business.

Allowances are made for the use of money, for the early payment of invoices, etc. Interest and discount are allowances.

Capital, at the beginning of business, usually is the amount invested ; at other times it is the excess of resources over liabilities.

Merchandise includes all commodities which are held for purposes of exchange.

Expense is any expenditure to carry on the business.

Interest is the compensation allowed by law or fixed by the parties for the use or forbearance or detention of money. — Huffcut.

Discount is usually an allowance for early payment.

Bills Receivable are the written promises of others to pay us.

Bills Payable are our written promises to pay others.

Posting is a process of transferring debit and credit items to their respective accounts in the ledger.

Present Worth of the Proprietor's account :

Is net credit plus net gain ; or

Net credit minus net loss ; or

The excess of resources over liabilities.

A Receipt is a written acknowledgment of money or other value received.

A Voucher is a written statement proving that some transaction has occurred.

When resources exceed liabilities a business is Solvent.

When liabilities exceed resources a business is Insolvent.

A Statement of the business shows the results and the present condition of the business; a Statement of a ledger account is an abstract of the account, and shows the balance remaining unpaid.

The Journal is a book in which the debits and the credits of business transactions are arranged systematically; the history of each transaction and the amount are included.

The Ledger is a book containing the accounts of the business, the debits and the credits having been collected from other books of entry.

A Book of Original Entry is a book in which entries are made first.

An Auxiliary Book is subordinate to a book of original entry.

A Bill Book contains an itemized record of all notes received or issued by the business.

The term Charge, as used in bookkeeping, means debit.

Red Ink is used for

All rulings;

Recording inventories in ledger accounts,

Entering items in the ledger that are to be transferred.

In closing accounts, a single red line means that the items above it are to be added; double red lines mean that the account is closed, the items and the totals above this ruling are not to be used again.

An Invoice is an itemized statement of goods bought or sold. It includes the names, the quantities, the prices, and the amounts.

RULES FOR JOURNALIZING

GENERAL RULE:

Debit the account that stands for a value received, or for a person or a thing that causes value to go out.

Credit the account that stands for a value given, or for a person or a thing that brings in value.

For withdrawals from the business for personal use;

For his liabilities assumed by the business;

For net loss when the books are closed.

The proprietor is credited:

For net gain when the books are closed.

RULE II. Property Accounts. Under its given name property is

Debited when it comes into possession of the business;

Credited when the business parts with it.

Property includes cash, merchandise, real estate, notes, etc.

That the journalizing of bills receivable and bills payable may be more clearly understood, separate rules are given herewith.

RULE III. Bills Receivable. Under this title they are

- Debited when received by the business ;
- Credited when the business parts with them.

RULE IV. Bills Payable. Under this title they are

- Debited when redeemed by the business ;
- Credited when issued by the business.

RULE V. Accounts with Persons. Persons are debited :

- When they get into our debt ;
- When we get out of their debt.

Persons are credited :

APPENDIX C

LOOSE-LEAF METHODS AND FILING DEVICES

Modern business men have adopted many inventions for saving time, reducing labor, and lessening expense. Many of these have been applied to bookkeeping and to general office work.

At the very outset it ought to be noted that these devices have nothing whatever to do with the principles that govern bookkeeping; debit and credit are unchanging factors, no matter what form of record may be made.

Different kinds of business and different methods in the same business make various plans desirable and even necessary. This fact is responsible for the production of a multitude of devices for carrying on office work and keeping accounts.

So many systems are in use that only a brief reference can be made to them here. The character of the business and the manner of conducting it determine what devices may be used advantageously. The value of any of them depends on the volume of business transacted and the records required for giving necessary information concretely and in accessible form.

Loose-Leaf Methods. Books equipped with locking devices so arranged that leaves may be inserted or removed at will are used generally and have many advantages. The suggestions here given apply particularly to a loose-leaf ledger, but they have a bearing on any one of the many books where loose leaves are used.

As insertions or removals in any book may be made to conform to requirements, smaller pages may be used than in a bound book.

Pages containing accounts that are closed may be removed and filed in transfer covers or binders for subsequent reference, if such reference becomes necessary. This keeps the ledger volume for current use free from dead accounts. It also obviates the necessity of opening new books, as only live accounts remain permanently in the ledger.

By the use of projecting leather tabs, index leaves may be inserted, so the book is practically self-indexing, as the removal of a leaf or the insertion of a new one does not affect the index division.

The ability to remove leaves from a book of account at will is open to the objection that it may suggest to an unreliable person the possibility of tampering with important records, as one leaf can be easily withdrawn and another substituted. For this reason some have maintained that this form of record should not be used in certain books, such as the general ledger.

Card Systems. All are familiar with the card index found in a public library. This is illustrative of many card-index systems now in use in modern business offices. The following may be named as a special advantage :

The readiness with which unused accounting or statistical material may be eliminated, and, correspondingly, new material may be inserted.

The CARD LEDGER is a series of cards ruled in regular ledger form, filed in a box or a cabinet, and properly indexed with projecting guide cards. It is a substitute for a regular ledger. The following are its advantages :

All closed accounts are readily eliminated and new accounts are as readily inserted.

Monthly statements of customers' accounts may be made by several persons working on the ledger at the same time ; in a bound ledger only one person can thus work.

Any account required for reference may be taken from the file, and the regular work of the bookkeeper on the ledger will not be interrupted.

The use of projecting tabs affords an easy method of indexing.

Duplicate Billing. By using carbon paper a duplicate or several duplicates of any writing may be made, either with the pen, or with a typewriter, or with a billing machine. For instance, instead of entering all sales in a sales book, a duplicate may be made, which insures a copy identical with the bill sent to the customer ; the postings may be done from the carbon records, which, when bound, constitute the sales book. The saving of time and the avoidance of errors are real advantages.

Carbon duplication may be used in a multitude of ways, and may be applied to many forms of record.

Billing machines, and typewriters with billing attachments, afford ideal facilities for both original and duplicate work.

Filing Devices. The vast accumulation of letters, documents, pamphlets, and the like, in a large business office, makes some system absolutely necessary, if material is to be readily available for use when needed. This is provided for by modern filing systems, usually vertical for accessibility, which meet the two essential requirements of a modern business office, namely, classification of material and ready reference. So successfully are these requirements met by manufacturers that the production of filing systems has become a large industry. The following are special features : systems of indexing in any form that may be required, alphabetical, numerical, by subject, or otherwise ; provisions for classification and for elimination.

The most common form of filing devices is a cabinet of drawers so arranged that the papers or documents may be filed in either a flat or a vertical position, and may be combined in various forms appropriate to the business to be served.

NOTE. If deemed desirable, the instructor may secure a catalogue containing many illustrations of filing devices, and give some attention to the matter in his class.

Form V. Articles of Copartnership made and entered into this first day of August, one thousand nine hundred and twelve, between Malcolm D. Gilbert, of the City of Boston, County of Suffolk, and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and Chas. M. Wentworth, of said Boston: witnesseth:

Articles of Copartnership

First. This copartnership is formed for the purpose of carrying on in said City of Boston a Jobbing Furniture business under the firm name of M. D. Gilbert & Co., and shall continue for two years from the date hereof unless sooner dissolved by mutual consent.

Second. As his contribution to the capital of the firm said Malcolm D. Gilbert hereby transfers to the said firm his business now located at No. 467 East Street, and said firm assumes and agrees to pay the outstanding liabilities of the said business. Said business is taken over at the net value of $14,225, and is more particularly described in the Schedule of Assets and Liabilities hereto annexed.

Fifth. *Each partner shall be credited with the sum of $100 per month as salary, and he may withdraw the same monthly, for services rendered, or, at his option, any balance remaining undrawn may be carried to such partner's capital account.
